WINDS OF THE TRINITY

Copyright 2016 David Duncan McCann

Cover: Pierre Mignard. The Heavenly Glory. 1663.
(Paris – Church of the Val-de-Grâce)

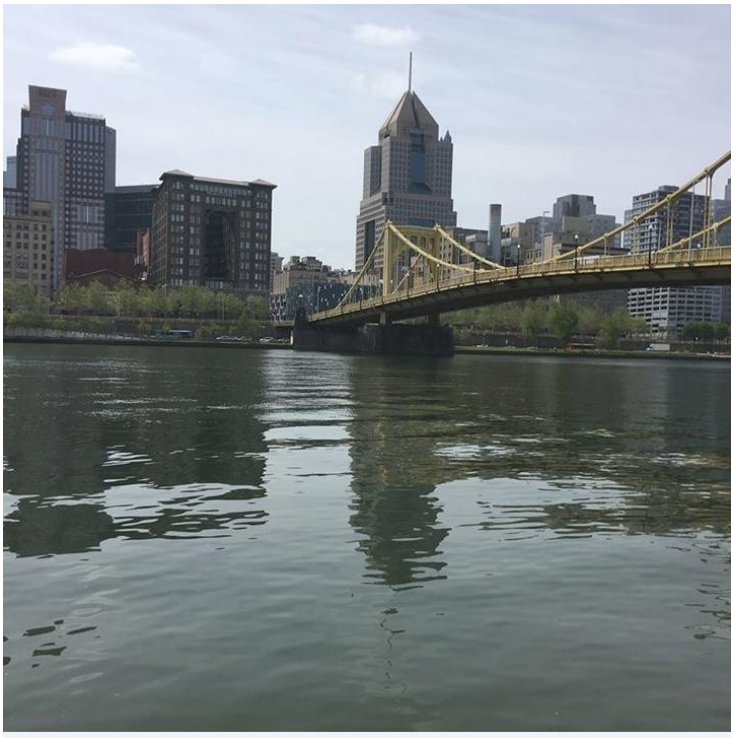
As I looked out onto the horizon, the waters of the three rivers sparkled in the sunlight – like silver drops upon the water.

Another day with the talented high school dance students was coming to an end.

Well, almost. (Garrett McCann working with Francis Patrelle)

Housed at the city's Point Park University, this two month intensive study of dance instilled discipline into the souls of these aspiring artists.

The students had a chance to roam the city. And many chose to cross the Gustav Lindenthal, bridge across the Monongahela River making their way to The Hard Rock Café.



For me – it was time for my nightly cigar – observing the parade of talent walking along the side walk in front of me.

I would glance – exchange greetings, and the students would smile.

My son was not surprised by my smoking cigars – I had, during the time I was married to his mother, paraded around the house – in a pensive state, smoking and mumbling.

When I had more time, I would walk to the site of Fort Pitt and would look out upon the rivers, and in a daze, would look out upon the horizon – the waters forming the Ohio River – and the water sparkled in the sunlight – with silver drops upon the surface.

_____

Knowing the reality, but striving for the idealism.

_____

The Gilbert Stuart portrait of Catherine Wister Miles has provided a focus for research – research that has led me down some unexpected paths of discovery. (Note the Mob Cap)

And in the discoveries – tears of happiness, and too, of sadness have come to my eyes.

_____

This is my story. It is a reflection of the men and women who were part of nation creation; who withstood the ravages of death, property destruction, uncertainty, and pain. But, too, it is their witness to the unfolding wonders of a nation that was "growing up!"

I know they looked to heaven as I have, and praised God with their whole heart and soul – even in the most trying of circumstances.

_____

I have been enlightened by the profundity of humanity.

_____

The winds are upon us. Ever-changing. And they are silent. But these winds move us in subtle and profound ways.

_____

Was there a reason for my standing where I was – at this point in time?

_____

The French and Indian War and the colonies found that security came at a price. But each frontier family knew the move west on to the frontier came with great risk. My ancestors were not immune from this frontier violence – violence that impacted their individual lives and the lives of their families.

Massacre at Wyoming
Alonzo Chappel
Chicago Historical Society

Henry Perry – Sarah Franks – their daughter, Mary Perry, married Joseph Morris – their daughter Sarah marries Philip Morris (Montana Territory) & daughter Emma marries John W. Pfeiffer

"The Indians secured 227 scalps, for which the British afterwards paid ten dollars each." (Sipe, The Indian Wars of Pennsylvania, 551)

Henry Perry was born in 1774. His parents moved from New Jersey to the Wyoming Valley (Luzerne County, Pennsylvania). And it was here on 3 July 1778 that a contingent of British and Indian forces overwhelmed the American forces. Perry's parents were killed and he was taken captive by the Indians, years later to be released.

His life journey would begin in earnest in Pittsburgh, with he and his wife ultimately moving to Ohio's Harrison County.

Breaking Camp at Turtle Creek

One Upon a Time

Artist John Buxton

_____

God, the Almighty, and His son Jesus Christ figured prominently in family life.

_____

We believe in one God,
the Father, the Almighty,
Maker of all that is, seen and unseen.

We believe in one Lord, Jesus Christ,
the only Son of God,
eternally begotten of the Father,
God from God, Light from Light, true God from true God,
begotten, not made, consubstantial of one Being with the Father.

Through him all things were made.

For us and for our salvation
he came down from heaven:
and by the Holy Spirit was incarnate
he became incarnate from the Virgin Mary, and was made man.

For our sake he was crucified under Pontius Pilate;
he suffered death and was buried.

On the third day he rose again in accordance with the Scriptures;
he ascended into heaven and is seated at the right hand of the Father.

He will come again in glory to judge the living and the dead, and his kingdom will have no end.

We believe in the Holy Spirit, the Lord, the giver of life, who proceeds from the Father and the Son.

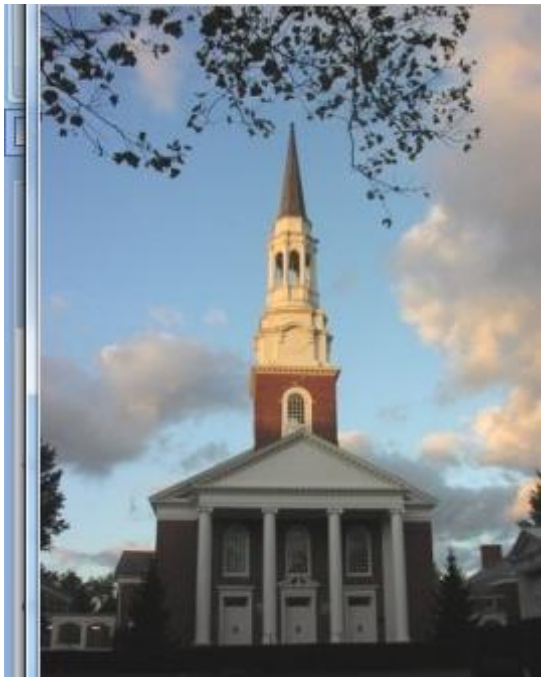
With the Father and the Son he is worshipped and glorified.

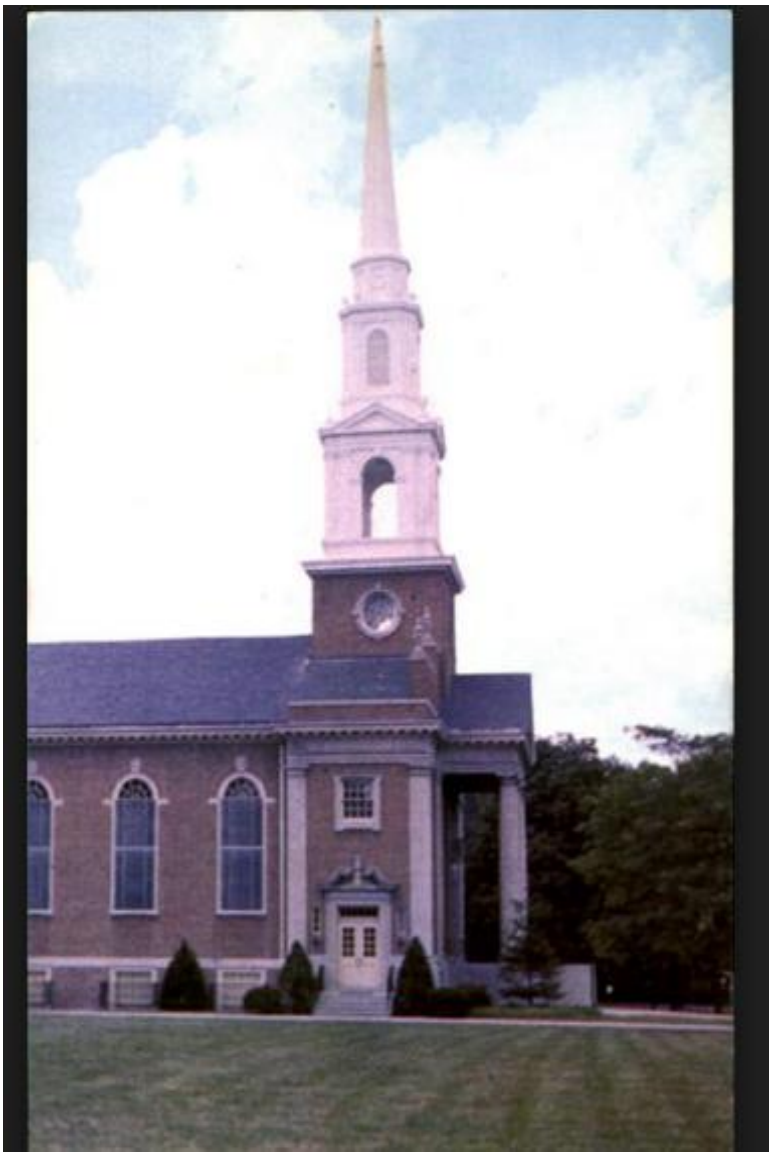
He has spoken through the Prophets.

We believe in one holy catholic and apostolic Church.

We acknowledge one baptism for the forgiveness of sins.

We look for the resurrection of the dead,
and the life of the world to come. Amen.





SAINT SEBASTIAN CHURCH

The influence of William Penn was felt by family members

. William Penn by Charles Willson Peale

For some – there would great patriotic fervor – independence! For the Quakers, there would be the stressful balance of following ones religious beliefs. (The Quaker influence and their desire for a peaceful coexistence – while recognizing, at the same time – the inevitability of change – and negotiating the path between peace and violence.) Sally Wister's Journal provides ample testimony of that stress.

Later, during the Revolutionary War, Thomas Goucher would serve on a jury that would determine the guilt or innocence of Loyalist Philadelphians charged with treason.

The Revolutionary American Jury: A Case Study of the 1778-1779 Philadelphia Treason Trials

Carlton F. W. Larson

University of California, Davis - School of Law

March 18, 2008

Over the centuries the professions among family members have included soldiers, Indian fighters, members of a communal (communist) community of Zoar, Ohio, marble cutters, river boat owners and captains, politicians, civil servants, ceramic engineers, bankers, farmers, renderers of cattle fats, bones and blood they turned into soap, fertilizers and feed[1], teachers, college trustees, trail blazers, hat and clothing store owners, mariners, shop owners, pastors, sewer pipe manufacturers, metal workers, wine makers, nannies, marble cutters.

_____

For me – there are many people who have impacted my life – both positively and negatively. And in my humanness, on these pages, you will find expressions of love, hope, but too, anger and despair.

_____

"If we retire into bitterness, we'll deserve nothing." Edmund Muskie

_____

And to my children, you have embraced life in the most meaningful of ways – and may you carry on life's work – based upon one word "commitment".

2005

2011

Left to right: Garrett Winston McCann, Mary Margaret McCann, Ian Pfeiffer McCann

_____

[1] See Frank Burnham's book The Invisible Industry. Fallbrook, CA: Aero Publishers, 1978.

For some of us – early in life – we are pulled by a spiritual tide that seizes our complete being – and try as we might to release ourselves from the power of the tide – it pulls us again, again, and again. profundity of humanity.[2]

We are talking about her winds of the trinity and in many circumstances those winds with a great spiral. Power carry us forward into a region of lie that frighten us that can put us into despair, it is the expectation of God the Almighty and his Son that we go into these unknown regions and perhaps that is part of the problem in society today We are no longer the great explorers, willing to risk failures knowing that even in failure, Almighty God is with us That we are try to go forward in his Service it is lonely business I can speak of so many examples of being alone in my quest for goodness and how anxious in those moments it made me. But still pressing on even my youngest days of not feeling well and going to school, of bloody noses, of just being alone in dealing the terrible anxiety attacks that would come upon soul God Almighty was always with that learning that at a very early age.

_____

[2] Jacqueline Burg, Bengt Andree, Henrik Soderstrom, Lars Fared. "The Serotonin System and Spiritual Experiences." The American Journal of Psychiatry. Vol. 160. Issue 11. November, 2003. 1965-1969.
(see also Kevin Nelson, MD , The Spiritual Doorway in the Brain)

Near the grave of the little girl that would have been my sister, there is an oak tree. A good 100 years old. Its roots reach into the depths of the earth and its limbs reach for the heavens.

Her Life was cut short one year old but during the emotional trauma of dealing with her death there was a new life in mother's being. Through her grief her tears and wailing, I grew. And the question of the psychological impact that had on me. More recently Elaine Aron Highly Sensitive how there is a genetic proclivity to being HSP. Being aware of your surroundings, intimately aware when the wind blows when the storms roar you feel other people's pain you take eon their pain, you are exhausted from taking on the troubles of other human beings. There is much to be said a baby in the womb of the mother - a mother experiencing great emotional trauma in her life and how that impacts the young one.

_____

Her life was cut short. One year old. But during the emotional trauma of dealing with the death of her beloved daughter – there was new life in her being. Me. So through her grief – her tears and wailing – I grew.

_____

And the winds have led me in multitude of directions – where I have met humanity – in its goodness – in its evilness – its love and its hate – its honesty, and its deceit.

And in those directions what can I say of humanity?

Just yesterday August 2014 – I talked with a man in Mumbai India PR guy. He and his wife have been visiting the United States one daughter a graduate of the University of Pennsylvania, the other attending Smith College, a very exciting time in her life...but the question of public relations… we both were graduate school together at The University of Akron.

One the day continues ...involved hospital cost analysis… how can physicians realize a honest day's wage for the valuable work they do; and the analysis he does all by himself going over figures, painstaking for me on the periphery of, and just know the stress that is involved ; trying to squeeze out every dollar from insurance and the government for the physicians.

DVM put a cat asleep from a lung ailment and in the front seat of the car she held the dead cat gently in her arms petting it even in its death – easing the path to heaven.

Politics, good people, bad people, indifferent people . I can t even begin to comment of what I have seen in politics. There is the mission but when you cross into the doors of any professional organization you should not lose your personality; If you are effervescent person don't lose that effervescence, you are quiet – don't lose that quietness, if you are loquacious it has place, in professionals and in all environments they are to be tempered by the overall mission of the organization, but for you to lose your individuality in the midst of such chaos in midst of despotism in the midst of power plays, never never never.

I can speak of the troika of terror, these three women projected such evil JBM who was censured by his county council for his behavior a drunken despots autocratic women. I went up against them and it was not a good situation. At all.

One has to find a way to deal with that. I did my best Goodness knows, filing with the Ohio Civil Rights Commission, these women did not treat John Stiegel Don Nydegger David Hickman Greg Kreider and myself . It saddens me to no end that my career was cut short by these individuals Then you come to a divorce after 23 years of marriage, and the question of adultery. And the question of the secular court system And the question of the Child Support Enforcement Agency and the overzealous prosecutor. Who is nothing more than a member of a .... pause... an autocratic organization. So to this and the Winds have led to see humanity, 60 years I do continue on.

_____

The Winds of the Trinity were moving across the European Continent – like a hurricane – catching a new generation of explorers in its path and sending them west.

Men (and women) who are prepared to abandon friends and country rather than forsake a religion which is not of their nation are usually superior to the average of their fellow countrymen in Intelligence and are almost always greatly superior to them in strength and nobility of character. William Edward Hartpole Lecky A History of England In the 18th Century Volume I.

_____

It was the 1798 War of Irish Independence and James McCann, hanged for treason, which cast a deep dark shadow upon the McCann clan. He was my grandfather (5X)

(Killinchy Parish Church – burial site of James McCann)

_____

There are scriptures that speak of love – scriptures that should foster the development of good human beings. Why are these scriptures ignored amidst the human jealously that fosters a pursuit of power?

_____

We are all pioneers, from generation to generation; some move actively during one generation, and members of another generation enjoy the bounty. Ultimately, though, we are pioneers on "life's" frontier.

_____

Do not stand pat. Keeping moving. Keep searching.

_____

The Internet takes us forward in our research – but, too, it is a time machine taking us back in time.

_____

The ABC weekly series Desperate Housewives begins with a voice over about "Wisteria Lane".

_____

“There is no sense why anyone other than your family would care about Catherine Wister Miles.”

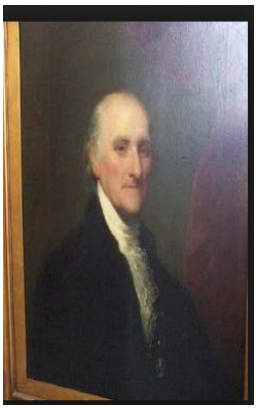
Tammy Gaskell, PhD
Historical Society of Pennsylvania
25 August AD 2009

(Fortunately, she was wrong. Fast forward to the DAR three volume series
America’s Women in the Revolutionary War Era 1760-1790
Washington DC: National Society Daughters of the America Revolution, 2011)

_____

Part of the contemporary pioneering spirit is to go around the naysayers who say you can’t. I shall and I will find the answer with or without you.

_____



I first came upon the Gilbert Stuart portrait of Catherine’s husband Samuel Miles. His portrait is in the Washington DC Corcoran Gallery of Art - now a part of the George Washington University - languishing in a museum vault. How many other portraits of Revolutionary War patriots are languishing in museum vaults with museum directors finding excuses for not having these portraits on display.

Making this historical connection is like electric voltage passing through your soul. There I was on my hands and knees staring into the eyes of my forefather.

_____

TD WIN Philosophy (To Do What Is Noble)

_____

My life has been spent in observation and study of multigenerational commitments to goodness.

_____

I see power, in one human, and their response to the simplicity of the thoughtful written slogan.

Having Light
We Pass It On To Others

Ever Upward

Let There Be Light

It Will be Done

Forward

_____

A commitment – sending us forth.

_____

Robert Bolt screen writer – Rod Stieger as Victor Komarovsky, from the movie (Dr. Zhivago) speaking to the character Lara Antipov – Julie Christie - about the character of Pavel Pavlovich ("Pasha") Antipov portrayed by Tom Courtenay

.

There are two kinds of men, and only two, and that young man is one kind. He is high-minded. He is pure. He is the kind of man that the world pretends to look up to and in fact despises.

Rod Steiger Tom Courtenay & Julie Christie

_____

.

There was the house. 1354 West Market Street.

_____

And in trying to come terms with this – I have, with great vigor, read books about dealing with failure. _____

As a historian and political scientist I am forever trying to put the pieces together.

_____

Shouldn't we be reminded of the infinite power of the Holy Trinity to positively impact our lives?

"Time in the desert and then the flowers appear." St Mary of Mercy Church July 2009 – Pittsburgh

_____

No more than two seconds later, right in the spot where I had been standing, a huge glass ball fell from the sky, crashed and scattered into a million pieces.

The other waiting passengers just looked at me – smiling quietly to acknowledge that I was lucky to be alive.

_____

In cleaning his weapon, Lieutenant 'Sonny' inadvertently chambered one round – pulled back on the weapon barrel, and then pulled the trigger.

Having been hunkered down over my calculator and only seconds earlier leaned backed to stretch – the calculator now had a bullet in its side. Imagine if I hadn't leaned back?

Enter the Trinity. I was alive for another day.

_____

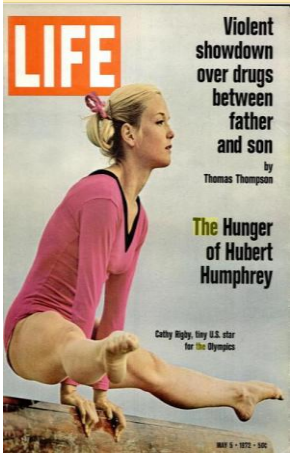
"The choice of garnishment of a burger can be an important to the consumer in this day when individualism is increasingly important thing to people."
Donald Smith, CEO "Have It Your Way' – Burger King

_____

The Confidential Memos of IM Vested – corporate misbehavior – Firestone - Goodyear (Ledbetter v Goodyear Tire and Rubber) – Sterling Jock et al. v. Sterling Jewelers – ponzi scheme Don Lowers

Don Lowers invited his friends to get rich quick. It cost them $11 million

The Man Who Swindled Akron



The Sunday before the Thursday of my hospitalization with appendicitis – something wasn't quite right. So in usual fashion I walked throughout the countryside on the periphery of Haimbach. Walking always eased the pain.

By the following Thursday -

The Army medic assured me it was nothing more than indigestion.
"Here, "he said, "Take these antacid tablets. They should do the trick."

With a sigh of relief, I made the painful walk back to my 12x12 basement apartment in Haimbach.

By the next afternoon I was diagnosed with appendicitis being taken by ambulance for the 50-mile trip to the Army's Frankfurt General Hospital.

Colonel John Arthur Eielson, MD, a West Point graduate, would save my life.

(Patricia Bowman, William Kennedy Smith)

(Late M. G. O'Neil – Akron OH based General Tire; step daughter Patricia Bowman)

Dominick Dunn. "The Verdict" Vanity Fair. March, 1992.

The nose is up; the nose is down. "Sorry folks we have a red light indicator showing trouble with the landing gear."

_____

The air drafts took the single engine Cessna up and down. We dodged the thunderstorms. And now the young boys were playing chicken as the aircraft landed and took off.

Monument Valley

_____

"All these women!"

The impact of men and women in our lives; but into the professional world I went – and we, as

Men were now faced with reconciling our adventurous spirit to the not always bad, but certainly not always good restraints and commentary of our human counterparts and equals – the women.

How many influenced my life – exemplary human beings – others, well – the first generation having power with no idea of the restraints that go with having power. From teachers, and professors, to those in the military, and the professional world

Women coming into leadership roles – the good, the bad, and the just plain awful

_____

The anxiety attacks were devastating; a feeling of dying with such a cold sweat pouring off my being and my heart pounding.

The march of time goes back to my earliest memories as an infant – my eyes wide open to the world and during my first summer crawling around in all my naked glory – everyone was laughing at me.

That was in the Cleveland suburb of Warrensville Heights on Shakerwood Road.

Such an awareness. A memory prodigy? Hyperthymesia?

There is a psychological reason for all this sensitivity to the world – my thought process – and no fault of my mother – but in her grieving the loss of her second child – Bonnie Ruth - in July 1954 – at a time she was pregnant with me – something impacted my being. An acute awareness of all that was around me.

But in that awareness came fear which seemed to have manifested itself, most significantly, when I turned nine years old and was a witness to the open casket funeral of my great aunt Grace Sarah Duncan.

Aunt Grace or "AG" as she was affectionately called – died at the age of 78, 1964.

And in seeing her in the casket –dead - put a great fear in my soul – my first awareness of the power of God – to give, and to take life away.

I was so afraid.

A nine year old kid who could no longer sleep – by falling asleep I was going to die of the same "illness" that had taken Aunt Grace away. Except AG had an aneurism that could not be treated because of her age and physical condition.

But I didn't understand that – even after many explanations – this business of "death" frightened me. So I was given to an assortment aches and pains – psychosomatic illnesses.

So vividly I can still hear the canal waters rushing past the Billow Funeral Home on Akron's Ash Street; in and out of the funeral parlor I went – in the evening March darkness - trying to make sense of all of this. And inside, those passing in front of the casket kept quietly uttering "she looks so natural."

"She's dead!" I wanted to shout. "Dead!"

From the Friday evening calling hours (Some birthday for me!) to the Saturday funeral and the funeral luncheon at my grandmother Pfeiffer's. All her living siblings were there, and their children.

Alex Duncan, Jr. picked us up at the country home in Bath Township on Ranchwood Road – with the Beatles "Is There Anything That You Want" blaring over the car radio. I sat in the backseat while my brother was up front with the Duke University destined wunderkind from Poland Ohio. He was a smart guy – as well as a talented baseball player.

For me, though, the young guy in the back – no one got it.

By the end of the luncheon – I excused myself and went upstairs to my grandmother's guest bedroom. I felt inwardly exhausted.

My great Uncle Dave Duncan from Youngstown – a kind man – spoke of my first name as "Biblical royalty" – a kind act as I was the youngest among the assembled.

But all through the ordeal I kept looking at the chair where she died. Again, again, and again.

The Dorchester Road home of my grandmother – was a modest two story tudor – one full bath upstairs and a half bath downstairs. A breakfast nook – gas appliances – a baby grand piano – green and red upholstered furniture – and the fireplace – with the gas jets. And the infamous junk room – a guest bedroom converted into storage.

And in the living room – the long table was set up – and I sat – ate and listened.

From that moment – to many years forward –the image of Aunt Grace would haunt me – sensitizing me to a world – of pain and hurt – of sadness – and (with emphasis added quite profoundly)an acute awareness of my conscience.

Two year later – my parents were driving my grandparent McCann's car to Florida – and my grand mother Pfeiffer was having her own grieving issues – Mrs. Rousch was staying with my brother and me – and after seeing the movie The Miracle of Lady of Fatima – so profound was the movie – and I had absorbed so much, I had my first anxiety attack – my heart pounding and sweating profusely – I was so afraid that I was dying, that I started racing around the house. Thankfully – my brother and Mrs. Rousch were able to get me to the couch and get me calmed down. That was the beginning of a circumstance that would, over the years, repeatedly arise, unexpectedly, and, alone, I was to deal with these feelings. On a school bus. In a restaurant. In a classroom. (And the notion of counseling was totally out of the question.)

_____

As my brother rounded the corner, I slid down the mound and on my tail was a boulder that landed on top of my head. The blood poured from the wound.

_____

They were pacing on the beach - Waiting… waiting… waiting I was doing somersaults in the ocean then, miraculously, I stood up.

_____

I didn't swerve to avoid the furniture. I stopped dead. Instantly blacked out and come to – just seconds later realized I was at full stop with traffic fast approaching. I put my foot on the gas and blasted through the furniture.

_____

As dusk came upon the neighborhood, I ventured to the ATM to take care of the last piece of business for the day. Or so I thought. A young man pulls out a pearl handled revolver and demands money from the ATM, except my ATM card would not work. Finally – and what seemed an eternity – I withdrew $50 – and then, yelling at the top of my lungs, gave chase as the robber escaped in a white Cadillac.

_____

The pear tree came crashing down toward me – and I collapsed – blacked out – for 30 seconds – to come to and seeing the wires moving to and fro overhead.

_____

He put a knife in my face, and in my best acting of my being in a drunken stupor, I laughed.

_____

Dr. John (Schlemmer) in his Volkswagen made his rounds on the country roads to deliver medicine for those in need.

"Pull down your pants," the nurse sternly ordered

_____

The township was growing and we were housed in aluminum make shift classrooms.

_____

The principal of the school and his lack of fingernails bore witness to his sacrifice in the Pacific Theater during WWII

_____

The first word I remember printed on the blackboard was L-O-O-K.

Back Row:

Deborah Horn, Ed Krupa, Liz Pirsch, ------- Susan Breyman, ----- Carol Barker

Drew Meisner, Tim Baker, Van Davis, Scott Anderson, David McCann, Sydney Scherr, Tobie Landefeld, Catherine Plakas

Rick Lazzaro, Dennis Miller, Ken Pilcher, Regina Lowe, ----- Rebecca Hanscom, George Hoff

JoAnne Kleinbeck, Lisa Preston, Bob Mattias, Eric Wenhardt, Mark Pierson, Barbara Pierson, Cindy Adair, Tom Nilsen, Billy Noland

_____

The pre-K learning socialization skills.

_____

As tears came down her face, I was greatly moved by her story and realized at age 6 that everyone did not believe in the same spiritual forces that were a part of Christianity. She was of the Jewish faith.

_____

The recitation of the Lord's Prayer would end in the second grade as a result of (Steven) Engle v (William J.Vitale) 1962.

The prayer that changed America –

Almighty God – we acknowledge our dependence upon Thee, and we beg Thy blessings upon us, our parents, our teachers, and our country. Amen

_____

Prior to Vatican II, a Catholic boy – Bruce (May) attended a birthday party for a classmate of mine – Tom (Nilsen). The caring Protestant mother (Mrs. Nilsen) prepared fish sticks while the rest of us had hot dogs.

_____

He drove the modest Oldsmobile F-85 Jetfire compact car to work at the porcelain company where he was a ceramics engineer. He cared about the employees. He left the Cadillac at home.

Donald Miles McCann

Catherine Wister Miles

For one man, it was all about the basics. He was generous. A gentlemen. But brutally honest.

Any reference to any history was only in passing and in good humor, as in his reference to the Gilbert Stuart portrait of his great, great, great grandmother Catherine Wister Miles.

To him, the past was the past, period, and history was of little use.

He would point to the portrait over the piano in the Akron - North Wheaton Road home and, with a smile on his face, would quickly say "That's papa's momma's papa's papa's momma!" (or, in other words, his father – Samuel Edward McCann's mother – Mary Ingles Miles McCann – and her papa – The Reverend Samuel Miles – and his papa – John Wister Miles – and his mother – the lady in the portrait – Catherine Wister Miles.)

Photo: Mary Norval from her book Residential Architecture of Roy Firestone

Clay and the products that came from clay were his life.

A graduate of The Ohio State University ceramics engineering program, McCann would, at the beginnings of his career, go where the clay was found.

That initially meant his travelling to the Ohio River town of Toronto. And there he would meet his future wife Mary Elizabeth Goucher McCann, whose father, Samuel, among many ventures, was partner in the manufacturing of clay based sewer pipe manufacturing..

_____

Many who traced their ancestry to West Africa were employees of the rendering plant. It never dawned on me these men were "black". It pained me greatly when my neighbor friends would use the "N" word. I was angrily embarrassed.

_____

The polio vaccine was initially administered as sugar cubes – later in liquid doses in the schools.

My books! My books!

J6 | Sunday Arts

The Plain Dealer | Breaking news: cleveland.com

Sunday, July 29, 2007

COLLECTING AND THE ARTS

Used books: one man's treasure, another man's junk

Usually you can't even give away volumes you cherish

KAREN SANDSTROM
Plain Dealer Reporter

In his daydreams, David McCann imagined he would someday arrange his book collection on wooden shelves in his beautiful home library, where he could retire to read next to a fireplace.

The dream dissolved with the end of his marriage last year, prompting him to move into a rented space too small for the books, much less a library. So last week, McCann, 52, sent an e-mail to about 50 friends and acquaintances offering books for the taking — postage included.

"In the tradition of the motion picture 'Pay It Forward,' I am saying goodbye to books that were a part of the first half of my life," McCann wrote. "And while I hate parting with these books, my philosophy is . . . let's move on to part II of living."

With that message came a spreadsheet listing the title, author, publisher and category for each of his 258 books. He read them all, he said, and wrote notes in the margins of more than a few.

Within two days, McCann had found new homes for about 70 books.

Like many others, McCann held higher hopes for his collection, which includes contemporary titles in history, politics, art, fiction and self-help. As he was organizing the spreadsheet, he imagined he might find a Web site with a message like, "We'd Love to Buy Your Used Books!"

Short of that, he thought he'd find a school library eager to work the books into its collection. Or an organization that gives books to the needy in other countries.

He was stunned to see what little value the world places on good books.

"Overseas folks don't want used books," he said. "Schools don't want used books."

It is sad. It is true. And it is an all-too-common realization for people who suddenly find themselves needing to shed a collection.

"The world is awash in books," said Cleveland bookseller John Zubal, who keeps an online catalog of 600,000 titles. "The Internet has brought literally millions of books out of closets, attics, basements, garages. They're new, used, good, bad and indifferent."

The Net has created a buyer's market, by forcing sellers from all over to compete with each other for titles that are often abundant. President Bill Clinton's memoir, "My Life," was published in June 2004 and sold for $35 a copy. Zubal remembers predicting it would be selling for $8 on the Internet by Christmas. He was right.

The publisher had ordered a first printing of 1.5 million copies, which meant that everyone who wanted one could get one. Plenty were happy to sell after they'd finished reading.

Many people bring book collections to Zubal with hopes of making good money or at least knowing some other person will eventually buy it and love it.

Alas, sometimes neither happens. Libraries tend to accept small collections, but that's mostly for "Friends of the Library" fund-raisers. It's rare for them to incorporate those books into their circulating collection.

Zubal can't afford to stock books that sell for less than $8. What happens to the rest? They're recycled, though Zubal says the prospect sickens some book lovers.

"I have people say, 'You throw away books? The Nazis burned books! This is a good book — there must be someone who would want this book.' "

Zubal responds, not unkindly, "Well that's true, but FIND that person."

Bibliophiles tend to invest tremendous emotion in those volumes.

"They associate the book itself with the pleasure it gave them in reading it, or [with] a time in their life that they have an emotional attachment to," said Suzanne DeGaetano of Mac's Backs, the used-and-new bookstore in Cleveland Heights.

DeGaetano knows the experience well. She occasionally tries to prune her personal collection to make room for new books. A single illustration can keep her from parting with an entire volume for years.

Alas, tough choices sometimes must be made. That's where McCann found himself when he decided to give up the dream of a home library.

"You don't think a tear's been shed?" he asked.

But at this point, the books are "holding up the walls" in the former maid's quarters he now calls home.

To a book lover like McCann, that just doesn't seem right. "They deserve better," he said.

David McCann is generously going out of his way to find new homes for his books. He still has work to do.

SCOTT SHAW | THE PLAIN DEALER

LINDSAY LOHAN
I KNOW WHO KILLED ME
IKnowWhoKilledMe.com
NOW PLAYING
CHECK LOCAL LISTINGS FOR THEATERS AND SHOWTIMES
SORRY, NO PASSES ACCEPTED FOR THIS ENGAGEMENT.

Glenn Whipp, Daily News
"A GREAT SCI-FI FILM in the 'Alien' tradition."
FROM THE DIRECTOR OF TRAINSPOTTING AND 28 DAYS LATER SUNSHINE

HAIRSPRAY
SOUNDTRACK AVAILABLE IN STORES NOW!
PG
www.hairspraymovie.com
Check Movie Directory For Showtimes.
No Passes or Discount Coupons Accepted.
Go to hairspray.ebay.com to bid on exclusive costumes and props!
SEE IT WHILE IT'S HOT!

"WILDLY ENTERTAINING!"
Greg Russell, MOVIE SHOW PLUS LICENSE TO WED
PG-13

Sandstrom, Karen. The Cleveland Plain Dealer. 29 July 2007.

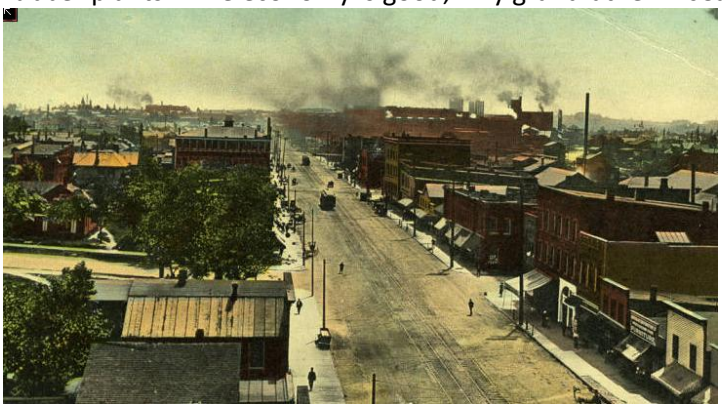
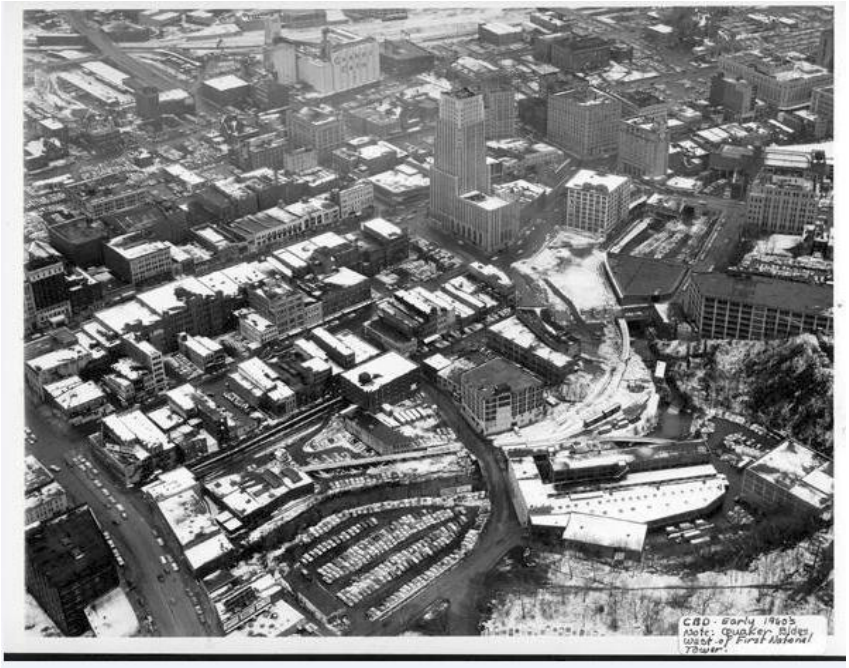
The evolution of the Barnes and Noble Nook; and the Amazon Kindlle set me on a new path for the collection of books. Given my living situation (a one room basement office converted to a bedroom), I have been able to download complete, and samples of hundreds of books. A positive direction for technology.

On those summer mornings – and unique for those living in the country – there was the deep scent from the rubber plants. “The economy is good,” my grandfather McCann would say. He was a ceramics engineer.



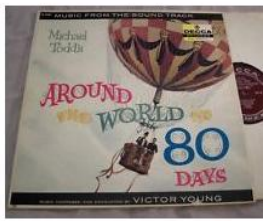


_____

The whole of education is learning to interact with society; sharing; controlling anger; creating friendships; learning the discipline of establishing a routine; understanding the feelings of other human beings; imaginings.

_____

With a small box phonograph (33, 45 or 78 rpm) I would listen to Around the World in 80 Days and from my second story bedroom window would imagine myself travelling around the world – waving to the assembled crowds below.



_____

We made a makeshift oil well in the backyard.

_____

The darkness had an allure.

_____

Snipe hunt!

_____

On an October afternoon, 1962, my father assembled the family in the basement and in case of a nuclear blast, he told us, to put cardboard over the windows – "I'll get home the best way I can, " he said.

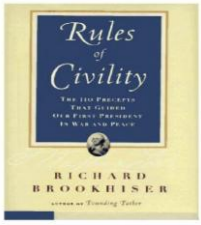
_____

Toby's father (Landefeld) who worked for the BF Goodrich Company, brought in an actual space suit used by the Mercury astronauts. America was going to the moon!

Gordon Cooper of the Mercury Program in the BF Goodrich spacesuit

_____

Each of my children has a copy of the Jesuit 17th Century book – 110 Rules of Civility and Decent Behavior in Company and Conversation.



_____

For myself – manners training took on a more elaborate tone with the selection of three individuals from our county township to attend Mrs. Betty Holliday King's Dancing School in the auditorium of the Seiberling estate at Stan Hywet. (It was held in the basement auditorium of the tire scion Frank Seiberling's Stan Hywet home.)

Now, at the age of 10, I had to cross the floor and ask a young lady to dance with me. She said "no."

_____

Caught in the first lie.

_____

Under the ledge – capture the flag and a reminder of the biography of Robert E. Lee waiting patiently on under a log for the Mexican soldiers on their horses above to disperse.

_____

And, to my way of thinking regardless of who we are – having manners in the keystone for civilization.

_____

Like Max Detweiler (Character from the 1964 Sound of Music) to those who were wealthy and included me in their festivities, my thought was always to reach out. (But could I be myself in their company?)

L-R Richard Haydn, Eleanor Parker, Christopher Plummer

_____

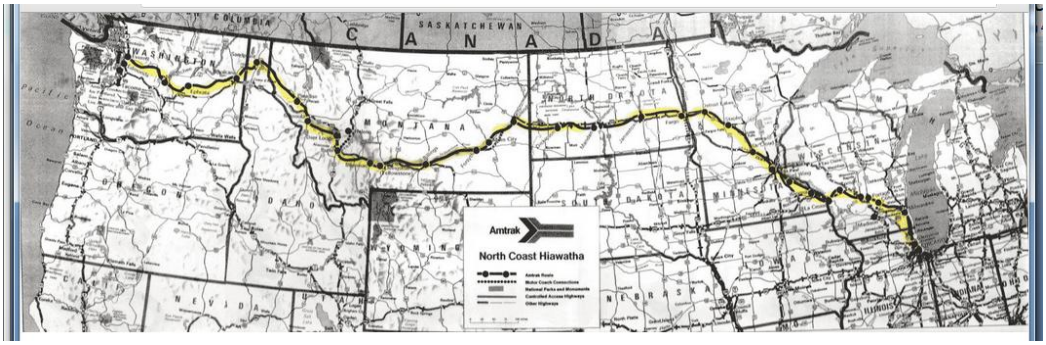
Political structure of the family.

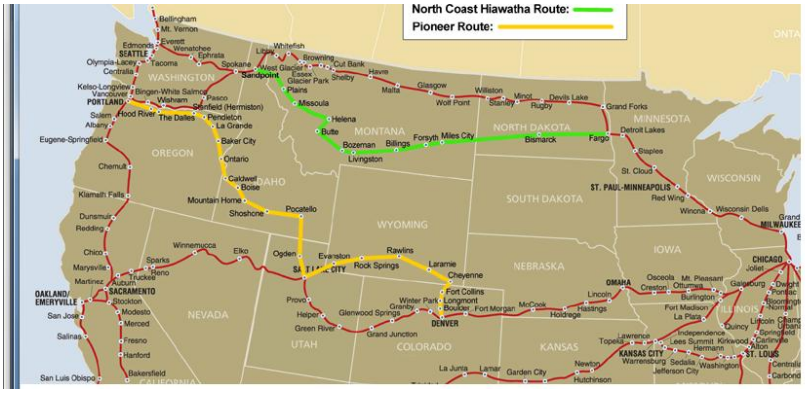
_____

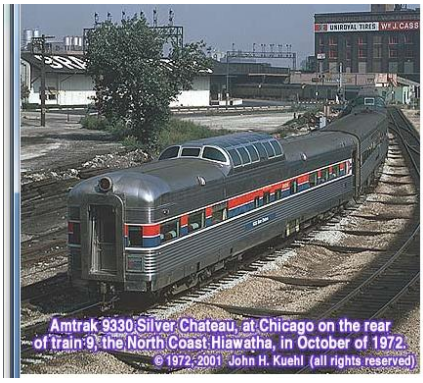
Assassinations – death of loved ones – a friend falling through the ice and drowning – Tom Nilsen -three suicides – the initial realization of the darkness of death and how frightening that was to an 8-year-old child. David Richard Peters, Mark Peters, Don Nydegger, Robert Hemphill.

_____

AMTRAK Northcoast Hiawatha across Montana and the starlit night in the dome car.







Building to Serve

November 22, 1963. And that night the wind howled and the wires vigorously swayed creating frightening crescendo sound in fast cadence of woo woo woo woo and the decrescendo of woo woo woo woo. I was so frightened – the wrath of God was upon the earth.
The Warren Commission
Don Adams' book From An Office Building With a High Powered Rifle

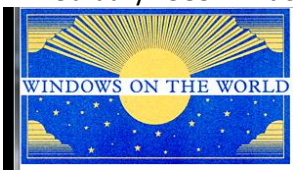
Young Yuri Zhivago played
By Omar's son Tarek

_____

Before the attack of 11 September 2001

14 February 1983 Windows on the World;



Windows on the World, the restaurant on top of the WTC North Center,

March 1981 – below - in the vastness that was the transit center

_____

There she was stretched out in the open casket and I would come face to face with God.

_____

They sprayed his cancerous lungs with silver. October 1957- March, 1958

_____

In the city of rubber – he would be in charge of the garage (Frank Meyers) at the Mayflower Hotel. Knowing when the cars came in and when they went out – and keeping all those noontime trysts confidential.

_____

From a rendering complex to storm water retention tanks on Cuyahoga Street.

_____

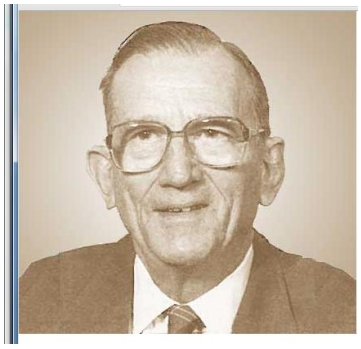
In considering the human soul is something of great value. Who were these people and what was their contribution to the planet?

_____

The Secret Service agent asked that I take my hands out of my pockets in the expectation of my shaking hands with the President. And then out of nowhere – there was President Clinton's hand.

_____

John S. Knight with Mrs. Johnson and the President (The Bill Aylward story and the elevator)



He told of the visit of Lyndon B. Johnson to see JSK. Bill Aylward was assigned to take LBJ in the elevator upstairs to see the man. "Wait!" LBJ said. "How should I approach him? What should I say?"

"Don't bullshit him,"Aylward replied. Returning on the elevator after his talk, LBJ said "That was good advice "

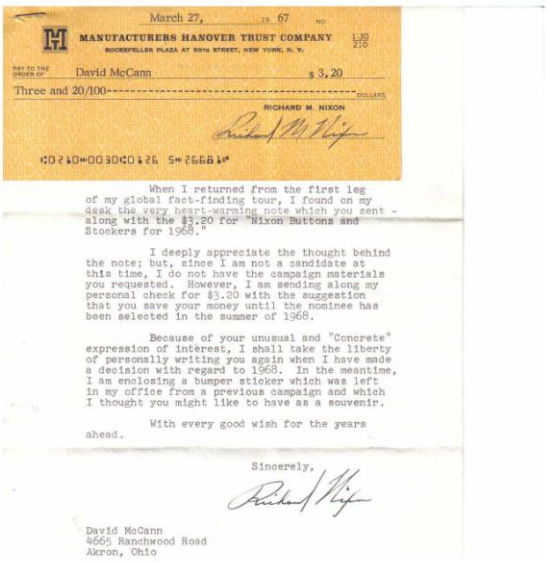
The love of education would be fostered by the fifth grade teacher from (Keesport PA later Bethel PA . A graduate from Youngstown State University this dynamic teacher of Italian descent came into the WASP community – and with his determined effort he set out to change the mindset of 10 and 11 year old boys and girls. / Frank Mayer Superintendent of Schools

_____

Clipping newspaper articles about current events would become my forte.

_____

Waiting in line for our afternoon washroom break – the lights turned off in the classroom – it was a hot spring time afternoon 1966– Mr. Frattaroli posed the question who did we want for President in 1968. "Nixon" I said.



March 27, 19 67 NO.

MANUFACTURERS HANOVER TRUST COMPANY
ROCKEFELLER PLAZA AT 50TH STREET, NEW YORK, N. Y.

PAY TO THE ORDER OF David McCann $ 3.20

Three and 20/100 DOLLARS

RICHARD M. NIXON

When I returned from the first leg of my global fact-finding tour, I found on my desk the very heart-warming note which you sent - along with the $3.20 for "Nixon Buttons and Stickers for 1968."

I deeply appreciate the thought behind the note; but, since I am not a candidate at this time, I do not have the campaign materials you requested. However, I am sending along my personal check for $3.20 with the suggestion that you save your money until the nominee has been selected in the summer of 1968.

Because of your unusual and "Concrete" expression of interest, I shall take the liberty of personally writing you again when I have made a decision with regard to 1968. In the meantime, I am enclosing a bumper sticker which was left in my office from a previous campaign and which I thought you might like to have as a souvenir.

With every good wish for the years ahead.

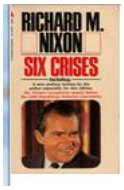
Sincerely,

David McCann
4665 Ranchwood Road
Akron, Ohio

In the Special Collections Division - Akron Summit County Library

_____

Six Crisis was the book for an 11 year old – Hiss – The Fund – Venezuela – Ike's Heart Attack – Kitchen debate -1960

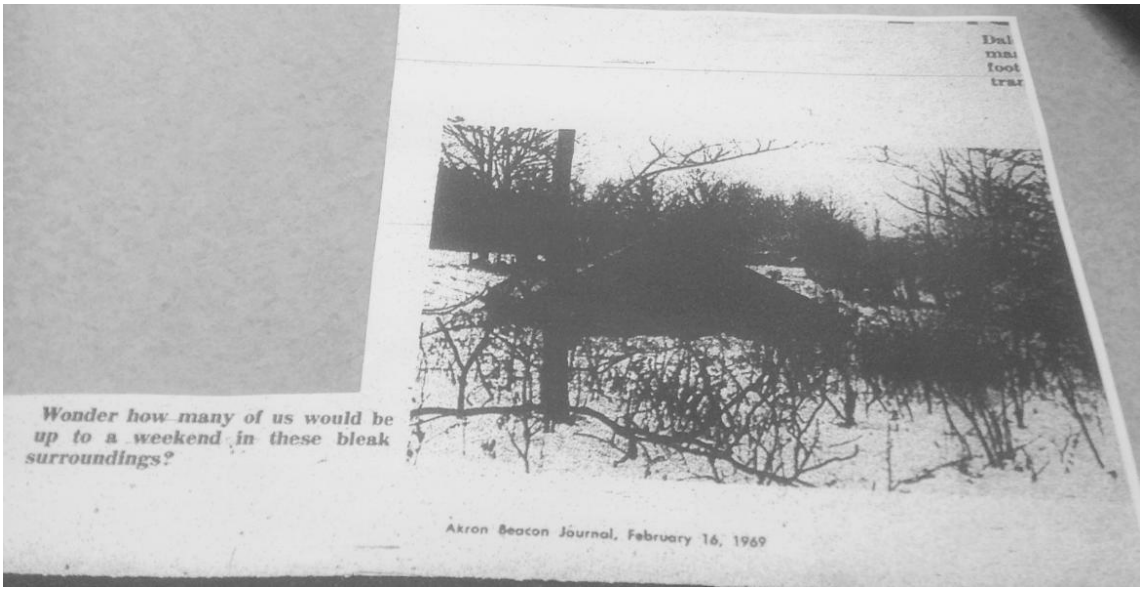


_____

And they were all there – when I asked the innocent question.

_____

In the depth of winter the 12, 13 and 14 year old Boy Scouts would haul wooden sleds throughout the forest.



_____

The Wonderful World of Disney was one of Walt's most creative television undertakings.

_____

"The following program is brought to you in living color on NBC."

_____

NBC Monitor Radio.

_____

We all loved Hayley Mills.

_____

And then, tragically, there were the concentration camps (first review 1968- age 13 Harold Scott history class)

_____

Dealing with shyness a sensitivity to the world – feeling the pain of others in a world of extroverted there was no room for the shy withdrawn human being.

_____

Karen (Glenn) was particularly vociferous in her criticism of what she viewed as my heavy-handed tactics as I tried to move the legislation forward. I felt so alone.

_____

General Anthony McAuliffe "Nuts!"

_____

As a child the railroads were a significant part of my life – leading me in wanderlust of places far away.

_____

The fog enshrouded the train station that early October morning. Just as it enshrouded my mind as I alone on the bench waiting for the 9:37 train that left Zurich.

He was in a fog with his loneliness, but had his ever present diary to write his thoughts about his travels. That always took his mind off the loneliness.

Zurich! He made the weekend trip from his home in Fulda Germany where he was stationed with the 11th Armored Cavalry – the defender of freedom during the depths of the Cold War.

He never seemed really alone on these weekend trips embracing the all-encompassing culture of Europe. But at moments like this, waiting, he thought about his life, and how grand it would be to have a woman at his side, to share in this adventure.

Jotting in his journal he wrote

“Chances of meeting a compatible woman 1 in 4 billion? Pretty daunting odds.” (later 2015 film “Man Up” and made for movie –book 6 Billion People and You

Oh well.

The train came into the station and he boarded. The fog was clearing and the sun was peaking in through the windows of the train.

He settled into his seat for the 6 hour trip to Frankfurt where he would transfer on the train home.8 Eichhorn Strasse.

As was his way, he didn’t want to be thought of as the ugly American so he always wore a sport coat and slacks – a respectable lo*ok.*

Walking down the aisle of the Zurich to Frankfurt Express was Debbie Miller – daughter of a retired air force sergeant.She had just completed her two month tour of Europe and was heading home through the Frankfurt Flughafen.

Tall, willowy and tanned – as she said, she had tolerated the advances of men throughout her trip. Some nice; others, well, rather aggressive. But a sense of travel accomplishment filled her.

But to the task at hand; where to sit. Handsome man. Tweed sport coat. Looks promising. Maybe even a gentleman.

She looked at me. And me to her. Smiling, I said in my broken German “Die platz is frei.”

“Oh good,” she said and sat down.

And so it began.

This was David’s first social encounter with a beautiful woman for quite some time. More of a conversationalist than seeking the physical benefits, he found joy in the mental rapport.

But this time, this woman was stirring him greatly.

The train eased out of the station heading north.

Captivated by her descriptions of her travels throughout Europe, the sound of the train making its way over the tracks wasn't even heard.

Love at first site? Perhaps.

Together we headed to the dining car for lunch watching as the German countryside went by. Schnitzel, potatoes, cabbage salad, and a Mosel white wine.

She was so tan. So conversant in so many things of life.

If I was of a more aggressive nature I would have asked the porter whether a room was available. But the hours were fleeting.

Before long we were in Frankfurt.

And with a few hours to spare we headed to the top of the Heineken Beer Tower where we carried on our conversation. Overlooking Frankfurt, we were both in a mood of reminiscence– speaking of the years of our youth.

Returning to the train station I ensured she was safely on board the train to the Frankfurt Flughafen. Giving her a passionate kiss I said goodbye.

I wrote Debbie in Las Vegas – and received a loving response.

And that was the end.

Or …

Is there a spiritual force that subtly reminds us that love can be found in the most unexpected places, and unexpected times in our lives? A gentle wind.

Alida Sims WSC Biography – and the Golden Learn About Book

_____

There was a snowy - cold - driving wind outside the house in Bath Township – a driving wind pushed me forward in the quest in my believe moment of being an American soldier during the Revolutionary War.

_____

Reaching into the greatest depth of my strength in something so great for one human – the preservation of freedom against the insidious regimes of despots. “Damn the Communists!” I shouted in the final push on the full pack mile run at Army basic training.

_____

My quest for knowledge would be resolute with a routine that would annoy – But the world! The world!

_____

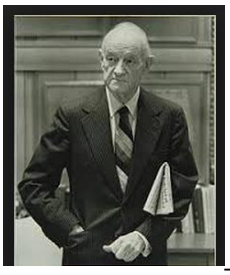
Every day, after school - for one hour – I would get on my hands and knees and read the newspaper.

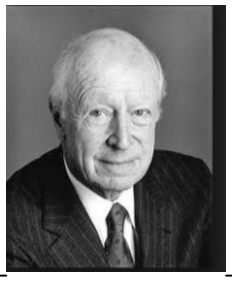
_____

Newspapers brought the world to my doorstep day in and day out. Nose in the newspaper

_____

In their commitment to journalistic excellence John S. Knight would join with others in providing an accurate accounting of the news. Especially memorable was Austin Kiplinger of the Kiplinger Report.





My personal favorite was NBC
UnIted Nations correspondent
Pauline Frederick

Ray Bliss – the architect's son – his business was politics. Organization. Not philosophy. And he was not a saint. He wanted to win.

It was all about the power. Every local community has those who want the power – at any price.

County Executive Jim McCarthy on the far left and from the far right Akron Mayor Tom Sawyer and County Fiscal Officer John Donofrio

Jim McCarthy, Peter Bommarito, Richard Celeste John Donofrio, Tom Sawyer (It was who was not pictured that is significant – Tim Davis)

(In her book Fun Cheap and Easy: My Life in Ohio Politics, It was interesting who Frances McGovern chose not to include in the book, that of Summit County Democrat Chair Robert Blakemore.)

_____

"It's one thing to give 'em' hell – but it's another to give 'em' Humphrey!"

_____

"Building Bridges to Human Dignity."

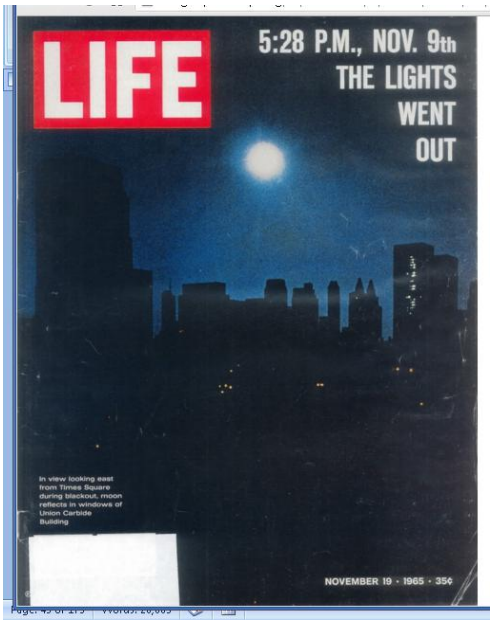
_____

"Out!" Mr. Wilbur (Buehler) and corporal punishment and Mr. Richards.

I was paddled, wrongly. Jeffery Richards and Wilbur Buehler

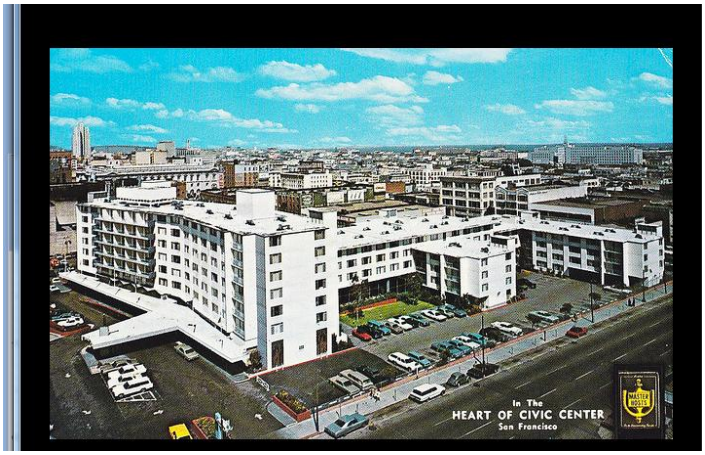
_____

It was so dark – 1965 the blackout and Niagara Falls. The great blackout of 2003



_____

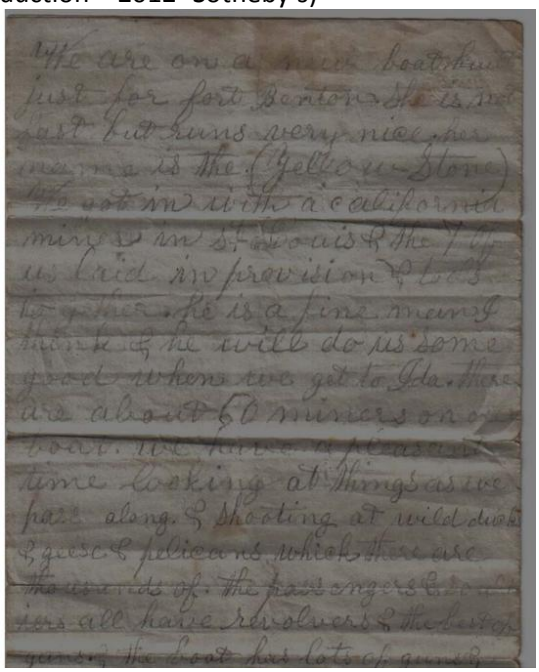
An eleven and 15 year old walking the streets of San Francisco – fro Fisherman's Wharf for a take away cocktail catching the trolley – to watch Dr. Zhivago. And back to Del Webb's hotel – July, 1966



_____

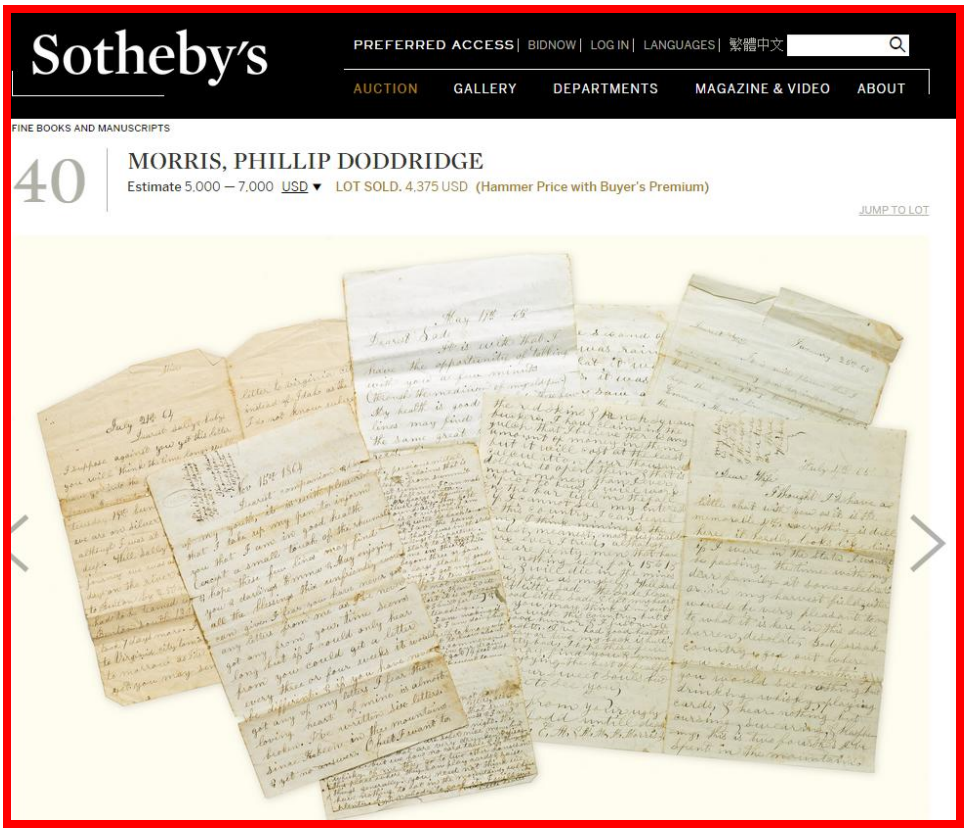
"He was a communist, you know." Grandfather McCann in commenting on the death of Martin Luther King – 4010 Galt Ocean Mile # 508 Fort Lauderdale, Florida 33308 – April 1968.

As she read the letters tears rolled down from her eyes. (The letters of Philip Doddridge Morris sold at auction – 2012- Sotheby's)



We are on a new boat here just for (f)ort Benton …

(The granddaughter of Philip – Ramona Marie Pfeiffer) March 1894- 1981



_____

Government should foster empowerment, not dependence. (Title XX Child Care)

_____

Humans have a responsibility to joyfully walk across all bridges that connect different societal neighborhoods and to relate with human beings – and understand the circumstances of all humans.

_____

We should feel a spiritual comfort in our ability to relate to all human beings.

_____

Being in exile.

_____

Tragically, throughout the whole ordeal, there.

_____

My sense of benevolent communication would always stay with me but again, again, and again I was accused of not towing the line.

_____

The line of accommodation and confrontation changes throughout the course of a person's life.

_____

The Environmental Protection Agency – Age 15 – Report on Environmental Matters

http://www.theatlantic.com/photo/2011/11/documerica-images-of-america-in-crisis-in-the-1970s/100190/

http://blog.cleveland.com/pdextra/2007/11/remembering_carl_stokes_annie.html

David McCann

David McCann lives in Akron

My heart has always been with the Cleveland area having grown up in Warrensville Heights in the late 50's. In 1959, when our family moved south to what was real country - Bath Township - our family's focus was still on Cleveland.

Dad worked for D&B Products on Denison Avenue in the Flats.

I fondly remember as a kid reading about Carl Stokes victory over Ralph Locher - as I saw Stokes as the man with the smile and his opponent as a rather dour man.

In the winter of 1970 - as concerns about the environment were gaining attention among the politicians- as a freshman in high school, our biology class was required to complete a research paper about the efforts of government and industry to improve environmental conditions.

Let the letter writing begin - Jones and Laughlin Steel, Republic Steel, and the mayor of Cleveland were on my list.

As fate would have it, my folks were having dinner at the Kon Tiki restaurant at Public Square, and there was Mayor Stokes. My father, never to let a moment go by where he can introduce himself to dignitaries, walked over and introduced himself to the mayor, and, bless his heart, asked the mayor whether he had gotten a letter from me, his 14 year old son.

"Yes!" said the mayor quite enthusiastically. Pulling out a business card, he addressed a brief comment to me that a full letter about his administration's environmental policies would be forthcoming.

The letter arrived. I was delighted as it completed the report.

I got an "A" on that report.

EP1.2: T66/10/trade. p 1-573
T66 10 trade p.1-572

United States Environmental Protection Agency
Office of Toxic Substances Washington DC 20460
May 1979

EPA

Toxic Substances

Toxic Substances Control Act

Trademarks and Product Names Reported in Conjunction with the Chemical Substance Initial Inventory Cuyahoga Consolidated, Inc.

808 Denison Ave.
Cleveland OH 44109

BLEACHABLE FANCY TALLOW
CUYAHOGA WHITE TALLOW
FANCY TALLOW
Yellow Grease

How could students be killed on a college campus?

_____

Was I an insider? Not by a long shot – but in close proximity to political power was very intriguing.

_____

Ayres Cares.

http://www.newrepublic.com/article/81794/the-essential-sargent-shriver

What chance there was of partisan rancor in Shriver's presence vanished when Powell gave the floor to Congressman William H. Ayres of Ohio, the second-ranking Republican.

"First of all," said Ayres to Shriver, "I want to thank you, because as a poor boy, you let me have space in the Merchandise Mart and I'm still grateful for that."(showcasing his Akron based furnace business)

Ayres reminded us again of what a complicated piece of good Sargent Shriver really is.

The subtleties of Congress and appropriations – from the Scott Stossel book Sarge

See also Matthew McNiece. Un-Americans and Anti-Communists": The Rhetorical Battle to Define Twentieth Century America. (Doctoral dissertation)

The next day, Friday, August 7, (1964) Ohio Republican William Ayres, an opponent of the poverty bill, read aloud on the House floor a memo Yarmolinsky had written. Ayres implied that Defense Department funds were already being used to build Job Corps centers, before the bill had been passed. (Sarge)

Adam Yarmolinsky

William Ayres (R-OH)

_____

Ma'am he needs to wear a jacket in the ladies dining room. August 1970/6th & 7th Floor Ohio Building

_____

I looked up to the restaurant attendants – true professionals - Booker Weems

ND'S
BOND
CLOTHES FOR MEN

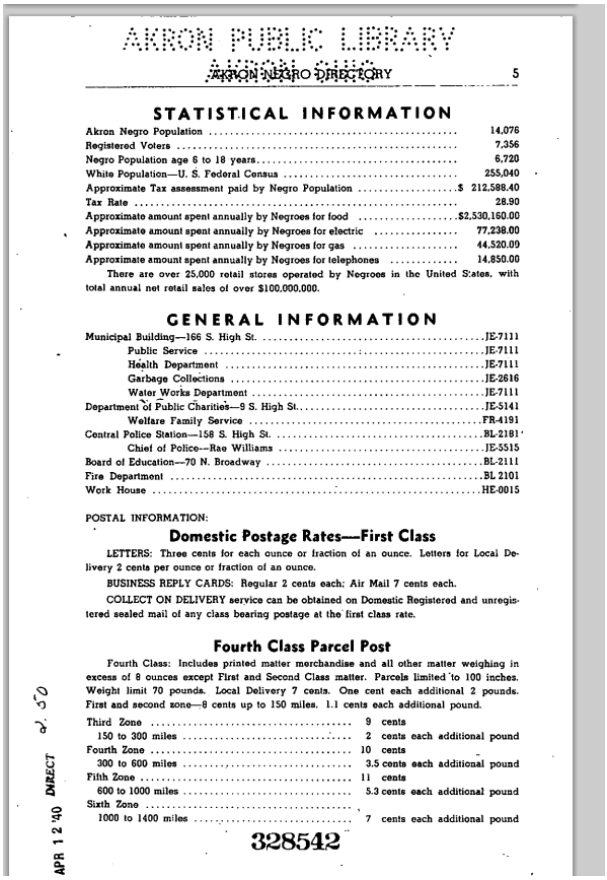
Watson Wilson Wks WPA H 322 Hickory St Res 14 Yrs
Warfield Louis (Etola) Unemployed H 330 N Howard St Res 22 Yrs
Warwick Rufus Wks Goodrich H 697 Lumiere St Res 20 Yrs
Warren Charley Unemployed H 322 Campbell St Res 16 Yrs
Warren Janie H 808 Martin Pl Res 17 Yrs
Ware Charles H 487 Warner St Res 5 Yrs
Ware Charles (Louise) Truck Driver H 1259 Murray Ave
Ware Cora Unemployed H 301 N Howard St
Ware Ed (Virgie) Wks WPA H 324 B Ct Res 15 Yrs
Ware Fount (Leola) Wks WPA H 427 Hickory St Res 5 Yrs
Ware Harry (Sarah) Unemployed H R No 8 Box 2 Evans Ave
Ware Irene Domestic H 122 Halstead St Res 10 Yrs
Ware William (Julia) Retired Pension H 325 N Howard St Res 7 Yrs
Waynesboro Howard (Lillie) Wks Firestone H 100 Glenwood Ave Res 14 Yrs
Waynesboro Howard Wks Firestone H 56 Charles St
Weaver Emma Unemployed H 133 Uhler Ave Res 20 Yrs
Weaver George H 77 N Howard St BI-0183
Weaver Hampton (Maggie) Wks WPA H 857 Washington St Res 3 Yrs
Weaver Laura 857 Washington St Res 3 Yrs
Weaver Mary H 808 Martin Pl
Weaver William (Flora) Wks Firestone H 1214 Edison St Res 12 Yrs
Weatherly Andrew (Esther) Wks Firestone H 273 Eastland Ave Res 10 Yrs
Weatherly Mattie Student East High Jr H 273 Eastland Ave Res 10 Yrs
Weatherly Phebe Domestic H 920 W Bowery St Res 9 Yrs
Weatherspoon Hillary Wks WPA H 395 Washington St Apt No 2 Res 17 Yrs
Webb Bessie Unemployed H 285 Flowers Ct Res 2 Yrs
Webb Henry Unemployed H 215 Belvy Ally Res 21 Yrs
Webb Lewis (Annabelle) Janitor H 687 Corice St Res 14 Yrs
Weems Andrew Wks Firestone H 441 Pine St Res 19 Yrs
Weems Bertha Domestic H 493 Warner St Res 17 Yrs
Weems Booker Waiter Akron City Club H 912 Bowery St Res 19 Yrs
Weems Dorothy Student Perkins School H 441 Pine St
Weems Henry Wks WPA H 441 Pine St
Weems Hovey (Tommie) Wks Firestone H 326 G Ct Res 17 Yrs
Weems Hurshel (Mellie) Wks Atlantic Foundry H 724 Rhodes Ave Res 17 Yrs
Weems James Unemployed H 493 Warner St Res 17 Yrs
Weems John Unemployed H 493 Warner St Res 17 Yrs
Weems Josephine Domestic H 493 Warner St Res 17 Yrs
Weems Jonah Unemployed H 912 Bowery St Res 19 Yrs
Weems Josephine (Wid) H 493 Warner St Res 17 Yrs
Weems Mattie Student South High Freshman H 850 Miami St Res 16 Yrs
Weems Raymond (Trelles) Wks WPA H 850 Miami St Res 16 Yrs
Weems Ruth Student West High Freshman H 441 Pine St Res 15 Yrs
Weeks James Unemployed H 67 Glenwood Ave Apt No 12 Res 14 Yrs
Welch Frank (Lillie) Janitor H 712 Bertha Ave He-2303 Res 22 Yrs
Wellons Lee Wks WPA H 31 Lods St Res 10 Yrs
Wells David Unemployed H 375 Orlando Ct
Wells Mary Retired Pension H 333 Washington St Res 22 Yrs
Wells Sam H McClellon Conv Home Je-8285
Wesley Emily Domestic H 634 Euclid Ave Res 18 Yrs
Wesley Hansel (Mae) Service Man H 775 Coventry St Res 18 Yrs

WILSON-GOSSETT
FUNERAL HOME

Licensed Funeral Director

Business Phone HE-9624 Residence Phone BL-2969
1416 HART STREET AKRON, OHIO

The era of 1936-1941 – Booker Weems



AKRON PUBLIC LIBRARY
AKRON, OHIO

STATISTICAL INFORMATION

Akron Negro Population	14,076
Registered Voters	7,356
Negro Population age 6 to 18 years	6,720
White Population—U. S. Federal Census	255,040
Approximate Tax assessment paid by Negro Population	$ 212,588.40
Tax Rate	28.90
Approximate amount spent annually by Negroes for food	$2,530,160.00
Approximate amount spent annually by Negroes for electric	77,238.00
Approximate amount spent annually by Negroes for gas	44,520.09
Approximate amount spent annually by Negroes for telephones	14,850.00

There are over 25,000 retail stores operated by Negroes in the United States, with total annual net retail sales of over $100,000,000.

GENERAL INFORMATION

Municipal Building—166 S. High St.	JE-7111
Public Service	JE-7111
Health Department	JE-7111
Garbage Collections	JE-2616
Water Works Department	JE-7111
Department of Public Charities—9 S. High St.	JE-5141
Welfare Family Service	FR-4191
Central Police Station—158 S. High St.	BL-2181
Chief of Police—Rae Williams	JE-5515
Board of Education—70 N. Broadway	BL-2111
Fire Department	BL 2101
Work House	HE-0015

POSTAL INFORMATION:

Domestic Postage Rates—First Class

LETTERS: Three cents for each ounce or fraction of an ounce. Letters for Local Delivery 2 cents per ounce or fraction of an ounce.

BUSINESS REPLY CARDS: Regular 2 cents each; Air Mail 7 cents each.

COLLECT ON DELIVERY service can be obtained on Domestic Registered and unregistered sealed mail of any class bearing postage at the first class rate.

Fourth Class Parcel Post

Fourth Class: Includes printed matter merchandise and all other matter weighing in excess of 8 ounces except First and Second Class matter. Parcels limited to 100 inches. Weight limit 70 pounds. Local Delivery 7 cents. One cent each additional 2 pounds. First and second zone—8 cents up to 150 miles. 1.1 cents each additional pound.

Third Zone	9 cents
150 to 300 miles	2 cents each additional pound
Fourth Zone	10 cents
300 to 600 miles	3.5 cents each additional pound
Fifth Zone	11 cents
600 to 1000 miles	5.3 cents each additional pound
Sixth Zone
1000 to 1400 miles	7 cents each additional pound

328542

APR 12 '40 DIRECT

Akron Summit County Public Library

_____

Ask her Dave. She'll listen to you.

_____

Create disciplined thinkers.

_____

As her SAT writing test my daughter set out to compare and contrast the leadership styles of Malcolm X and Martin King. (In the background Reverend Ralph Abernathy)

_____

You don't want to be a helicopter parent hovering over your child's every move.

_____

A divorce caused him to channel his frustration more than ever on his craft (dance)

_____

Our January 21-25 2003 Presidential Classroom for Young Americans Class was the first to visit the White House since the tragedy of 11 September 2001. (Ginger King, Director)

Presidential Classroom Chair Ginger King

And for me, now an instructor, having been a participant in February 1972 (CIA HR Jeffery Willis)

Jeffrey Hinckley Willis Obituary

Date of Birth:
Monday, August 2nd, 1937

Date of Death:
Sunday, August 23rd, 2015

Funeral Home:
Adams - Green Funeral Home
adamsgreen.com
721 Elden Street
Herndon, Virginia, UNITED STATES
20170

Obituary:

Jeffrey Hinckley Willis

Mormon bishop, Jeffrey Willis a long time CIA personal director, while no stranger to public controversy Willis was forced {in one case} to face the cameras personally rather than relying on CIA public relations staff. His comments revealed that Many other CIA men were LDS Ward members, corrosivesecrets.iwarp.com/whats_new_9.html

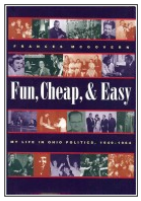
_____

Fun, cheap, and easy: my life in Ohio politics, 1949-1964



Frances McGovern
University of Akron Press, 2002 - Biography & Autobiography - 162 pages
★★★★★
0 Reviews
g+1 0
Frances McGovern gives an entertaining account of her life and the colorful people she knew in local, state, and national politics, from her start as a young lawyer in 1949 through 1964 when she quit politics after an unsuccessful run for Congress. An insightful memoir from an era when the industrial Midwest still More »

Frances McGovern

On that Monday January 24, 2003 afternoon, we were on time. But the Embassy of the PRC was less than hospitable. They herded us into a large unheated auditorium serving us bottled water and sent a low level political analyst to speak to us of how things operated in the embassy.

(The day of the Right to Life March and my having to make a decision to get us to the embassy in a timely fashion - $56 for Burger King in Rosslyn and then to the embassy – get these kids fed! With the angry cackling on the radio from the irate program coordinator – "where are you - where are you?") Recalling the Patton movie – garbled in transmission. Later I was thanked for making the right decision.

_____

George Tames/The New York Times

Harry Dent in 1969 with President Richard M. Nixon, back turned, and Representative George Bush.

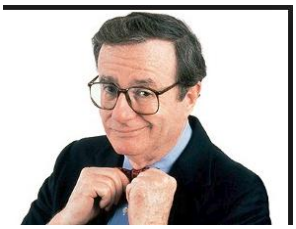
February 1972 – At the Kennedy Center I dashed to the dais to introduce myself and In seeing my American flag on my lapel Presidential Counselor Harry Dent exclaimed "You're one of us!"

CIA personnel director Jeffrey H. Willis a Mormon – gave our Presidential Classroom 1972 the first tour of the agency. (CIA)

_____

Later to visit the agency for a lie detector test and the initial interview with G. Peter Gunn in Cincinnati

_____



February 1972 staying at the Shoreham Hotel the cocktail lounge featuring the comic routines of Mark Russell

They hated my involvement in politics – but it was my passion – my love.

_____

The checking account was in my wife's name.

_____

Standing at the airline counter – Congressman Charles Vanik D-OH seemed to a 16 year old larger than life. (Later in the House – sponsor of the (Henry - 'Scoop')Jackson-Vanik Amendment (trade with the Eastern bloc countries)

_____

Washington had a series of wooden streets as construction continued on the new subway below.

_____

Why should any American be intimidated by the government structures?

_____

I wasn't a Catholic but, at the Presidential Classroom, February, 1972, had been assigned to Sunday religious services at St. Matthews Church It was the first time I took communion in the Catholic Christian tradition. (Later taking up the collection at St. Patrick's Cathedral)

_____

Toward being a Congressional Page

_____

Gotcha politics – Dita Beard and the ITT connection for the 1972 GOP convention to have been held in San Diego – later in Miami.

_____

As I sat in the Shoreham Hotel lobby waiting for my airport connection to DC's National Airport -Martha Smith – from Montgomery, Alabama patted me on the head and in her most charming southern dialect wished me all the best.

_____

Wearing a vested tweed suit – I wandered the halls of the Capitol and ran into Robert Taft, Jr. (R-OH) as he exited the Senate floor.

_____

You're honestly passionate.

_____

It was an intense experience and I went home exhausted.

_____

They just did not get it.

_____

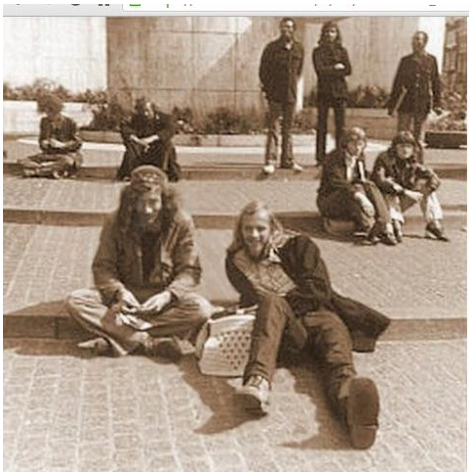
On a Sunday afternoon I sat at the rendering plant office completing my application for the American Field Service. Don Handy and his wife of Martin Road, he an engineer with Hochswender Engineering

_____

I delighted in wearing my Nixon-Agnew campaign button much to the dismay of my father.

_____

To a boy from the Midwest, Amsterdam seemed to be not only enveloped in a cloud of hashish smoke, but in depravity.



_____

"It is hard being married to a saint." Sarcastic comment by Judith Kryah McCann on the occasion of a picnic with the Peters' family and Bruce Moore O'neil Woods 1989

_____

"Patriot's Storm Capital"

It was overcast, and cold. From the front lawn of the Capitol, I viewed the inauguration of the 37th president of the United States - age 13.

_____

TELSTAR

ALWAYS IN CONTACT

Volume V Number 20 Eastview Junior High School Bath, Ohio January 31, 1969

CONCERT FEATURES MANY STYLES

Marches and English Suites will be two of the many different types of music played by the Cadet and Reserve Bands. The concert will be presented tonight at 8 p.m. Admission is $1 for adults and $.50 for children.

Solos by Jim Davidsor on the cornet and Sally Miller on the saxophone will be some of the features. Also a clarinet trio will be presented by the seventh grade. The three players are Sue Bouton, Sue Radloff. and Diane Gleim.

This is the first of four concerts to be given by the instrumental department.

Bookworms Excited

The 18th Annual Exhibit of the New Library Books of the Year will be on display in the library February 3-7.

Students are encouraged to make requests for books they would like to have purchased for the library. They will be able to sign these lists and view the display during study halls. The library will be open in the evening until 5 p.m. for parents to view the books.

The books from 49 different publishing companies are paid for by various federal programs which make funds available to aid in the development of school libraries.

The new books include reading and literature, social studies, science and applied science, mathematics, guidance, arts and crafts, music hobbies, religion, and reference.

Patriots Bruce Moore, Dave McCann, and John DiFilippo reminisce about their trip to Washington D C to see President Nixon's inauguration.

PATRIOTS STORM WASHINGTON

Three of our Patriots took Washington by storm when they traveled to the Nation's Capitol to see the inauguration of our 37th President, Richard M. Nixon. John DiFilippo, Bruce Moore, Dave McCann and a chaperon traveled by bus Sunday night. They spent Monday morning touring Washington, including the Lincoln and Washington Monuments. In the afternoon, they viewed the inauguration and festivities and Monday night returned home.

Dave McCann expressed several opinions about their adventure. On the whole, he thought, "The trip was very interesting and you had to be there to believe it."

When the subject of demonstrators and heckler came up, he stated, "I think it's terrible. They haven't even given him a chance."

PTA's TO HOLD JOINT MEETING

The Revere and Eastview PTA's will join together for a meeting to be held February 10. The program will include a complete description of the distributive education program involving vocational opportunities which is open to all parents, will be conducted by Mrs. Marie Curtis, ROE (Business Office Education) teacher and Mr. Gary Deyling, DE (Distributive Education) teacher. Both teach at Revere.

Additional data will be mailed to parents.

OPEN FORUM REMINDER

Brief Forum tonight, 6:45 p.m. No specified topic.

* * * *

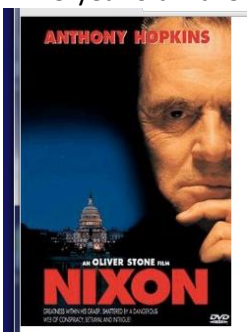
Discussion of drugs and their effects on all students--February 12, 7:30 p.m. Mr. Stephen Gabalac will lead the discussion.

_____

MIRV ICBM ABM – Safeguard was interesting for a 13 year old.

_____

"A 19 year old kid. She understands the nature of the Beast. She called it a wild animal."



_____

Here comes the motorcade. There goes the motorcade.

jfk.hood.edu/Collection/ ×

d.edu/Collection/White%20Materials/Nixon%20Administration/Nixon%202605.pdf

NYTimes NOV 1 1972

1972 See also this file, SFExaminer 29 Oct 72.

The Nixon Campaign Version

By R. W. APPLE Jr.
Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, Oct. 31—President Nixon has perfected the ultimate in campaign methodology—the campaign day in which technique and showmanship transcend substance. It was exhibited in its finished form in northern Ohio Saturday.

Mr. Nixon decided early that he could best campaign by not campaigning and he has clung, with conspicuous success, to that idea. He has left the whole swimming pool of American politics to Senator George McGovern and enjoyed himself watching Mr. McGovern thrash about in the deep water.

News Analysis

But tradition must be served if only modestly; so Mr. Nixon could not avoid a few forays into the country in the last hours of the campaign, even if all evidence suggests that he could have been re-elected if he had never appeared before a crowd larger than five staff members.

Assist For a Friend

A few close friends among Senatorial candidates (such as Senator Robert P. Griffin, for whom Mr. Nixon appeared in Saginaw Saturday night) needed help. Some of the powerful local Republican leaders (such as Robert Hughes of Cleveland, in whose fief Saturday's Ohio motorcade began) wanted to show off the party's star. And it appeared wise for the President at least to make token pleas on his own behalf in the largest of the states.

So Mr. Nixon and his advisers decided to go into most of the 10 states with the largest electoral votes. His late efforts mean he will have campaigned for a few hours in all except Massachusetts, where he is relatively weak, Florida, where he is seemingly unbeatable, and New Jersey.

On some trips, Mr. Nixon has performed conventionally, making speeches, holding rallies and the like. But first in Westchester County and then in Ohio, the President used the motorcade. These were not mere modernizations of the old whistle-stop tour, because they had a different purpose.

The trains that carried candidates across America for a century served to provide spectacle, but they also enabled the candidate to make speeches in a large number of towns and cities in a short span of time, as Mr. Nixon did in 1968. In the Richard Nixon motorcade of 1972, theer are no rallies, no speeches, no news conferences, only the ceremonial itself.

For the President, it works well. He is shielded from hecklers, because the motorcade simply speeds past them, as in the college town of Hiram Saturday. He has no encounters with the press; most of the 300 reporters who followed him in five buses in Ohio got their only impressions of the tour through a description broadcast from a car at the head of the line into the buses.

It makes good television, and for the writing press there are reams of White House statements on drugs or crime or wages and prices.

But there is always serendipity. The President, discovering that the flags in the Cleveland suburb of Parma are at half-staff in memory of a slain policeman, stops to denounce "scroungy-looking people that are spitting on policemen and calling them pigs." He sees a sign opposing amnesty, erected by a family that has lost a son in Vietnam, and declares with unusual fervor that no one needs to worry about that. "Never," he tells a soldier's mother.

It is all controlled in the manner of the Nixon Presidency. And yet, while it is true that the President in no sense is mingling with the public as President Johnson liked to do in 1964, there is an occasional flash of his real feelings on this trip—more passion than one senses in his news conferences or speeches.

He seemed tired all day Saturday, for all his obvious enjoyment of the crowds that lined the way from airport to airport. By the time he reached Saginaw, his usually precise speaking style had given way to loose construction and slurred words.

But it is when a public man is tired, when he has not carefully rehearsed his words, that he most often speaks his mind. Then the tough words about the "scroungy-looking people" and the draft-dodgers have offered the public more insight into the President's views than all of the careful pronouncements produced by the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

From the Ollie Atkins Collection George Mason University

R.W. 'Johnny' Apple from Akron, Ohio

"… but the bullying efforts of the student council president would go nowhere with me."
(The controversy surrounding designating an area for student smoking)

Pictured l-r Jim Antczak, Bill Fogarty, David McCann

_____

Controversy is taxing to the human soul – especially when the comment “nothing personal” is added to the dialogue.

_____

In comes the mini skirt clad beauty (Ellen Garlock) from one of Akron’s high schools – and me – the bespectacled political/band geek. It set the school howling for one day.

Later the Sprint cell phone representative.

_____

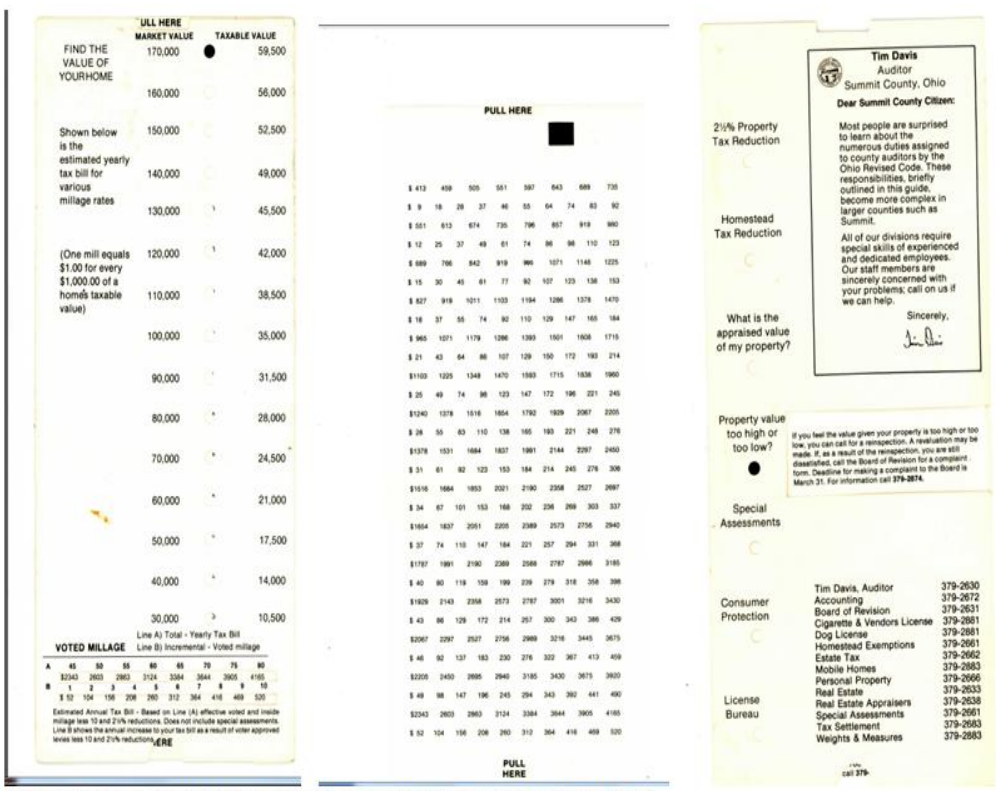
You can imagine my horror in reading the Watergate transcripts. This was the new reality.

_____

David D. McCann

Government Communications: Propaganda or Public Service?

Good public policy stands on its own two feet – no public relations is necessary.



FIND THE VALUE OF YOUR HOME

Shown below is the estimated yearly tax bill for various millage rates

(One mill equals $1.00 for every $1,000.00 of a home's taxable value)

MARKET VALUE	TAXABLE VALUE
170,000	59,500
160,000	56,000
150,000	52,500
140,000	49,000
130,000	45,500
120,000	42,000
110,000	38,500
100,000	35,000
90,000	31,500
80,000	28,000
70,000	24,500
60,000	21,000
50,000	17,500
40,000	14,000
30,000	10,500

Line A) Total - Yearly Tax Bill Line B) Incremental - Voted millage

VOTED MILLAGE

A	45	50	55	60	65	70	75	80
	$2343	2603	2863	3124	3384	3644	3905	4165
B	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10
	$ 52	104	156	208	260	312	364	416	468	520

Estimated Annual Tax Bill - Based on Line (A) effective voted and inside millage less 10 and 2½% reductions. Does not include special assessments. Line B shows the annual increase to your tax bill as a result of voter approved levies less 10 and 2½% reductions.

PULL HERE

$ 413	459	505	551	597	643	689	735
$ 9	18	28	37	46	55	64	74	83	92
$ 551	613	674	735	796	857	919	980
$ 12	25	37	49	61	74	86	98	110	123
$ 689	766	842	919	995	1071	1148	1225
$ 15	30	45	61	77	92	107	123	138	153
$ 827	919	1011	1103	1194	1286	1378	1470
$ 18	37	55	74	92	110	129	147	165	184
$ 965	1071	1179	1286	1393	1501	1608	1715
$ 21	43	64	86	107	129	150	172	193	214
$1103	1225	1348	1470	1593	1715	1838	1960
$ 25	49	74	98	123	147	172	196	221	245
$1240	1378	1516	1654	1792	1929	2067	2205
$ 28	55	83	110	138	165	193	221	248	276
$1378	1531	1684	1837	1991	2144	2297	2450
$ 31	61	92	123	153	184	214	245	276	306
$1516	1684	1853	2021	2190	2358	2527	2697
$ 34	67	101	153	168	202	236	269	303	337
$1654	1837	2051	2205	2389	2573	2756	2940
$ 37	74	110	147	184	221	257	294	331	368
$1797	1991	2190	2389	2588	2787	2986	3185
$ 40	80	119	159	199	239	279	318	358	398
$1929	2143	2358	2573	2787	3001	3216	3430
$ 43	86	129	172	214	257	300	343	386	429
$2067	2297	2527	2756	2986	3216	3445	3675
$ 46	92	137	183	230	276	322	367	413	459
$2205	2450	2695	2940	3185	3430	3675	3920
$ 49	98	147	196	245	294	343	392	441	490
$2343	2603	2863	3124	3384	3644	3905	4165
$ 52	104	156	208	260	312	364	416	468	520

PULL HERE

Tim Davis
Auditor
Summit County, Ohio

Dear Summit County Citizen:

Most people are surprised to learn about the numerous duties assigned to county auditors by the Ohio Revised Code. These responsibilities, briefly outlined in this guide, become more complex in larger counties such as Summit.

All of our divisions require special skills of experienced and dedicated employees. Our staff members are sincerely concerned with your problems; call on us if we can help.

Sincerely,

2½% Property Tax Reduction

Homestead Tax Reduction

What is the appraised value of my property?

Property value too high or too low?

If you feel the value given your property is too high or too low, you can call for a reinspection. A revaluation may be made. If, as a result of the reinspection, you are still dissatisfied, call the Board of Revision for a complaint form. Deadline for making a complaint to the Board is March 31. For information call 379-2674.

Special Assessments

Consumer Protection

License Bureau

Tim Davis, Auditor	379-2630
Accounting	379-2672
Board of Revision	379-2631
Cigarette & Vendors License	379-2881
Dog License	379-2881
Homestead Exemptions	379-2661
Estate Tax	379-2662
Mobile Homes	379-2883
Personal Property	379-2666
Real Estate	379-2633
Real Estate Appraisers	379-2638
Special Assessments	379-2661
Tax Settlement	379-2683
Weights & Measures	379-2883

call 379-

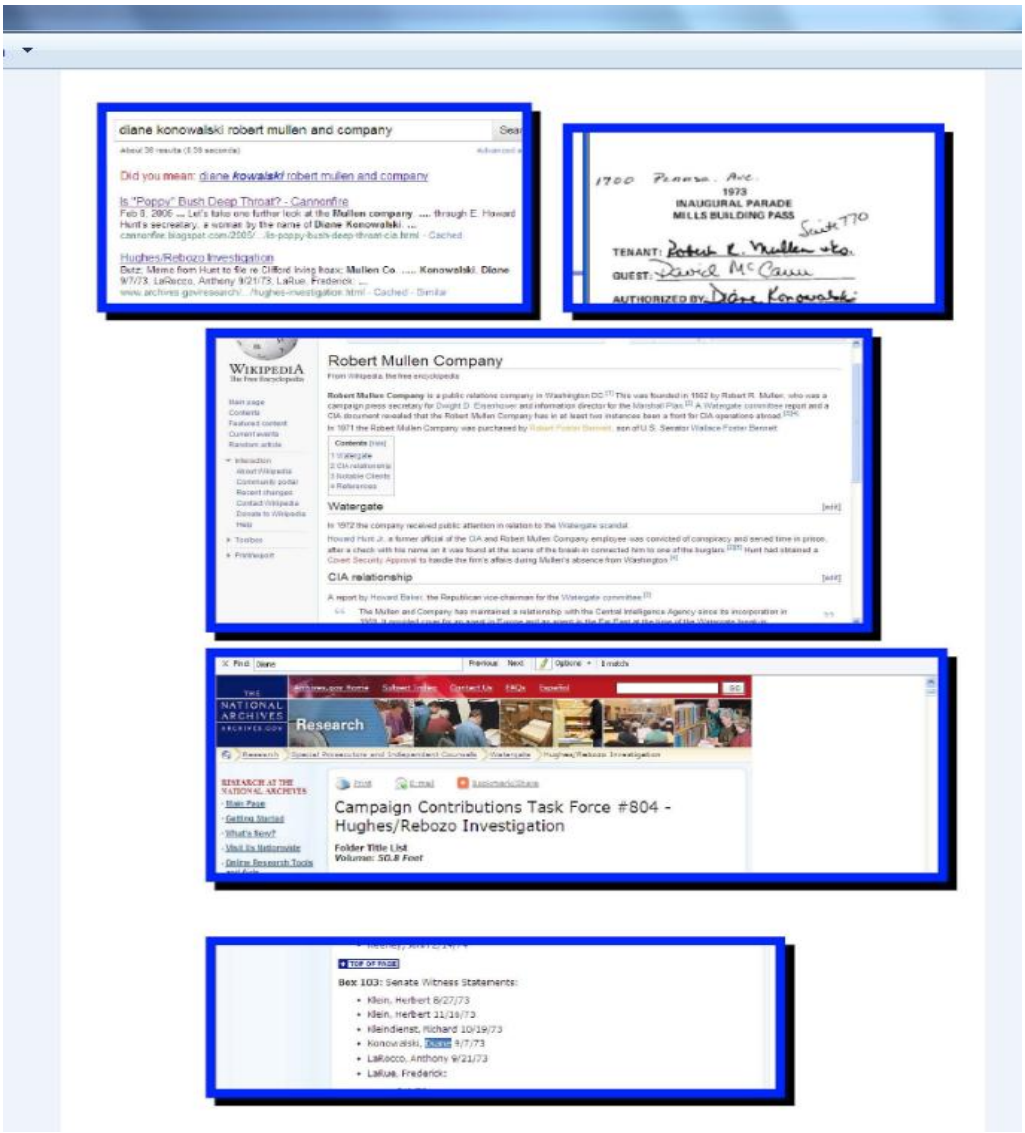
Before computers, there was the slide guide; in this case to help property owners understand the nuances of determining property taxes on the assessed valuation of their property. There were 395 separate calculations that had to be performed; and an audit of those calculations

The secretary for E Howard Hunt wrote me the pass giving me entrance to the penthouse Inauguration Party just blocks away from the White House. (Diane Konowalski) I was just 17 years old all alone in the big city.

Janaury 20, 1973

The key thing Robert Mullen and Company which was a CIA financed PR firm that had in it employment E Howard Hunt the company figures prominently that deal with the real story Watergate
The White House Madam The silent Coup points finger quite significantly to John dean. Dean was born in Akron Emma Avenue, Father a graduate of Carnegie Mellon University in Pittsburgh, engineering Firestone then to Marion Ohio ford Motor Company supplier where Dean went to High School, Staunton Military Academy Bottom line Mr. dean marrying Maureen dean figured prominently Prostitution ring in Washington and the panic Washington Star of the rung John dean to get the book out of the DNC and the cover up that occurred. And the silent coup President Nixon resignation.

1700 Pennsylvania Avenue



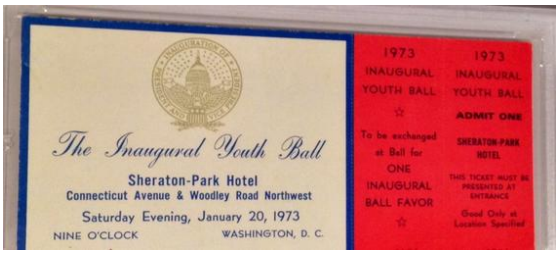
And across the way in beautiful red dress was Martha Mitchell

Good Morning, Colonel! I said (Outside of the Mayflower Hotel – Saturday January 20, 1973.)

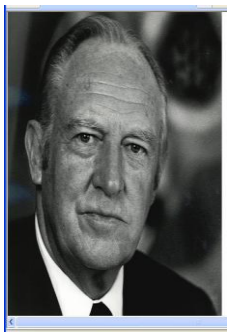
_____

At The Sheraton Park Hotel - Si Zentner a very talented trombone player who amused the audience by balancing his trombone on his lips and actually playing (!) We waited with great anticipation the arrival of President and Mrs. Nixon. Secretary of State William Rogers introduced the President

And there I was dancing with the First Lady.



Si Zentner



William Rogers

THE WHITE HOUSE

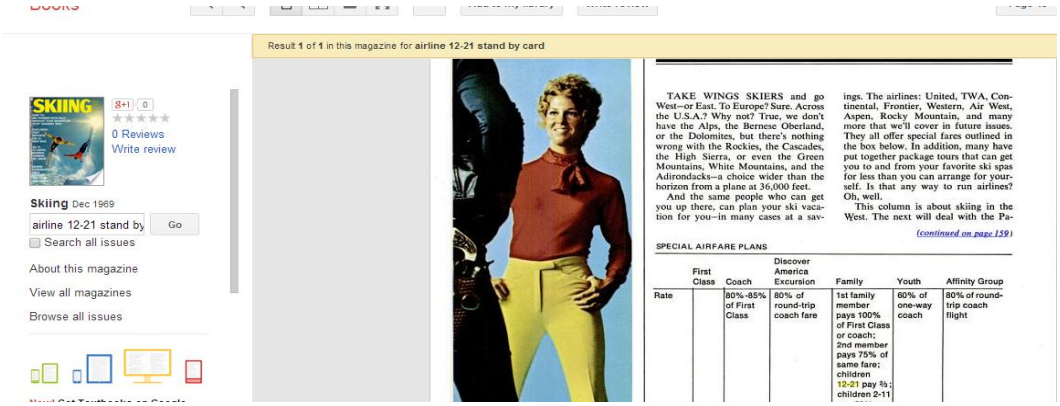
PRESIDENT RICHARD NIXON'S DAILY DIARY
(See Travel Record for Travel Activity)

PLACE DAY BEGAN
THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON, D.C.

DATE (Mo., Day, Yr.)
JANUARY 20, 1973
TIME DAY
11:40 p.m. SATURDAY

TIME		PHONE P=Placed R=Received		ACTIVITY
In	Out	Lo	I.D
				ERRATA
11:40	11:54			The President and the First Lady danced to the music of Si Zentner and his orchestra.

With my 12/21 Youth Passport Card I caught a Northwest Airline flight (The Fanjet Airline) from National Airport to Cleveland.



Result 1 of 1 in this magazine for airline 12-21 stand by card

SKIING

0 Reviews
Write review

Skiing Dec 1969

airline 12-21 stand by Go

Search all issues

About this magazine

View all magazines

Browse all issues

TAKE WINGS SKIERS and go West—or East. To Europe? Sure. Across the U.S.A.? Why not? True, we don't have the Alps, the Bernese Oberland, or the Dolomites, but there's nothing wrong with the Rockies, the Cascades, the High Sierra, or even the Green Mountains, White Mountains, and the Adirondacks—a choice wider than the horizon from a plane at 36,000 feet.

And the same people who can get you up there, can plan your ski vacation for you—in many cases at a savings. The airlines: United, TWA, Continental, Frontier, Western, Air West, Aspen, Rocky Mountain, and many more that we'll cover in future issues. They all offer special fares outlined in the box below. In addition, many have put together package tours that can get you to and from your favorite ski spas for less than you can arrange for yourself. Is that any way to run airlines? Oh, well.

This column is about skiing in the West. The next will deal with the Pa-

(continued on page 159)

SPECIAL AIRFARE PLANS

	First Class	Coach	Discover America Excursion	Family	Youth	Affinity Group
Rate		80%-85% of First Class	80% of round-trip coach fare	1st family member pays 100% of First Class or coach; 2nd member pays 75% of same fare; children 12-21 pay ⅔; children 2-11	60% of one-way coach	80% of round-trip coach flight

_____

A smile crossed his face as I described my weekend adventure. I knew I had one ally among the teaching staff.

_____

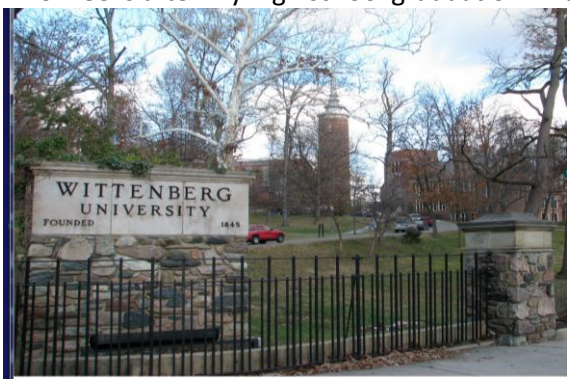
"What do you think about that," Dave?

_____

The Emerging Republican Majority. English teacher Nancy O'Connor

_____

Two weeks after my high school graduation I was off for Wittenberg University.



_____

He (Professor William Buschemi) did not like my support for the President. Enter the politics of the classroom. (A "B" grade) That summer James Garverick – Accounting – Mrs. Bradshaw adjunct professor Geology -

_____

Weekend eating at Burger Chef and my brother holds up in the intellectual; enclave of Yellow springs took pity on me by taking me out for a decent lunch.

_____

He was getting married in September! Across the Bay bridge

_____

Tempering my enthusiastic high school thoughts to a more disciplined thought process. And Accounting Professor Woodrow Wilson was no help – not following the process - accounting and political science

_____

To Laurel, Delaware where the ways of the south – at least in conversation had not died – Again I was so terribly uncomfortable by how humans spoke in such a degrading fashion of other human beings.

_____

A willowy brunette caught my eye.

_____

With a layover in DC during the height of the Watergate Hearings 1973 – I caught a cab to the Sam Ervin Hearings – television lights – I sat listened and left I was so sad. What was the truth? Or was a witch-hunt for all the previous “alleged” transgressions of a career politician?

L –R – Weicker, Gurney, Baker, Ervin, Dash (Majority Counsel)
Tallmadge, Inuoye, Montoya

_____

John Dean originally (1019) Emma Avenue Akron Ohio providing testimony about the workings of the White House. What was his motivation? Imagine if he had just left quietly? His sense of history?

Add to this Hillary Rodham's role on the House Judiciary Committee.

Clockwise top left: John Dean, Richard Nixon, Hillary Rodham, Jim Lehrer, Robert MacNeil

_____

The personal counselor for the President. Where were his ethics?

_____

More than any other professor she, Mary Jones, (then ABD) taught me the discipline required to write.

Professor of English and Director of the American Studies Program Mary Ellen Jones

I asked Daniel Ellsberg "Would you consider what you had done as stealing?" March 1974.

CORBIS

Ellsberg Speaks At Wittenberg SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (AP)- Daniel Ellsberg said Thursday night he wished a fair trial for six persons indicted in connection with the 1971 break-in of his psychiatrist's office. The former Pentagon researcher and think-tank expert spoke before some 800 persons at Wittenberg University. His speech came a few hours after the indictments of John D. Ehrlichman, Charles W. Colson and four others for conspiring to violate the rights of Dr. Lewis J. Fiedling of Los Angeles, Ellsberg's psychiatrist. "They have earned their day in court."' Ellsberg said. "I hope they get a fair trial."

(The student union did not hold 800 students – maybe a third of that!) Oh the AP!

_____

Education should provide the creation of a disciplined mind for an accurate, caring, and thorough discernment process in analyzing problems.

_____

The unsung heroes in the educational process are the librarians. (Dorothy Shepherd)

For me, her efforts provided an avenue to educational enlightenment

_____

And the process begins ….

THE UNIVERSITY OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK
REGENTS EXTERNAL DEGREE
99 WASHINGTON AVENUE
ALBANY, NEW YORK 12230

OFFICE OF INDEPENDENT STUDY
ASSESSMENT AND TESTING
518: 474-0982

June 6, 1975

FPO David D. McCann
Second Finance Section
APO New York 09169

Dear Mr. McCann:

I have received your letter concerning Special Assessment.

Special Assessment is an examination tailored to the needs of a specific individual. For this reason it is necessary to have a discussion between the candidate and evaluators followed by oral questioning. For this reason the panel must personally meet with the candidate. It is impossible for us to send two or three college professors to you.

If you have a general and indepth knowledge of American History, I would suggest that you take the GRE Advanced Test in History. About half of this test deals with European History, however, the minimum passing score for the total test is slightly less than the average score. Therefore, your knowledge of American History and related European History should allow you to pass if your knowledge is at the average college level. As you know, the test is worth a total of 39 credits toward the degree.

The GRE Advanced Tests are available worldwide. You should check with your education officer for the address of the testing center closest to you. If there is no center within a reasonable distance from you, special arrangements can me made with the Educational Testing Service, Princeton, New Jersey.

Sincerely,

David R. Bower

David R. Bower
Chief, Office of Independent Study Assessment and Testing

DRB:mg

THE UNIVERSITY OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK
ALBANY, NEW YORK 12230

David D. McCann
3906 Woodthrush Rd.
Akron, Ohio 44313

Liberal Arts — CURRICULUM
History (GRE), Political Science (GRE) — CONCENTRATION Bachelor of Arts — DEGREE CONFERRED
3/31/78 — DATE OF CONFERRAL
3/6/55 — DATE OF BIRTH
6/21/75 — DATE OF ENROLLMENT

SOCIAL SECURITY NUMBER 291-46-6073

UNIVERSITY RECORD

DEPT.	COURSE NUMBER	DESCRIPTIVE TITLE	SEM. HRS.	GR.
1973-74:	WITTENBERG UNIVERSITY
Bus1	113	Prin of Accounting	3.5	A
Geol	100	Intro to Geol Science	3.5	C
Engl	101	Freshman Writing	3.5	A
Biol	100	Man in Biological We.	3.5	A
Span	102	Intermediate Spanish	3.5	A
Econ	101	Prin of Economics I	3.5	C
Engl	134	Amer Cultural Backgd	3.5	B
Span	103	Adv Interm Spanish	3.5	A
Relf	123	Promise & Fulfill.	3.5	C
Math	101	Lang of Math	3.5	C
Mil Sci	101	Military Science	1.33	A
Mil Sci	102	Military Science	1.33	A
Mil Sci	103	Military Science	1.33	A
1974-75:	MILITARY SERVICE SCHOOLS
		Finance Specialist Finance and Disbursing	3	P
1977:	GRADUATE RECORD EXAMINATION
		History (480)	39	P

DEPT.	COURSE NUMBER	DESCRIPTIVE TITLE	SEM. HRS.	GR.
		1977 GRADUATE RECORD EXAMINATION
		Political Science (480)	39	P

GRADING SYSTEM: A = 4.0, B = 3.0, C = 2.0, D = 1.0, F = 0.0, P = Pass, U = Unsatisfactory. Credits for which a grade of F or U was received are not recorded.

NOTE: This record is not valid for transfer unless issued directly from the Office of the Registrar. It must bear the signature of the registrar and the impress of the seal.

I certify that the information given on this record is correct.

REGISTRAR, ROOM 1828
99 WASHINGTON AVENUE
ALBANY, NEW YORK 12230

THE UNIVERSITY OF THE STATE OF NEW YORK
REGENTS EXTERNAL DEGREE
99 WASHINGTON AVENUE
ALBANY, NEW YORK 12230

REGENTS EXTERNAL DEGREE
DIRECTOR
518: 474-9295

February 22, 1978

Dear Candidate:

We are pleased to inform you that the faculty has voted to recommend you for the Bachelor of Arts degree. On March 31, 1978, in Albany, during the regular meeting of the Regents of The University of the State of New York, formal action will be taken upon the recommendation of the faculty. Your diploma will be mailed directly to you by our Registrar upon receipt of your Graduation Fee (see enclosed statement) as soon as possible after that date.

The 1977-78 graduates of the Regents External Degree will be honored at the Eighth Commencement of The University of the State of New York to be held in Albany in September 1978. A formal invitation will be forwarded at a later date. Although you will have previously received your diploma, we urge you to come to Albany in order that public recognition can be given for your fine academic accomplishment.

We congratulate you on the completion of your academic program and sincerely hope that you will be present at the ceremony next September.

Sincerely,

Donald J. Nolan

Donald J. Nolan

DJN:cmg
Enclosure

(Testing out of undergraduate school Nicholas Katzenbach) "As a prisoner of war in Germany he read, by his count, 400 books in 15 months. After the war Mr. Katzenbach convinced Princeton that his reading qualified him for an undergraduate degree. The university had him take nine examinations and write a thesis, and in two months he graduated cum laude, in 1945." (New York Times

Nicholas Katzenbach, 90, Dies; Policy Maker at '60s Turning Points 9 May 2012

_____

You're a phony! (South African AFS student – library 1972)

_____

I was looking rather depressed in school. So focused. No close friends. But my mind was swimming with ideas –music and my clarinet! But the guidance counselor was concerned.

_____

More than any classroom the library formed my life.

_____

My theme was the evolution of post World War II powers – a new partnership timing of my research could not have better. (September 1983 later the former Chancellor spoke at Canton, Ohio's Walsh College)

CHANCELLOR WILLY BRANDT at
WALSH COLLEGE
September 27, 1983 — 8:00 p.m.
PHYSICAL EDUCATION BUILDING
Sponsored by Walsh College and Brandt Commission Research

_____

In teaching a library research class students of the Upward Bound program (2008) I made an enthusiastic effort to excite the students to the wonders of the library. To the top floor and special collections division!

_____

You don't think a tear has been shed?

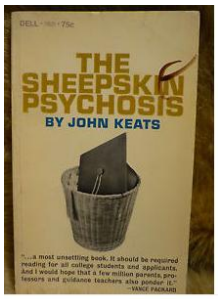
_____

I was flaming out.

_____

My real education was just beginning.

_____



Sheepskin Psychosis.

You didn't have to be on a campus to complete your college degree. There were alternatives.

_____

I wasn't sure what was ahead.

_____

I sat in the office of the Dean who wasn't at all impressed or curious. Later I would be the childcare service manager for his daughter – who used the position of her father to get what she wanted even if her personal circumstance was less than scrupulous.

_____

I was steeled up in a seedy apartment at 322 West Market Street. At 10 each night the hookers would come out to ply their trade.

_____

I would type my way out of this. (And not electric as my parents were concerned I would not have access to an electrical outlet)

I was in graduate school.

_____

Long before Microsoft Word – the poor graduate student was limited to typing their own papers ensuring space at the bottom for footnotes – or finding someone to do it.

_____

Hire the Vet!" Right!

_____

I wanted so desperately wanted to get on with my life!

_____

My view of the city was extraordinary.

_____

A hot summer afternoon – 1961 – age 6 – a warm breeze blowing across the fields – I am invited a friend's house 2 miles away – and off through the high grass fields I went to Kevin's house – such a sense of accomplishment is traversing the field and finding my way – no map – just a sense of direction – to go forward!

_____

The foray into the private sector had proven to be quite disastrous. (Dial Finance – alternative finance-consumer loan finance)

_____

"You let others speak for you." Professor David Lousher

_____

What a magnificent conductor he was – Edward Health at Blossom Music Center 18 August 1978

_____

The beginnings of computer technology

Later SPSS and punch cards

_____

I was exhausted. Out into the wintry cold I went!

_____

Even as the black clouds cast a shadow upon the earth – and the thunder portended a severe thunderstorm, I sat mesmerized on the front cement steps. I could read. I was reading the weather report in the newspaper. Summer of 1961.

_____

Taken all together – blending the triangle of occurrences – politics – military – education.

_____

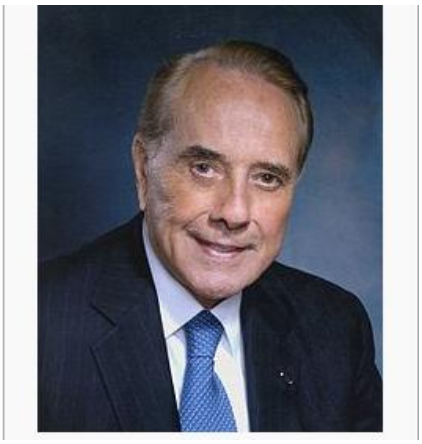
My antenna is very sensitive to the creation of an environment where groupthink unfolds and individuality is stomped upon.

_____

Individuality cannot be lost.

_____

It was a February 1979 speech in Akron by Senator Robert Dole (R-KS) that set my personal agenda into high gear, quite unexpectedly.



"There are many letters I receive prior to occasions such as these – but one received spoke of a new direction in Republican politics. Humanity." Robert Dole (R-KS) in quoting from a letter written to him by David McCann – Lincoln Day Dinner – February, 1979.

A spirit of humanness in the GOP

Governor Lee Dreyfus (R-Wis) 1979-1983) Chicago midterm GOP conference 1979

_____

Before I knew it, I was the assistant and appointed deputy registrar for the largest license bureau in the county. April – May 1979 – on the verge of catastrophe – the bag man to collect from Ralph Belisle - June 1979

_____

But my goal was good government, despite the critic analysis from the county GOP Chair.

My speech for the enthusiastic participation in the FAIR petition drive (Fair and Impartial Redistricting)

_____

The Central Committee was deadlocked requiring a flip of the coin to determine the winner. A new judge began his political career. Out with the old regime and in with the new.

_____

With great enthusiasm I set out on this new path resigning my position as a graduate student teaching assistant.

_____

We had found candidates for all of the local offices. Except one candidate we recruited had some mental issues. We were soon on the phone to correct that mistake.

_____

Behind the scenes. Thorough. The former national chairman was raising money for his mayoral candidate – Roy Ray (R-Akron, Ohio). (later the fanfare from the movie "Rocky" at his inauguration)

_____

Fair and Impartial Redistricting – when the GOP did not control the reapportionment board.

COMMITTEE FOR FAIR AND IMPARTIAL REDISTRICTING is INACTIVE company incorporated in Ohio with identification number of 538571. Company was incorporated on 1979-07-09, so the age of company is approximately 35 years. The type of company is CORPORATION FOR NON-PROFIT. COMMITTEE FOR FAIR AND IMPARTIAL REDISTRICTING detailed status is Cancelled. More details...

_____

Clarity of Purpose.

_____

"You'll carry the Senator's bags." (Senator Howard Baker (R-Tenn)

Portage Country Club Akron, Ohio (December 1979)

_____

It wasn't about democracy or good government. It was gotcha politics.

_____

When she arrived – Marilyn Marchione – those Board members on site were suddenly not available The slamming of doors was almost in unison.

_____

Upstaging the Chair in a brief speech. I was

_____

I loved our Republic and would do anything – lawful – to make voting easier.

_____

(Later (ATVTS –Automated Telephone Voting Technical System) Access Democracy 2000 Plus)

"Hello Democracy Calling". Mary Ethridge Akron Beacon Journal 8 May 1990
WAKR TV 23 News Mark Johnson

_____

Then there was ABC reporter Geraldo Rivera.

JURY FINDS IN FAVOR OF ABC IN SUIT OVER '20-20' PROGRAM

AP
Published: May 11, 1982 New York Times

_____

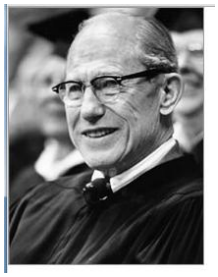
An earthquake of scandal.

_____

Democrat Tim Davis wanted my help.

_____

"I admire Byron White because he was a team player." Milquetoast candidate for 9th District Court



Justice Byron White/ Judge Deborah Cook United States Court
"Whizzer" of Appeals Sixth Circuit

_____

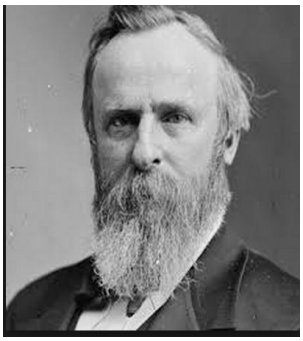
There are the idealistic ground troops; then there are the corporate yuck yucks.

_____

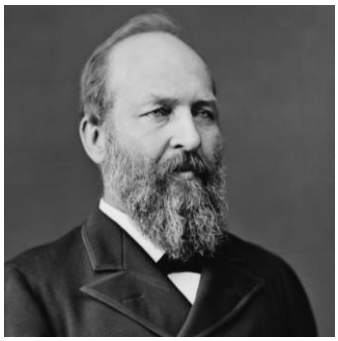
No fuss. Just get your nose to the grindstone leave me alone and it will get done.

_____

The troika of Ohioans saw the need for civil service reform – Hayes – Garfield – Pendleton – redemption of sorts for Senator Pendleton.



Rutherford Hayes



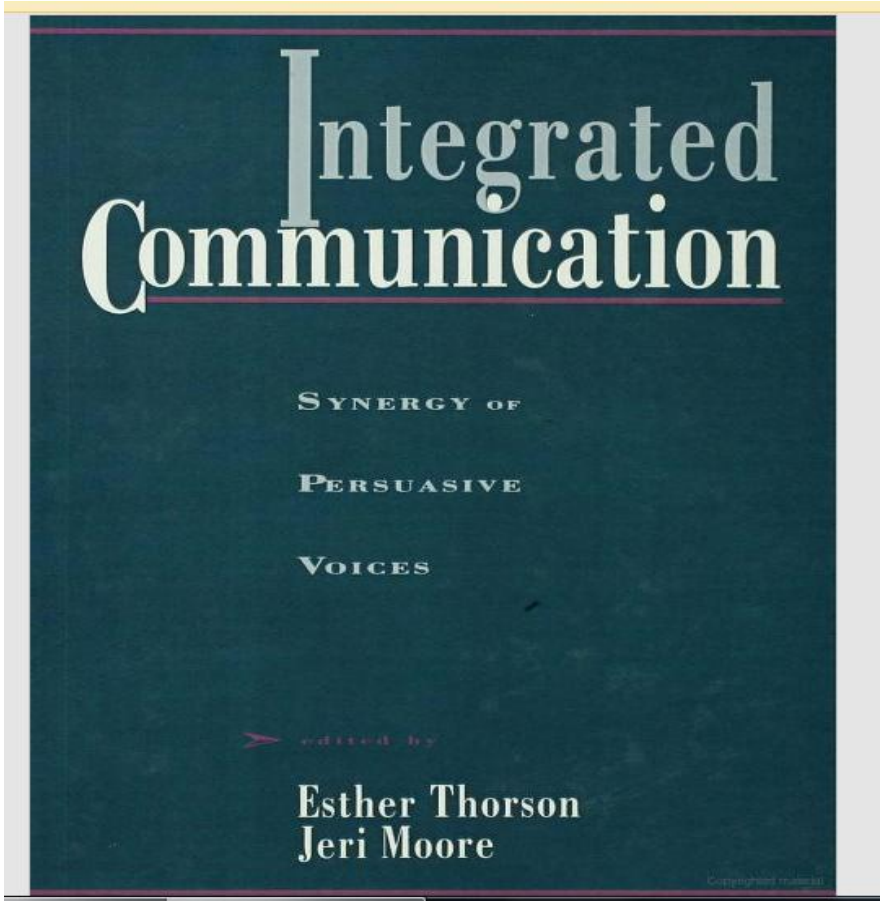
James Garfield

George Pendleton
(Peter McRobbie portrayed then Congressman Pendleton in the Steven Spielberg 2012 movie"Lincoln"

_____

We are nothing more than sheepherders.

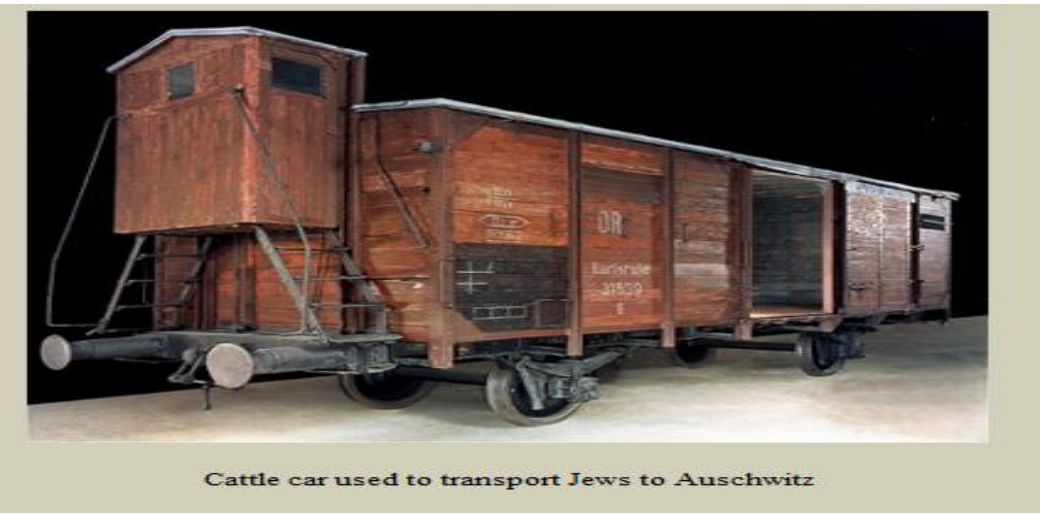
_____



Giuseppe Bassani, who came to my attention when, in 1986, he was named Vice President of NCR,

_____

Most profoundly – standing in one of the freight cars housed in the Holocaust Museum.



Cattle car used to transport Jews to Auschwitz

_____

Stephen Reed 1999

We had full access to the Capitol. July, 2001 – then it all changed!

From age to age, I pray.

_____

Asleep at the controls. Cuyahoga County, Ohio Commissioner Peter Lawson Jones, Timothy Hagan Jimmy Dimora

_____

He brought in new blood regardless of their political affiliation.

_____

I did my duty.

OHIO CERTIFIED MANAGER PROGRAM (OCPM)

The OCPM Program's blend of excellent classroom instruction and work-related projects provides valuable training for public managers. This two-year, part-time program attracts public managers from all levels of government, including state agencies, county agencies, and municipal offices.

Ohio Certified Public Managers (OCPM) 2002 Graduates

COHORT 3		COHORT 4	COHORT 5
Brian Andres	Debora Mallin	Diana Baker	Conrad Ames	Kelly Kassor
Stephen Durbin	David McCann	L.D. Bentley	Robert Blanton	Michael Lang
Karen Fegan	Barbara Neill	Corey Clark	David Cashell	Christopher Lobb
Nicholas Fischbah	Sandra Rahe	Nancy Craigmiles	Gary Croft	Hassan Omar
Kathy Germany	Inder Sharma	William Crump	John Curtis	David Settlemire
Tim Gott	Crystal Weddle	E. Scott Fulks	Myron Downard	Edward Shea
Michael Grammer	Anthony Zampedro	Richard Lusk	Troy Dunlap	Hung Thai
Laura Haller		George Platounaris	Therese Dyer	Thomas Wickline
Wayne Holmes		Randall Sneddon	Marcey Earley-Jeter
Howard Huebner		Mark West	Gregory Gurney
Doug Kern, Jr.		Randall Zeisler	James Haviland

web address http://urban.csuohio.edu/ap/leaders/ocpm.htm

Graduation ceremonies were held at the Capitol Theater on October 11, 2002 for the third, fourth and fifth classes to complete Ohio's Certified Public Manager Program. Forty-seven individuals completed approximately 300 hours of courses geared toward management careers in government.

L-R David McCann, Inder Sharma, Anthony Zampedro, Howard Huebner, Sandra Rahe, Kathy Germany, Brian Andrews, Stephen Durbin, Gov, Robert Taft (R-OH), Charles Phelps, Karen Fegan, Laura Haller, Doug Kern, Jr., Michael Grammar, Tim Gott.

Government Agencies: Summit County, Ohio; Ohio Department of Mental Health; City of Parma, Ohio; Ohio Department of Transportation; Ohio Department of Natural Resources; City of North Royalton, Ohio.

_____

The word of Moody's or Standard and Poor's bond rating organization was considered gold.

_____

Certification of the GFOA and that fallacy

_____

The GFOA Certificate of Excellence in Government Reporting given to municipalities like Detroit ...

_____

Rep Ed Feighan (D-OH) just sat on his hands
Remarks at the Annual Convention of the National Association of Counties in Baltimore, Maryland

July 13, 1982

Mr. Chairman, Governor, Senator, our representative, the other distinguished guests here on the dais, and you ladies and gentlemen -- all distinguished:

Good morning, and thank you for a very warm welcome. I didn't bring a fig leaf with me, but I'm pleased to be here -- a real pleasure to be with you today.

Your help, and especially that of your leaders like Richard Conder, Bill Murphy, Roy Orr, and Bernie Hillenbrand, [President, vice president, past president, and executive director, respectively, of the National Association of Counties] has been invaluable during the last year as we have worked to reshape American government, crafting a plan to return the reins of government to the American people.

You were elected to offices that are among the closest to the people. I'm sure you know the names of many of your constituents, and they know yours. When you pass them on the street, they ask you about a recent decision or a vote. They attend your board and commission meetings to speak about their concerns. You're held responsible for your decisions by the people you represent, and that's what democracy is all about.

At the level of government you deal with, the daily lives of your citizens, managing their schools, repairing their roads, protecting their neighborhoods from fire and crime -- of course, Washington involves itself in these things too, but too often that kind of Federal intrusiveness has become part of the problem, not the solution.

I'm reminded of the story about a young student who handed in a test paper riddled with errors, and his teacher asked him how one person could make so many mistakes. And he said, ``One person didn't. My father helped me." [Laughter] Well, maybe the Federal Government has helped local governments make some mistakes, and that's what I want to talk with you about today.

Together you and I are involved in an epic struggle to restore the governmental balance intended in our Constitution and desired by our people. We're turning America away from yesterday's policies of big brother government. We're determined to restore power and authority to States and localities, returning as much decision making as possible to the level of government where services are delivered.

Thomas Jefferson once said, ``I know no safe depository of the ultimate powers of society but the people themselves." Well, I agree with him. And I think you do too. The more government we can keep at the local levels, in local hands, the better off we are and the more freedom we will have.

Now, there are some in Washington who scoff at such an idea. They speak condescendingly about America's county seats or city halls and State legislatures. Claiming a monopoly on compassion and wisdom, they airily dismiss grassroots representatives as incapable of seeing the big picture. Well, forcing the American people to accept the dictates of a swollen government in Washington has been one of the more serious mistakes of this century. Either you believe in democracy or you don't. And like you, I believe.

Our Founding Fathers knew the value of diversity in America. They understood the need to control the size of government and to hold it accountable to our people. They wrote those principles into the Constitution and, as Madison points out in the Federalist Papers, ensured republican remedies -- now, that's republican with a small ``r" -- for problems that have brought down other republics.

Traditionally, we've been able to adapt well to change and to meet our challenges, because we could reach across a vast continent for ideas and experience. In the recent past, as the Federal Government has pushed each city, county, and State to be more like every other, we've begun to lose one of our greatest strengths -- our diversity as a people. If we're to renew our country, we must stop trying to homogenize America.

I believe the extent of the problems that we face today is in direct proportion to the extent to which we have allowed the Federal Government to mushroom out of control. Ignoring careful checks and balances, Federal bureaucrats now dictate where a community will build a bridge or lay a sewer system. We've lost the sense of which problems require national solutions and which are best handled at the local level.

Let me quote Jefferson again. I'm sure you've all heard and possibly used yourself in a speech as I have his statement that if we look to Washington to find out ``when to sow and when to reap, we shall soon want for bread." Well, that line takes on much more meaning if we hear it in the entire context of what Jefferson was discussing.

He said, ``Were not this great country already divided into states, that division must be made, that each might do for itself what concerns itself directly, and what it can do so much better than a distant authority. Every state is again divided into counties each to take care of what lies within its local bounds; each county again into townships or wards to manage minute details . . . were we directed from Washington when to sow and when to reap, we should soon want for bread."

As the distinctions blur, our people have lost far too much control over public policies that affect their daily lives. They no longer know whom to blame when things go wrong. For example, if you have a problem with the way your child's school is run, whom do you talk to? The teacher? The principal? The superintendent? The Governor? The courts? A department in Washington or, perhaps, the President? We must sort out responsibilities to better manage resources and restore accountability in government.

Having mentioned education, may I digress for a moment? Recently a national convention having to do with education was held in California. A central theme at that gathering was an attack on our efforts to get control of runaway Federal spending and what a threat that was to education. They painted some pretty horrendous pictures -- horrendous but untrue.

I have charged that the Federal Government in recent years has interfered unnecessarily in the classroom, claiming its right to do that by virtue of Federal financial aid to public schools. Well, that aid amounts to only 8.1 percent of the total cost of public school education. Local and State government put up the other 91.9 percent.

Now, we haven't canceled out that 8.1 percent of Federal help in our budgeting. We've shifted some of that spending to other government agencies for administrative purposes. Rehabilitation programs for adults, for instance, will be part of the Health and Human Services budget now. Other funds are being incorporated in block grants.

Yes, there will be savings, but not because we're depriving children of necessary educational programs. Many of the savings will be in the elimination of Federal administrative overhead and in giving local authorities more flexibility, free of useless regulations and red tape. And that, incidentally, is the underlying principle of federalism.

Our federalism initiatives are not incidental proposals. They lie at the very heart of our philosophy of government -- a philosophy I've long held and, I believe, most of you have as well. We are committed to restoring the intended balance between the levels of government, and, although some people may find this cause not as glamorous or as immediate as some others, we're determined to see it through.

We in this administration have taken another look at the Constitution and are applying it to the America of today. We will restore the 10th amendment to the Constitution, which says that the Federal Government shall do only those things provided in the Constitution, and all other powers shall remain with the States and with the people.

For the first time in too many years, the Federal Government will recognize a limit on what it should do, how fat it can grow, and the power it can claim. With your help, we'll reverse the flow of power, sending it back to the localities.

But the battle is barely begun. So, while I want to thank you, I also want to ask for your continued help. Rest assured that we in this administration understand that such support is a two-way street. As your partners in government, we pledge that this administration will never turn its back on the problems you face in the counties of America.

In my State of the Union message last January, I outlined the principles of our federalism proposals. I pledged to place federalism at the top of our national agenda, recognizing that the Federal Government has become overloaded with far more responsibilities than it can properly manage. Then as now, we focused on the need to sort out responsibilities and turn back to States and localities many Federal programs, insisting they be accompanied by the resources to pay for them.

We also promised to create no winners or losers among the States, and that these initiatives would not be means to simply cut the budget. Even at that early stage, our proposal reflected many of your concerns. It included an 8-year transition to avoid dislocations for States and local governments, revenue sharing was protected, funding of $4.6 billion a year was called for. The original turnback proposal, including more than 40 programs and the funds to pay for them, was in itself a giant revenue sharing program. The package guaranteed stability and certainty by guaranteeing 1983 budget figures through 1987.

Though only an outline, our proposal opened a great, national debate on the structure of our government. We presented a working proposal to be altered and polished during consultations with State and local officials. Since that January address, my staff and I have consulted with State and local officials as well as Members of the Congress. As I said earlier, NACO's representatives played a key role in shaping the package which we will send to the Congress by the end of this month.

While we've remained true to our first principles, significant changes have been made. The new package calls for Federal assumption of Medicaid responsibilities in return for State takeover of Aid to Families With Dependent Children. But the food stamp program has been dropped from the swap. The number of programs to be turned back has been reduced to about 35. And the windfall profits tax has been replaced by general revenues as a funding source. The pass-through provision has been revised so that localities will be guaranteed 100 percent of funds historically passed to them from the Federal Government. States will not be able to opt out of programs until 1985, and, when they do, will be required to consult with local elected officials.

Now, these measures are designed to strengthen the stability and certainty of funding. I believe that together they go along toward answering your needs as we begin to reorder the way the American people govern themselves. I hope that we can count on your support.

Baltimore's H. L. Mencken, a profound observer of American life, once said, ``It doesn't take a majority to make a rebellion; it takes only a few determined leaders and a sound cause." Well, let those be our rallying words. For it falls to us and our responsible colleagues at all levels of government to carry the message of the people to the Congress. Representative Barber Conable of New York has pointed out that if the States and localities want these federalism reforms, they can get them.

Roy Orr, your past president, has often said that with fewer strings attached, you people could do more with half the money that Congress appropriates than Federal bureaucrats -- even with the best of intentions -- are able to do with all of it. I believe him.

Our tax dollars have been filtering through too many hands at too many levels with a little less getting through at each step. Together we can reduce Washington's percentage and get the power and the resources back to the American people. After all, it's their money, and they've demanded a reform of the excesses, the duplication, and the bureaucracy that have led to a tremendous waste of our national resources. Let us form an alliance to send the Congress an unmistakable message: Americans want more of their taxes spent where they're raised and spent by people they can hold accountable.

Your organization has formed an alliance of another kind that's adding to local resources and solving problems where they occur. ``The Alliance of Business and Counties" -- the theme of this conference -- and your Good Neighbor Awards are excellent examples of what can be done when communities look inward for answers to problems.

There are classic examples of that right here in this city that I've just seen with your fine mayor of Baltimore. I'm told, for example, that in Essex County, New Jersey, the Chamber of Commerce has recruited a team of business executives to do a budget and management analysis for the county. Results included the coordination of cost-containment activities and the drafting of specific steps to reduce energy consumption.

In Fairfield County, South Carolina, the utility company and county government built an efficient, modern facility to house not only a 24-hour ambulance service but a 60-member fire department in a sparsely populated area of the State. They tell me that response time has dropped from 20 minutes to 6.

I'm sure you know these case histories better than I do, and there are dozens more I don't have time to mention now. But I want to congratulate NACO and these counties, the businesses, and all the best of your ``good neighbors" for reviving the ``can do" spirit. We built America with the good neighbor policy. I believe that kind of attitude can make us great again.

Earlier this morning I visited an area of Baltimore that would be depressed were it not for the great hope of its citizens, their readiness for hard work, and the cooperative bond between local government and private business. Just over a year ago a bindery was begun in a warehouse in Park Heights in the northwest corner of this city. The enterprise was designed to turn a profit while providing jobs and training for 2,500 people within 5 years.

This afternoon I will visit the top of the World Trade Center to look out on Baltimore's beautiful Inner Harbor, an area that is being restored through the cooperation, once again, of government and business. So far, about half the funds for the Inner Harbor restoration have come from the government, but the private sector is expected to pick up nearly 95 percent of future costs. And maybe you missed my point about a fig leaf -- that's quite a fig leaf that you've heard about before.

The idea used in Baltimore is similar to the enterprise zone experiment our administration would like to test across America. Designated zones would be relieved of many tax and regulatory burdens, producing incentives for new business and new jobs. Although not a comprehensive answer to the problems in our inner cities, enterprise zones offer real hope for the mostly minority communities trapped at the bottom of America's economic ladder, in the heart -- the forgotten heart, all too often -- of our cities.

My administration remains committed to the enterprise zone experiment as part of our overall economic recovery plan. Of course a growing economy will be the best Federal program we can provide local governments, as well as the larger share of the tax base that will go along with it.

It's a simple yet a revolutionary concept -- this idea of giving the voters what they voted for. And it has startled some people a little bit we're actually doing what we said we were going to do, and that's not something Washington is used to. We're determined to return our government and our economy to the people. Together, with the support of people like you, we will shrink the Federal establishment, start our economy growing again, and restore America to greatness.

I have no doubt that the American people, with God's help, are up to the challenge. We need only believe in ourselves. In the course of our history we've overcome far greater challenges. If we look at the daily lives of Americans we can see case after case of individual mettle and pluck.

Just a few weeks ago in City Island Park in Daytona Beach such a story of courage took place. Thirty-two-year-old J. R. Richard, once an ace pitcher for the Houston Astros, stepped up to a minor league mound. Two summers ago a stroke had left him partially paralyzed, and his doctors wouldn't predict whether he could ever play again. But that summer night in Daytona the packed ballpark erupted in thunderous applause as J. R. jogged onto the field.

Newspaper accounts reported his performance was not overpowering, but neither was it an embarrassment. In four innings, the lanky righthander gave up only two earned runs and left the game to another enthusiastic ovation.

After the game, J. R. said, ``I'm ready to work myself back up -- it took a lot of hard work to get here; it's going to take a lot more hard work to get back into the majors." And then he looked at the Astro's general manager who was present and said, ``I will be back."

J. R. has the kind of American spirit that we all must tap to continue our struggle for national renewal. We've won some major victories in the last year and a half, but there's a long, hard road still ahead of us. If we can focus as clearly on our goal as J. R. Richard has on his, if we can imagine America once again strong and vibrant and alive with jobs for all our people, security for our elderly, wealth enough for our poor, and new opportunities for every new generation, then I believe we, too, can find the strength to make our dreams come true.

I commend you in the National Association of Counties for all that you're doing to improve America's communities. I thank you for your support and hope I can count on you for more. If we continue to have faith in ourselves and trust in our people, there's nothing we cannot accomplish.

Thank you very much.

Note: The President spoke at 10:27 a.m. in Hall D at the Baltimore Convention Center. In his opening remarks, he referred to Governor Harry R. Hughes, Senator Charles McC. Mathias, Jr., and Representative Marjorie S. Holt.

Prior to his appearance at the convention, the President, accompanied by Baltimore Mayor William Donald Schaefer, toured the Commercial Credit Bindery and observed the youth training program at that facility.

Governor Harry Hughes

Senator Charles Mathias

Congressman Elizabeth Holt

_____

What are, exactly, our expectations of government in the 21st Century?

_____

I'm going to be a millionaire.

archive.wkyc.com/news/story.aspx?storyid=1611

FILED UNDER

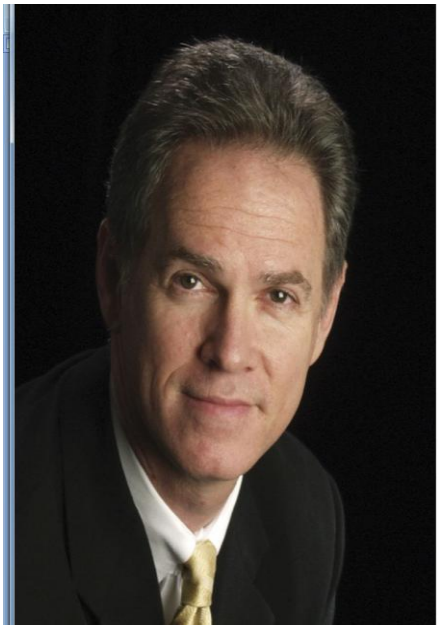
Akron-Canton News

William Hartung Jr., 51, a former chief of staff, was convicted of taking bribes and receiving kickbacks from vendors doing business with the county. "First and foremost, I've made complete peace with God, which has changed my perspective," Hartung said Tuesday before Summit County Common Pleas Court Judge James Murphy. "I made serious mistakes in judgment and regret violating the public trust. I want to try and take care of my obligations and start rebuilding an honest life." Assistant Summit County Prosecutor Phil Bogdanoff told Murphy the state opposed Hartung's release because of his lack of cooperation. Murphy said it is time for Hartung to begin paying restitution. He also placed him on three years' probation. Hartung will live with his parents in Ravenna. Once he finds a job, 10 percent of any income will go toward paying $304,886 in restitution ordered by a federal court judge. He called the federal charges "trumped-up" at an arraignment in March 1999. Murphy added a two-year sentence onto Hartung's 2 1/2-year federal sentence because he did not cooperate with the government and failed a polygraph test requested by Murphy. Hartung entered federal prison in February 2000 and had been in state prison since March. Hartung, the former top aide of former Summit County Executive Tim Davis, pleaded guilty in state and federal court to mail fraud and bribery charges. The county has a civil lawsuit pending against Hartung to recover $735,913 that he overpaid to financial consultant James Achterman.

The Associated Press

WKY C 18 December 2002

The auditor won the election. But his opponent went out to make his millions in the privatization of prisons. (Wayne Calabrase)



http://www.texasprisonbidness.org/tags/wayne-calabrese

Wayne Calabrese | Texas Pri...

File Edit View Favorites Tools Help

The Map | About Private Prisons | About this blog

Texas Prison Bid'ness

Home

Search this site: Search

Private Prisons Map

Featured Fact

The Bureau of Justice Statistics reported that in December 2005 there were 107,447 state and federal adult prisoners housed in private prisons, up 23% from 87,369 in December 2000.

Sign up for our Email Newsletter GO

YAHOO! FINANCE

Enter Symbol SEARCH

Quote Web

cxw - NYQ $33.14

Corrections Corporation of Amer

5 DAYS CHART

NEWS

- CCA Announces 2013 Fourth Quarter Earnings Releas... Marketwired (Tue 4:15pm)
- Top Picks for 2014: A Wall Street Transcript inte... Wall Street Transcript (Fri, Jan 24)
- Coverage Initiated on Corrections Corp by CRT Cap...

Wayne Calabrese

GEO Executive Calabrese selling millions of dollars in property

Sat, 08/14/2010 - 10:27am — Bob

The private prison industry makes good sense for at least one group of well-heeled individuals - executives at the biggest private prison corporations who make big bucks operating these companies. We reported last month GEO Group CEO George Zoley and chief operating officer Wayne Calabrese were amongst the highest paid south Florida executives.

Now, Calabrese is selling two South Florida homes for a combined value of more than $3 million. The first, a modest 1,810-square-foot house in the Boca Raton Riviera subdivision, is going for a mere $575,000. The second is a 6,105-square-foot house Royal Palm Yacht & Country Club subdivision that is on the market for a less modest $2.475 million. Clearly, the prison business has been good to Mr. Calabrese.

Sometimes we forget that the wealth accumulated by private prison corporations and their executives comes soley from taxpayer dollars paid to companies that in turn don't spend all that money on correctional services. Calabrese's $3.6 million compensation was more than than 19 times the salary of TDCJ director Brad Livingston and more that 16 times the starting salary of the Secretary of Corrections for the state of California. GEO head George Zoley's total compensation last year was more than $7 million, and Zoley listed a home in Fort Lauderdale for sale for nearly $11 million last January. Private prisons are clearly good business for some.

Related Pages:

GEO Group

1 comment | Money/Financial Interests | George Zoley | Wayne Calabrese

GEO execs amongst highest paid in South Florida

Wed, 07/14/2010 - 1:48pm — Bob

While GEO Group (NYSE: GEO) may have recently lost contracts in Texas, the company's highest executives continue to earn handsome figures. According to the Palm Beach Post ("102 best paid execs in PBC, TCoast for 2009," July 10), three of the highest paid corporate executives in Palm Beach County are GEO executives. Top 2009 earners include:

George Zoley, GEO Group's CEO was the third highest earning executive in the Palm Beach area, taking in $7,059,003 in total compensation.

Wayne Calabrese, GEO Group's Chief Operating Officer, was 6th on the list earning $3,602,321 in total compensation last year.

John O'Rourke, GEO Group's outgoing CFO earned $2,274,951 in total compensation last year and was 9th on the list.

Related Pages:

GEO Group

Add new comment | George Zoley | John O'Rourke | Wayne Calabrese

Fair weather Christians

_____

It was all about the communications.

_____

Is Public Service Communication Propaganda or a Public Service?

David D. McCann

Government Communications: Propaganda or Public Service?

_____

Process Proofs Review Printing

_____

There just had to be a better way

_____

Jack Emack?

http://www.findagrave.com/cgi-bin/fg.cgi?page=gr&GRid=18114713

_____

The enforcer went throughout the office to collect political contributions. Now it's so more subtle but still ever present.

_____

The vaneer of Dennis Shaul - Johnston, J. Angus. The United States National Student Association Democracy Activism and the Idea of the a Student 1947-1978 (Also see the Roman Polanski movie Ghost Writer – and the CIA recruitment) – Later CEO Community Financial Services Association of America

"USIA Is he reallyof African descent? His writing is too good. "

And later – working with (Susan Lowe Modi) American Foreign Service Association

Susan Lowe Modi, 46, a Foreign Service officer with the U.S. Information Agency since 1968, died of cancer Aug. 25 at her home in Washington.

Mrs. Modi was born in Cleveland. She graduated from Goucher College in Maryland and earned a master's degree in communications at the University of Pennsylvania.

She was the editor of a newsletter for the Bell Telephone Company of Pennsylvania before moving to the Washington area in 1968 and joining USIA.

Mrs. Modi served in Seoul from 1969 to 1970 and in Bombay from 1970 to 1973. She was assigned to Rome from 1976 to 1980 and was a branch public affairs officer in Genoa, Italy, from 1985 until she returned to Washington this year. …

(Daughter of Betty Beedle (Mrs. Arthur Beedle)

I very much wanted to move on from the director of operation of the auditor – values of homes, central to proerty taxes , weights and measure personal proerty tax intangle and tangible, intangible being stocks and bonds, tangible being the hard assets of the capital equipment in an organziation.

Many things ... growing weary of my role and wanted something bigger. Graduate work in communicatioons at the university of Akron, perfect fit with the USIA. Check marked being of West African descent, and wrote the appropraite essay. Mailed to Washington and a call came to Mary Lou Baker "Is he really African American? Because his writing is too good. "

_____

Dave can you follow me into the basement and release my urine pack?

This was for Attorney Harold Vernon Dixon, Jr. who was a quadraplegic as a result of football accident from a number of years earier.

I met Hal December 1979 when the county was moving from paper ballots to punch cards. Was the legal advisorr for then County Commissioner Mark Ravenscraft.

As the new employee of the Board of Elections I suddenly found myself smack dab in political controversy over the merits of this change. Enter Joseph Taggart of the Omaha Nebraska based Election Systems and Software company.

_____

I was stopped in the middle of the expressway.

_____

Delicately.

_____

You want to party?

_____

No one is watching the county government chicken coop except the foxes.

_____

And here's a teaspoon of Boodles for you!

_____

I set out some strict guidelines.

_____

Before Jack Abramoff there was Ed Gabriel. (later ambassador to Morocco)

Abramoff Gabriel

_____

What happened. Sally Glass of the Madison Group later to DC Sally Glass and Assiociates

_____

Just needed the capital – being a wool distruibutor in America – Toronto – the last flight

_____

He hid behind his desk. Chris Harte Abe Zaidan The ABJ Then Now and later

_____

There was a definite pecking order in the bureaucracy

_____

Hampshire? No Hamp- shire the verbal affectations of an elitist newspaper subscriber from the city's affluent west side neighborhood

_____

Straight away!

_____

Gena (Kuten)was so determined to make her mark on the industry – but she didn't last

_____

With no health insurance where were we? A high deductible insurance program.

_____

You were brainwashed. – family members given to the great exaggerations as in “You are a Communist” –

Richard Goucher McCann to my brother Donald Miles McCann III

_____

The marijuana sale. And then the whisper in the night along with the braying of the donkeys “it’s going to be all right” the whispering of Jackie Bouvier Kennedy

_____

There had to be discipline in the house.

_____

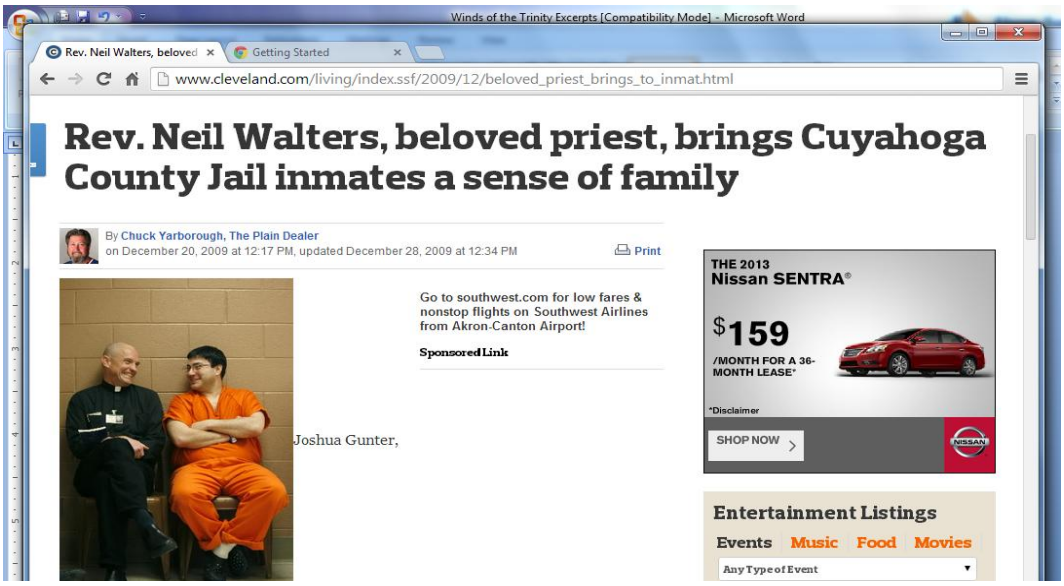
For three years I would have the honors of caring for the children.

_____

Being a man I wasn’t exactly a welcome guest at the coffee klatches of the mothers – and P&G would not allow my participation in the laundry study. St Sebastian

_____

What if Jesus knocked at our door? (Father Neil Walters and the dinner with our family – Garrett shaving his head



Joshua Gunter,

_____

All evening we sat on the lawn chairs and he identified all the cars as they went by.

_____

How many men have been blessed with this experience

_____

Walking…walking…walking

_____

And there he was as I was leaving he was coming Ambassador Vernon Walters – his face seems to be saying please don't acknowldge me. Publix Palm Beach . Bringing his talents for languages to the government

Similiarly – December 2006 – Ambassador John Bolton in front of Bolton's Depatment store – interesting

_____

How do you make a profit off a human being … later NYT Medical community seeing humanity as a great ATM

_____

There's a rhythm to the sowing and the reaping

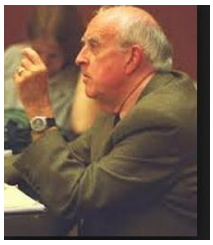
_____

Just the facts

_____

No one thought to call me. But my son Garrett did. (the death of our dog Bubba)

_____



What was discussed on that flight? Dianne Newman/ Dean Westman /From a jury trial; suddenly summary judgement to be issued by docket herder of the "rocket docket" federal Judge Sam Bell

Neil Elliott Richard Scrusshy Horizon Health Care – and the pregnancy discrimonation suit

Judith K. McCANN, Plaintiff-Appellant, v.
HORIZON HEALTHCARE CORPORATION, doing business as Wyant Woods Care Center, Defendant-Appellee.

No. 96-3147.

United States Court of Appeals, Sixth Circuit.

Feb. 4, 1997.

December 1993 – fired; 1994 Ian born – Ohio Civil Rights – 1995 – Summer – depositions – 1995 – 1996 Sam Bell " rocket docket".

_____

It was all about the children.

_____

Pregancy Discrimination

_____

Three interviews and for each one she was late.

_____

Was anyone willing to spend any political capital on my behalf?

_____

Troika of Female Terror.

Karen Margaret Doty Dawna Jill Hing Skapin Linda Sowa Phelps

COUNTY EMPLOYEE FILES 2ND COMPLAINT - WORKER SAYS SUMMIT FINANCE CHIEF HASSLES HIM 24 February 2006

Summit worker may be fired: Employee in executive's office who filed complaints must see psychiatrist. 21 April 2006

County pried into records, fired man says: Ex-employee contends Summit officials looked up his prescriptions before issuing ultimatum.

1 September 2006

_____

NFU – No foul up's/ Exact writing of bid specifications

_____

Can you help me? And the answer was "no!"

"Nelsen will be replacing his longtime mentor Linda Sowa Phelps.." 18 August 2009

_____

Tom Wood/ David Brown – Summit County sheriff's deputy google.com

My boss was unceremoniously transferred to the photo copy department. (Office Services)

From Hopscotch "You're going to sweat out your time until pension running the filing section right here.."

_____

This woman was a political appointee – a refugee of sorts.

_____

Don’t forget the contribution to Linda’s Christmas present.

_____

There was no civil service in this county.

_____

Political machinations require the placement of employees who march in lockstep with the political appointees

_____

But when the behavior is so egregious and so vitrolic in nature and political appointees sabotage the efforts of good people, what recourse is there? Vince DiSalvo and the Linda Sowa Phelps phone call to the Deputy Sheriff Larry Givens about her circumstance and her being afraid – maintaining the cover-up and Deputy Sheriff David Brown to intimidate by visiting my former home on 1354 West Market Street – I was away at the time. Conspiracy to intimidate

_____

I filed civil rights complaints against the female hieracrchy of the political establishment. They were not amused.

_____

Contrary of federal law – with the prosecutor casting a blind eye to these machinations I was subject to the most visious retribution. (candidate for Judge Clair Dickinson, Tom Teodosio, Paul Gallagher)

Claire Dickinson Tom Teodosio Paul Gallagher

_____

And there sat three candidates for the judiciary – knowing full well what the law said and chose to ignore the law. (It was all about the money for their political campaigns – don't rock the political boat)

_____

My supporters – two women – sat in the audience willing to risk their careers for me.

_____

By 3 June I was history. Career in ruins. On month later on 3 July my life was turned upside down.

_____

I was subjected to the subleties of terror and thrown into the fire of uncaring local, state, and federal bureacracy.

Lisa Okolish Miller

Director of the Summit County Human Resources Commission later law Director City of Barberton

David McCann to Attorney Lisa Okolish Miller:

Now, your last response to me was not acceptable.
I simply asked a question: Will there be a courteousness to this hearing?
And you said, "I don't have to answer that."
Now, what is it to be, Counselor?

_____

With a Smith College rubber ball in hand – I squeezed it ever more tightly as her tirade continued.

_____

Don Nydegger

_____

Maximilien Robespierre The terror is nothing but justice, prompt, severe, inflexible

Anonymous – Carnavalet Museum - Paris James B. McCarthy

_____

"They're out to get you" Tom Watkins

_____

Fred Blevins – MA LPCC referred me to a psychiatrist.

_____

The rule of law counts for nothing

_____

Competent people are being transferred into oblivion – and then there was the suicide of Don Nydegger

_____

That night I filed the first of three complaints with the Ohio Civil Rights Commission to be investigated by Ricky Boggs

_____

The computer software was montoring my every move

_____

I want out.

_____

Cognitive dissonance threatens the psychological well-being of any human.

_____

You've blown it all sky high

_____

I left the table and inquired as to whether she had money to pay the bill – and with tears in eyes I walked home.

_____

As a gentleman you fall back to the foundation of your exsitence manners diligence and routnine

_____

Hatred is a terrible energy drain to the soul.

_____

I engaged in rigorous in the bowels of this skyscraper – site of a World War II bomb shelter - physical work – moving furniture for $8.50 per hour.

_____

Make the corners neat and square – Virgina Burton Mile Mulligan and His Steam Shovel

They finished the second corner neat and square, but the sun was right up in the top of the sky. 29

I had to find something – anything I could hold onto. All around my life was crumbling. Collapsing. I flew to Berlin.

The Hotel Savoy saved my life.

_____

I climbed the mountain – yelling screaming and singing all the way to the top – well almost!

_____

History embraces the soul –

_____

When you walk do people know you are a Christian?

_____

Why an annulment? The Tribunal of the Cleveland Diocese of Cleveland Lynette Tate and Deacon Thomas Daw

Diocese of Cleveland

Cathedral Square

THE TRIBUNAL

No. 0641-2007 McCann-Kryah
Please use the number with your reply

January 13, 2009

Mr. David Duncan McCann
211 West Market Street
Akron, OH 44303

Dear Mr. McCann:

This letter is to inform you that your petition for an ecclesiastical declaration of invalidity has been granted. The affirmative decision of the Cleveland Diocesan Tribunal was ratified by the appropriate appellate tribunal.

Please arrange for an appointment with Rev. William Karg who will bring this to a conclusion for you.

I hope that this process has been an opportunity for you to reflect constructively on your relationship with your former spouse and that it has afforded not only closure but a forum for healing and reconciliation. You and your former spouse are reminded of your obligations to the spiritual, emotional and physical welfare of any children born of this union. These responsibilities remain unaltered by this action.

The priest who would prepare you for another marriage will use the Diocesan premarital evaluation which is required in all second marriages. This will then be used in his own preparation directly with you. He is also required to consult with me prior to making arrangements for marriage. If a premarital evaluation or counseling is required, you will be informed by the priest who is preparing you for marriage.

With every best wish, I am,

Sincerely yours,

Lynette M. Tait

Ms. Lynette M. Tait, JCL
Judge

lac/425

cc: Rev. William D. Karg

Chancery Building ❖ 1027 Superior Ave. ❖ Room 500 ❖ Cleveland, OH 44114-2555 ❖ (216) 696-6525 Ext. 4000
(Ohio Only) 1-800-869-6525 Ext. 4000 (Outside Ohio) 1-800-676-4431 Fax (216) 696-3226

"What about forgiveness?" I asked "Don't worry about that now." Marianne Betters

I was devastated.

I was in a state of shock.

And there was no turning back.

Three words would summarize 23 years of marriage – spoken to me by my wife at a luncheon on Monday, July 3, 2006. Those words were "I want out."

With those words began a downward spiral to my life.

I asked whether my wife had enough money for the luncheon check and sadly said

"I am going for a walk."

As I left the restaurant I began to cry – sobbing as I had never done before in my life.

I had never felt so alone in my life. Never.

Her attorney had already written the divorce settlement. And the children were told without my even knowing about this.

This was a fast track – not dissimilar from what I would later view in the movie Laws of Attraction with Pierce Brosnan and Julianne Moore.

The line uttered by Brosnan's character will forever remain with me

"Whatever you want I will do it - out of love."

By August, 2006 the divorce papers had been signed; on October 24 we appeared before the domestic relations judge; by November 27, 2006 the 23 year marriage, in the eyes of the secular world, was over.

Did I ever find out what brought about the words of July 3, 2006 “I want out”? Was I too focused on making a living, and caring for all things family?

Like a whirling dervish, I was trying to bring order to my life, but there was to be no order.

“How could God have allowed this to happen?” I repeatedly asked myself.

It dawned on me, in early 2007, there was no spiritual closure to a 23 year marriage. It was then I realized there may be value to the annulment process.

The government said it was over. But upon whose altar did I stand, and did I not, in the sight of the Almighty God and His Son, profess my love and commitment to another human being?

In thinking about the deep spiritual commitment I felt, it became time for a “spiritual audit” that only the Church could provide.

The initial human pledge was so stated “What God has joined together, let no man put asunder.”

How do you reconcile a divorce ordered by the secular domestic court with what has been pledged in the sight of God and Jesus Christ?

In a thirteen page document submitted to my parish priest, the annulment process began. And in my conversation with my parish priest, we dealt with the spiritual elements of marriage and its tragic ending.

I felt like I had failed. The words “divorce” and “failure” seemed like they went “hand in hand”. The words “he is a divorced man” hurt tremendously.

There were the issues of “forgiveness”. And what of the spiritual well-being of my children? These issues, and my ability to deal with them would be part of the process of my spiritual awakening.

By training I am a historian and am given to recalling many, many details about life. Sometimes too many.

But the annulment process allows you to take an inventory of the marriage and ponder how to move beyond the great hurt to living life fully again.

The spiritual part of your being has been dismembered. Can there be a re-growth of the Spirit?

When I traveled some 45 miles for a counseling session (which is part of the annulment process), I never anticipated the session would go for three and half hours. But the counselor, in her patience, went over all my answers to the annulment questionnaire. Tears were shed. But through the tears, I came to appreciate my humanness. I was allowed to fail.

There are varying parts to the annulment. There is the completion of the initial application, followed by the completion of questions that delve deeply into the marriage. You meet with your parish priest. Your information is forwarded to a counselor. After meeting with the counselor all of the documents are forwarded to the Diocesan Tribunal for their review.

All told, my annulment took 19 months.

Fortunately, the discernment offered by the annulment process gave me sense that, yes,

God and Jesus Christ are working in my life.

In their time, and through fervent prayer, I will, hopefully, move on to forgiving, but, like a lingering scar, one never really forgets the pain and anguish that is attached to that scar..

_____

He'll just have to do.

_____

I likened myself to a country doctor – called at 0530 hours into the classroom – make a diagnosis of the day – and provide a remedy – enlightenment for the students.

_____

And how old are you?

Carol Heiss – Cleveland Yacht Club – trying to determine the age of my mother – "Two score and seven, " I said

_____

The county council would later chastise the bully.

_____

A talented accountant Don Nydegger died. He had committed suicide. And the hierarchy didn't care.

_____

When in hell keep moving.

_____

“I learned the truth at 17.”

_____

Speed Surprise and Violence

_____

Do something! Don’t’ let them take you prisoner.

_____

Not one word of congratulations/ Employee of the Year 2000 & out the door 2006

_____

This lady left the program.

_____

We worked together to appreciate the nuances of government

_____

The initial critique was devastating –

_____

I just wanted to be a public servant

_____

G. Peter Gunn was impressed

With Jeffery Willis, 1972 Presidential Classroom; 1981 Job Applicant Clandestine Service; 2003 Presidential Classroom

_____

My religious conscience would play havoc with the lie detector

_____

The rich truly are different from you and me

_____

The opportunity to enhance the spiritual life of another human being is, to my way of thinking, one of the most fulfilling of human pursuits.

_____

The homily is the appetizer to the meal with Jesus Christ.

_____

The meal setting is very formal – but in its formality is a peace – a peace that is a part of a rich human history.

_____

We consumed great quantities of Famous Grouse scotch following each RCIA session.

_____

Everything pales in comparison to bringing a human soul into the Church.

Mark Holaday, David McCann
Easter 2008

Kiersten Wilson, Wendy Burgoyne, David McCann, Mark Holaday
Rite of Christian Initiation for Adults (RCIA)

So on that hot humid day in, June, 1974, I volunteered for service in the United States Army.

_____

I developed a mental callousness in my mind.

_____

A pipe smoking Virginia from the rural mountains just could not get it. Had the drill sergeant harassed him? Enter Captain Leo (Leonard) Pickett

_____

Pencils down. – GRE Exam Frankfurt July 1977

_____

During mail call in the dark rainy evening in October – I received my absentee ballot. My first vote.

Ft Knox Kentucky September 1974

_____

I stayed back and ate Snickers chocolate and cookies My emaciated 6’ 1”frame was down to 120 pounds.

_____

I finished fifth in the class of 100 – not enough for a promotion but that would come. As would, at the end of my three-year service, the Army Commendation Medal. But because of internal unit worries of jealousy – I was given the award behind closed doors.

DEPARTMENT OF THE ARMY

THIS IS TO CERTIFY THAT THE SECRETARY OF THE ARMY HAS AWARDED

THE ARMY COMMENDATION MEDAL

TO SERGEANT DAVID D. MC CANN, 291-46-6073

FOR meritorious service while assigned as NCOIC, Disbursing, 2d Finance Section from January 1975 to August 1977. SGT McCann's efforts not only contributed significantly to the mission accomplishment of the 2d Finance Section but also boosted the morale of the soldiers serviced by the section. Through perseverance and effective leadership, the transaction input and subsequent data submissions have been nearly flawless in every respect. His ability to work well with others and his devotion to duty have distinguished him as an effective NCO. Sergeant McCann's outstanding performance of duty was in keeping with the finest traditions of the military service and reflects great credit upon himself, V Corps and the United States Army.

GIVEN UNDER MY HAND IN THE CITY OF WASHINGTON
THIS 12TH DAY OF AUGUST 1977

SIDNEY B. BERRY
Lieutenant General, U.S. Army Commanding

SECRETARY OF THE ARMY

_____

Where's Kerry? Here's Kerry? (Gibson) The chef had me against the wall as he desperately was looking for his heroin fix -and I slowly maneuvered to the door to get out.

_____

Across the hall Kerry had a lucrative drug dealing operation.

_____

Gentlemen.

_____

And the poker games went on all night with the dampened towels against the door.

_____

Don't put doubts into the minds of children. Self-doubt can squash dreams.

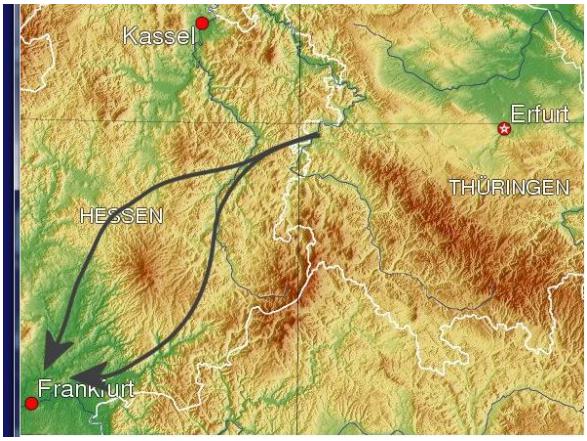
_____

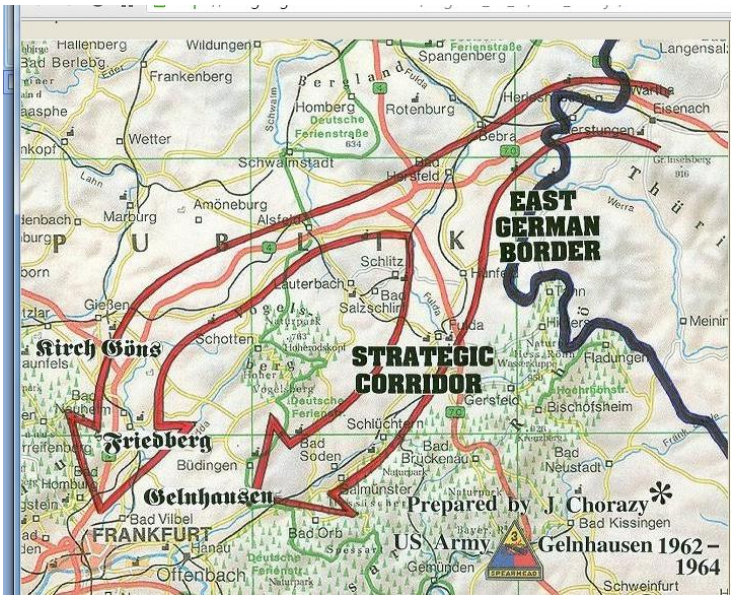
You'll make it shine like a baby's bottom.

_____

Stay on the right side of the fence. Giessen Army Depot Ralph Eckart

The Fulda Gap. The armpit of the Army.





"the freezing nights spent patrolling the border of freedom." Jeremy Dobos, BHA Exec. Dir

Black Horse Association Director

_____

The Border Legion's Triumphant Return
Written by Jeremy Dobos, BHA Exec. Dir.

For the first time in six years, Blackhorse troopers were again seen patrolling the Fulda gap area near the former east/west German border. Over 400 past and current troopers of the Regiment joined with hundreds of citizens of the city of Fulda, Bad Hersfeld, and Bad Kissingen to celebrate and renew old friendships and acquaintances.

The reunion, held from the 11th to the 14th of May, was a huge success. Kicking of the events was a welcome by the Lord Mayor of Fulda, Dr. Riehl.

He welcomed the veterans of the 11th Armored Cavalry Regiment back and thanked them for their service and continued friendship. "I would like to thank the American troopers for what they have done for us here in Germany," he said during the welcome speech. "We lost you as U.S. forces, as human beings, but most importantly, as our friends."

There were warmth and good feelings all around as the festivities kicked off.

The first two days involved tours of the former observation posts, nearby breweries, and former kassernes of the Regiment. A fest tent was also opened up at the former Sickels Army Airfield on Thursday and Friday night as the Blackhorse troopers reacquainted themselves with their former German neighbors.

On Saturday morning, a memorial service was held at OP Alpha, which is now preserved as a museum, to honor the sacrifices made by both 14th ACR and the 11th ACR troopers during over forty years of service in the Fulda region. Blackhorse Association president CSM (ret) John Stephens, BG (ret) Tom White, and MG (ret) John Ballantyne then dedicated a memorial on the site, now called Point Alpha.

The ceremony included all the usual frills of a US cavalry function. An honor guard from the active Regiment at Fort Irwin, led by Staff Sergeant Stephens, stood tall in their dress greens and black berets. Another trooper, mounted upon a black steed and dressed in traditional cavalry blues, completed the scene and there was no doubt that the Blackhorse had returned to post vigil once again, albeit temporarily.

A banquet on Saturday evening at the Orangerie completed the official portion of the reunion. COL (ret) Glenn Snodgrass served as master of ceremonies as the active Regiment, led by LTC Richard Douglass, presented Dr. Wolfgang Hamberger, former Lord Mayor of Fulda, and Frau Renate Stieber, former public affairs officer for the Regiment, with the Distinguished Member of the Regiment award. This award is given only to people who have contributed immeasurably to the success of the Regiment and its missions.

GEN (ret) Donn Starry, Honorary Colonel of the Regiment, then gave an inspirational keynote address to the assembled crowd, reminding everyone that "freedom isn't free." He went on to explain how the Blackhorse Regiment helped pay for that freedom by its service on the border. There was hardly a dry eye as the general recounted the constant vigilance that was the hallmark of border service.

The evening was capped off by a video message from COL John Rosenberger, the current RCO, who was unable to attend because of current mission requirements at the National Training Center. Also shown was an outstanding mini-documentary recounting the 11th ACR's twenty years of service on the border was shown. The documentary, produced by Blackhorse trooper Tom Smart and his great team of volunteers, will soon be available for purchase in the Sutler Store online. This is a definite must if you want to experience the feeling and greatness of the border legion again.

Fulda 2000 was a great success thanks to the efforts of many outstanding Blackhorse troopers. Old friendships were renewed and new acquaintances made, between both the citizens of Fulda and the 11th ACR's troopers, both past and present. Those who served on the border share a special bond that can never be broken. The freezing nights spent patrolling the border of freedom and manning the lonely OPs must never be forgotten. And it is well that we never forget those stalwart Blackhorse troopers who pulled point for a nation.

We're here to preserve a way of life – your own.

There were helicopter sorties by day and night.

_____

The dichotomy.

_____

At an election rally in Fulda – I met Helmut Kohl. And Frank Blechmann translated Impatience has its virtues.

_____

_____

My soul awakened to the wonders and the history of the Continent.

_____

Not wanting to play the part of the ugly American but to demonstrate a sincere and genuine interest of the European Continent unfolding before me.

_____

The subtly of history.

_____

Mr. Cell. Professor Charles Shaffer Wittenberg University

_____

Alleys of life.

_____

I love Berlin.

_____

At one time the thriving part of the city Alexanderplatz – was now divided. (but in 1805, after a visit by Russian Tsar Alexander I it was renamed to Alexanderplatz.)

The coming darkness. Cloudy. Thanksgiving Day November cold Nothing but crows.

Thanksgiving Day November 25, 1976

One moment in time. The stars of the sky. The Moon. The cathedral bells peeling and announcing the Lord's birth. And me. All alone walking home from the Mass. The snow covered the street that connects Fulda to Haimbach. All alone. Looking out over the city.

Konrad Adenauer. Ludwig Ehrhart

It was that nudge. It was the reminder of the Holy Trinity looking out after me.

And the people of East Germany really wanted this? Walter Ulbrecht? Erich Honnecker?

_____

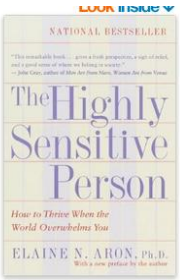
DELMAR – USAEUR – OCR – WIX – TDY – BANNER –

_____

There has to be reason for all of this.

_____

The emotional roller coaster ride affected my HSB (Highly Sensitive Being) too profoundly.



_____

Looking through a keyhole – profoundly.

_____

My poor chapped hands. Licking them to make them feel better. And the resulting scarring took years to heal.

_____

Robert would, years later, die in a hail of gunfire.

Jeffrey G.Hough;	Stephen F. Kenniston;	Robert Hemphill
GSE Systems		15 August AD 2005 gunned down Poudre Canyon
Father – Goodyear	B. F. Goodrich Research	M.D. Heart Surgeon

A trench shovel would save his life.

_____

We packed the Church so the Shutzstaffe (SS) could not get to the front to arrest the minister. Edith Landsberg recalling a moment in Hitler's Berlin – Westminster Church Moment of Concern

The Milwaukee Journal - Aug 24, 1969

Miss Landsberg Is Wed to John Andrew Mogen

A reception at the home of the bride's parents, Dr. and Mrs. Manfred Landsberg, 3067 S. Superior st., was held Saturday after Miss Kristine Landsberg was married to John Andrew Mogen. United Lutheran church was the scene of the wedding.

The couple is on a wedding trip to Aruba in the Dutch West Indies. They will live in Akron, Ohio, where the bridegroom has been living. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sigvard M. Mogen, Dodge Center, Minn.

The bride is a graduate of Milwaukee University school and Northwestern university. She has done graduate work at Harvard university and the University of Wisconsin. She was a teacher for 14 months at the American international school in New Delhi, India.

Mogen holds a bachelor's and a master's degree from the University of Minnesota. He has studied on an Organization of American States (OAS) fellowship in Bogota, Colombia, and also took part in the Cornell university Latin American internship program in Santiago, Chile.

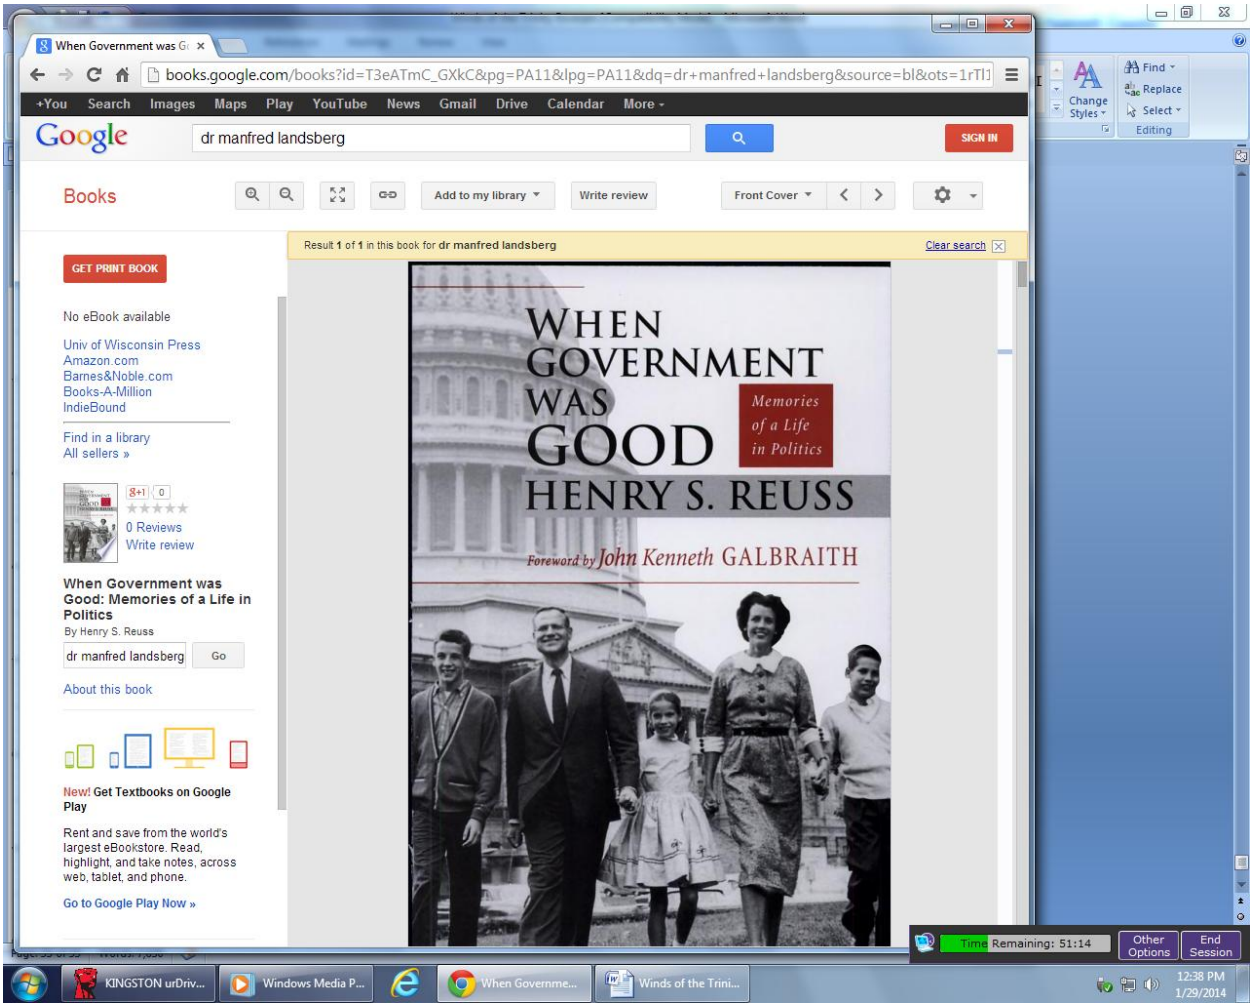
Mrs. John Andrew Mogen

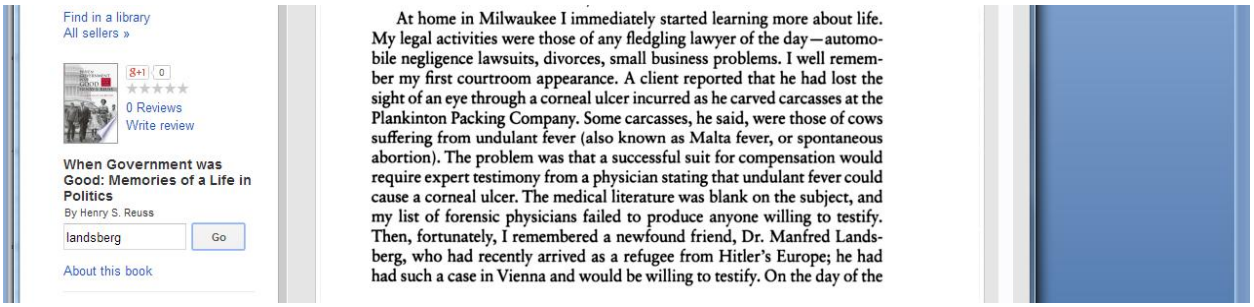
Miss Ledin Married to Lt. Rotter

MISS Barbara Ann Ledin and Lt. Kenneth James Rotter were married Saturday at the home of her par-

T. J. Christy, Miss Westfall Are Married

EMMANUEL Lutheran church, Wisconsin Rapids, was the setting Saturday when Thomas Joseph Christy married Miss Shelley Ann





At home in Milwaukee I immediately started learning more about life. My legal activities were those of any fledgling lawyer of the day—automobile negligence lawsuits, divorces, small business problems. I well remember my first courtroom appearance. A client reported that he had lost the sight of an eye through a corneal ulcer incurred as he carved carcasses at the Plankinton Packing Company. Some carcasses, he said, were those of cows suffering from undulant fever (also known as Malta fever, or spontaneous abortion). The problem was that a successful suit for compensation would require expert testimony from a physician stating that undulant fever could cause a corneal ulcer. The medical literature was blank on the subject, and my list of forensic physicians failed to produce anyone willing to testify. Then, fortunately, I remembered a newfound friend, Dr. Manfred Landsberg, who had recently arrived as a refugee from Hitler's Europe; he had had such a case in Vienna and would be willing to testify. On the day of the

1 of 1 in this book for manfred landsberg Clear search

DISCOVERING THE CAUSE and the
CURE FOR AMERICA'S HEALTH CARE CRISIS

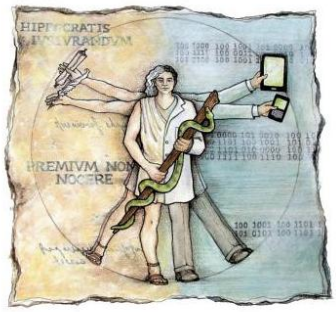
A Physician's Memoir



ROGER H. STRUBE, M.D.
FOREWORD BY WESLEY WALLACE, M.D
COVER ART BY RIJALYNNE SAARI-PEREZ

front stairwell wound around a small closet off the front living room. We immediately saw the promise in this location and the space. The front living room closet would become the record room; the pantry would become lab space and the back bedroom would become an X-ray facility.

Manfred Landsberg, M.D., had used this space several years earlier as a physician's office, so the community was used to having a small practice in the building and the rooms had already been converted for practical use as an office. He lived in Bay View within blocks of where I grew up. Coincidentally, back in high school, his daughter, Tina, had been part of our circle of friends. The offices were rather dark and dingy, since they had been not been occupied or redecorated in a very long time. All the office and medical equipment were gone. Dr. Landsberg had apparently used the back bedroom for his X-ray equipment. The bedroom closet had the plumbing in place for a film-developing tank. The black walls and chemical stains on the floor matched the mental picture from my medical school rotation through radiology at Milwaukee County General Hospital.

56

Discovering the Cause and the Cure for America's Health Care Crisis

Dr. from Vienna Mrs. Manfred (Edith) Landsberg; Mrs. Lydia Hugh Colopy; Frank Gross – Nations and their emigration/immigration laws

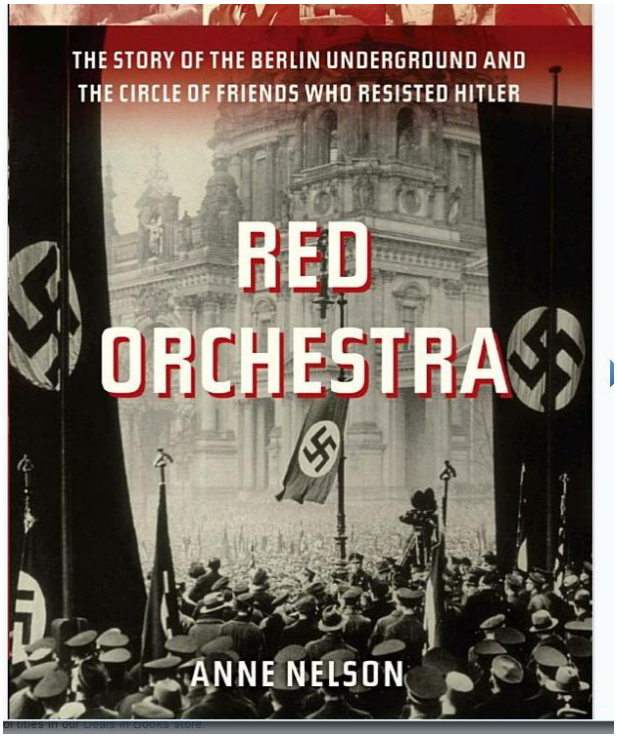
Spouse(s). Lydia Berthelsdorf Melliand Anne Nelson The Red Orchestra CIA Files

-

National Soaring Museum
Dr. Frank R. Gross

http://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Gross_Sky_Ghost

Lydia Berthelsdorf Melliand Colopy & 1st husband Marcel Melliand and The Red Orchestra –she was imprisoned in Heidelberg



http://www.foia.cia.gov/sites/default/files/document_conversions/1705143/ROEDER,%20MANFRED_0013.pdf

Bishop Richard Lennon

The Tribunal's Lynette Tate

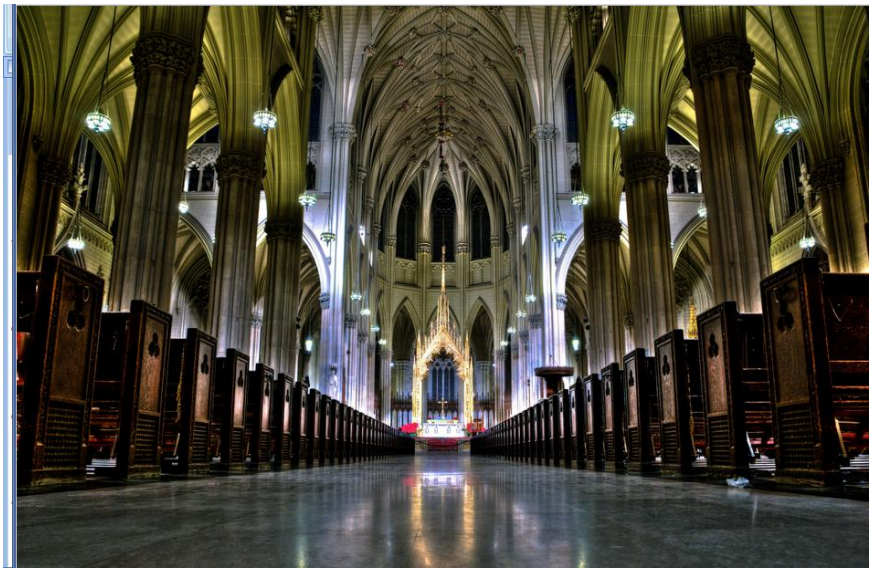
_____

I am a Roaming Christian

_____

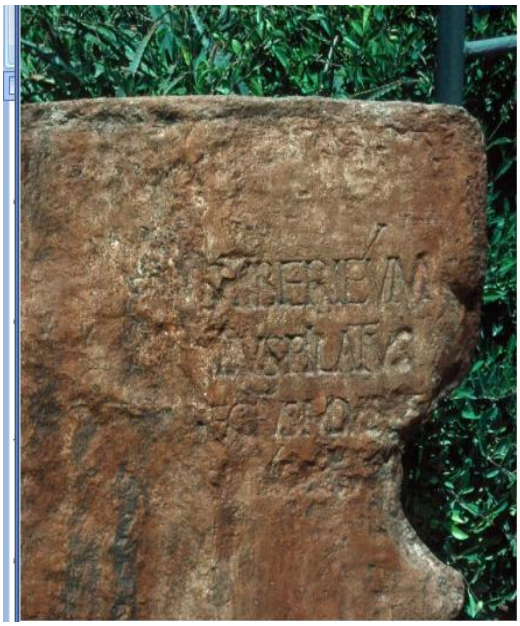
I was tapped on the shoulder and asked to serve as an usher for the collection at St Patrick's Cathedral.

And even though I was not a Catholic, was I going to forego this opportunity?



_____

He died under Pontius Pilate. No! He died under Tiberius Caesar.



_____

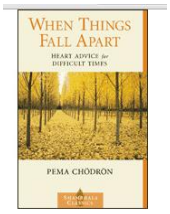
I had just exited from an industrial complex called education – and my daughter was just a cog in the wheel. And as I stood by the car – a full moon was rising overhead – giving pause as I wondered.

_____

Not death again.

_____

When Things Fall Apart.



_____

Stand as a pillar for reconciliation.

_____

They wanted me to see a psychiatrist and I said no.

_____

The AD 325 Nicene Creed spans the ages as a reminder of what we, as Christians, believe.

_____

Sunday March 6, 1836.

Sunday March 6, 1955.

_____

The Winds of the Trinity are forever breathing new questions into my soul.

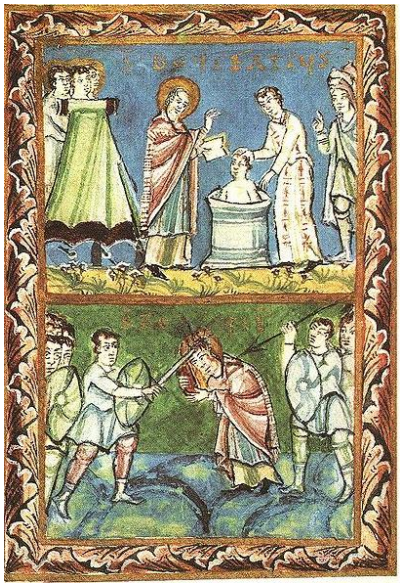
_____

Seated ten rows away from was Pope John Paul II. Wednesday 26 October 1983.

_____

Fulda…das ist Fulda. Fulda hier.

Algae and Boniface
In the collection of the Cleveland Museum of Art



Death of Boniface AD 754

_____

Judgments are still made. Jealousies still exist. Smiles are not exchanged.

_____

The congruence of our support of Israel and a reminder of the power of the Almighty and storms.

_____

Singing draws upon the beauty of our soul and we share it with the world.

_____

There will always be a song in my heart.

_____

I gave you love, I thought that we. Had made it to the top. I gave you all I had to give. Why did it have to stop? You've blown it all sky high. By telling me a lie Jigsaw

_____

Through music, as we inhale, the Winds of the Trinity reach deep into our soul.

_____

Who wants to eat?

_____

The fire was going out and they realized there would be no escape. They laughed! (Man who would be King)

Detriments? Detriments?

_____

The nation was their child.

_____

Peace at any price?

_____

Scotch and soda – the rain – and the last car on the train. John Heard of St Augustine and Mr. Stanley Pinder of Tampa – December 26, 2006. (Later to die having been hit by a train October 2007)

Morelli, Keith. "Train Fatality May Have Been Suicide, Investigators Say."
The Tampa Tribune. 29 October 2007 (Stanley Pinder)

_____

Often the best commentary isn't found in the actual text of the book – but in those itty-bitty footnotes.

_____

The calming byproduct of tears.

_____

Ilona Taussky – chemist food additives – use of animal grease

Ilona Taussky (1903 - 1989)

Ilona Taussky (1 - 2 of 2 results)

Patent Litigation Support

i-runway.com

Code Analysis & Reverse Engineering Experience of 120+ Litigations

John Amara

Research Chemist

Greater Boston Area | Biotechnology

14 patents

1 Improvements in or relating to the manufacture of shortenings and food compositions produced therewith. Ilona Taussky February 25, 1947: GB585799-A (1 worldwide citation)

Soaps are prepared by saponifying untreated, elaidinated or hydrogenated jojoba nut oil. The saponification of the untreated oil may be hastened by emulsifying the oil, before saponification, with some saponified substance, for example the soaps of jojoba nut oil fatty acids obtained in a previous s ...

2 Improvements in or relating to the treatment of oils. Permutit, Reginald Milton, Ilona Taussky October 23, 1940: GB528129-A

528,129. Purifying oils. PERMUTIT CO., Ltd., MILTON, R., and TAUSSKY, I. April 27, 1939, No. 12677. [Class 91] Animal and vegetable oils are decolorized by sodium hypochlorite solution in presence of ceric sulphate. Alkali may be present, and treatment with bleaching earth may follow. Preferably the ...

_____

Righteous in listening attentively.

_____

A holding action against the surging media coverage. "Great job, Dave, in keeping them away." Rocky MacDonald

_____

In the corner of the plane was Congressman Ralph Regula (R-OH). July 1988 for my interview with J. Peter Segall of the Washington DC based Madison Group (Ed Gabriel) then John Sparks

John D. Sparks is the organization's first Director of Advocacy and Communications. Mr. Sparks has more than 25 years of experience in Washington and New York in lobbying, coalition building, media relations, political campaigns, and nonprofit executive leadership. Most recently, he was Director of Campaign Finance Reform at the public interest group Common Cause. Previous postings include Vice President for Government and Public Affairs at the American Symphony Orchestra League for nine years, and extensive work in nonprofit rights, human rights, energy resources, transportation, civil society, and government reform. He served as press secretary to two members of the U.S. House of Representatives, and was director of government relations for two Washington public affairs firms.

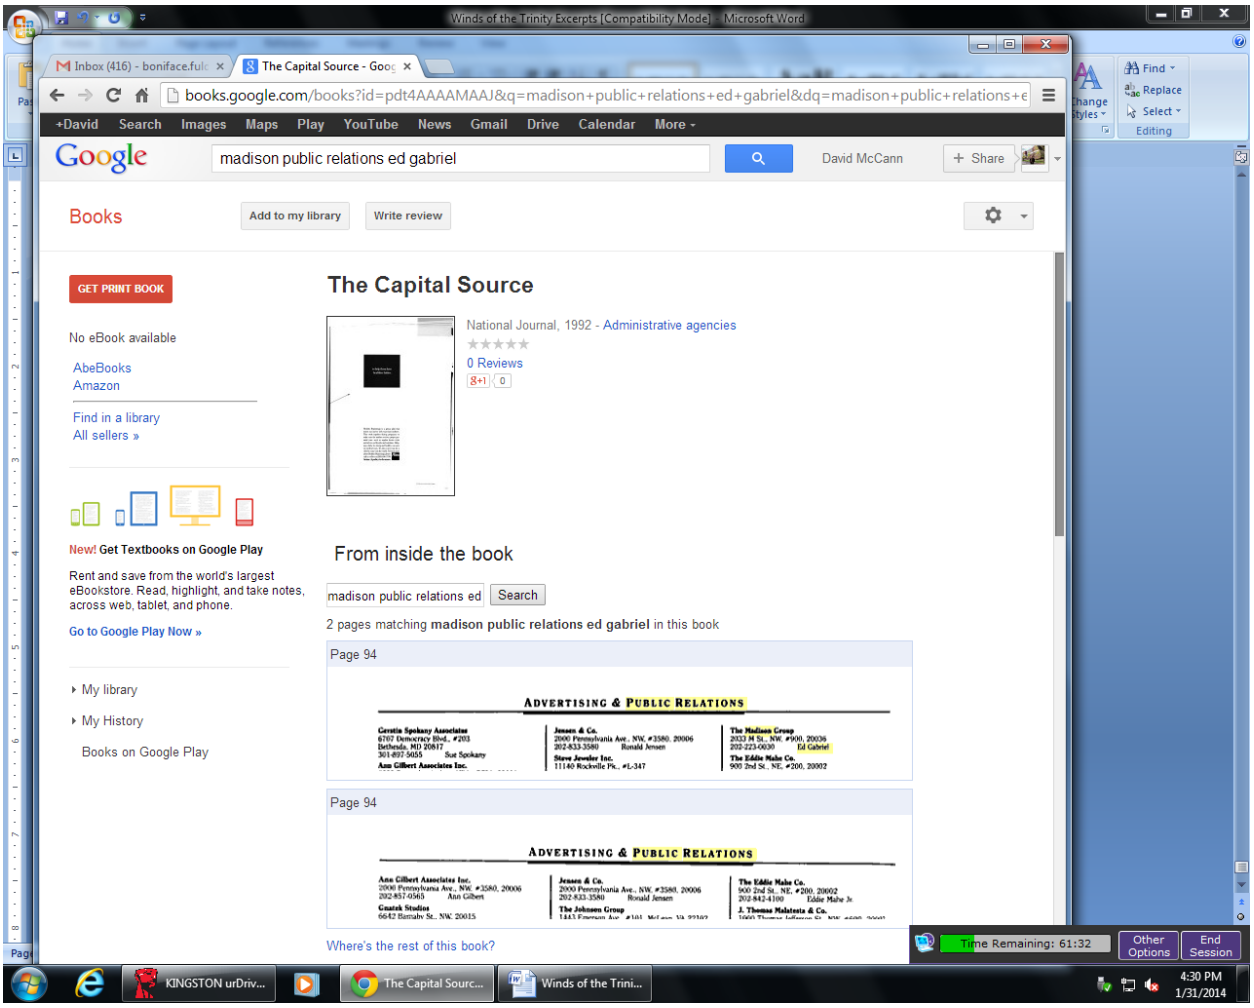
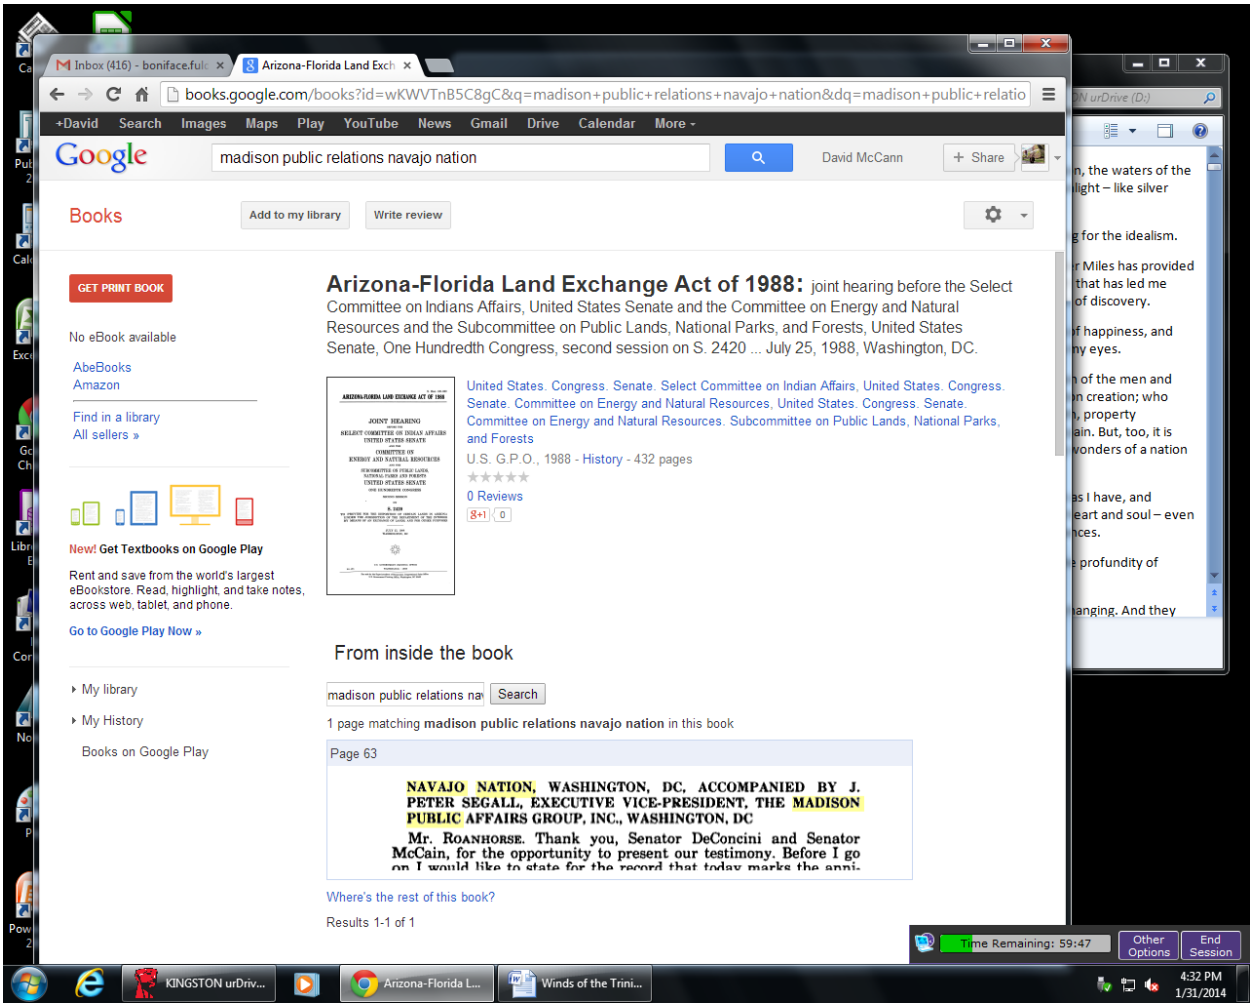
Covering their tails … Sally Glass, J. Peter Segall, Ed Gabriel, John Sparks

Cleaning up history.





Inbox (416) - boniface.fulc
Arizona-Florida Land Exch books.google.com/books?id=wKWVTnB5C8gC&q=madison+public+relations+navajo+nation&dq=madison+public+relatio +David Search Images Maps Play YouTube News Gmail Drive Calendar More Google
madison public relations navajo nation
David McCann
Share
Books
Add to my library
Write review
GET PRINT BOOK
No eBook available
AbeBooks
Amazon
Find in a library
All sellers »
New! Get Textbooks on Google Play
Rent and save from the world's largest eBookstore. Read, highlight, and take notes, across web, tablet, and phone.
Go to Google Play Now »
My library
My History
Books on Google Play
Arizona-Florida Land Exchange Act of 1988: joint hearing before the Select Committee on Indians Affairs, United States Senate and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources and the Subcommittee on Public Lands, National Parks, and Forests, United States Senate, One Hundredth Congress, second session on S. 2420 ... July 25, 1988, Washington, DC.
United States. Congress. Senate. Select Committee on Indian Affairs, United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Energy and Natural Resources, United States. Congress. Senate. Committee on Energy and Natural Resources. Subcommittee on Public Lands, National Parks, and Forests
U.S. G.P.O., 1988 - History - 432 pages
0 Reviews
From inside the book madison public relations na
Search
1 page matching madison public relations navajo nation in this book
Page 63
NAVAJO NATION, WASHINGTON, DC, ACCOMPANIED BY J. PETER SEGALL, EXECUTIVE VICE-PRESIDENT, THE MADISON PUBLIC AFFAIRS GROUP, INC., WASHINGTON, DC
Mr. ROANHORSE. Thank you, Senator DeConcini and Senator McCain, for the opportunity to present our testimony. Before I go Where's the rest of this book?
Results 1-1 of 1
Time Remaining: 59:47
Other Options
End Session
KINGSTON urDriv...
Arizona-Florida L...
Winds of the Trini...
4:32 PM
1/31/2014

DOCUMENT RESUME

ED 325 263 RC 017 684

TITLE A Report of the Special Committee on Investigations of the Select Committee on Indian Affairs. Final Report and Legislative Recommendations. Senate, 101st Congress, 1st Session (November 6, 1989).

INSTITUTION Congress of the U.S., Washington, D.C. Senate Select Committee on Indian Affairs.

REPORT NO Senate-R-101-216

PUB DATE 20 Nov 89

NOTE 237p.; Some pages have broken type.

AVAILABLE FROM Superintendent of Documents, Congressional Sales Office, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, DC 20402.

PUB TYPE Reports - Descriptive (141) -- Legal/Legislative/Regulatory Materials (090)

EDRS PRICE MF01/PC10 Plus Postage.

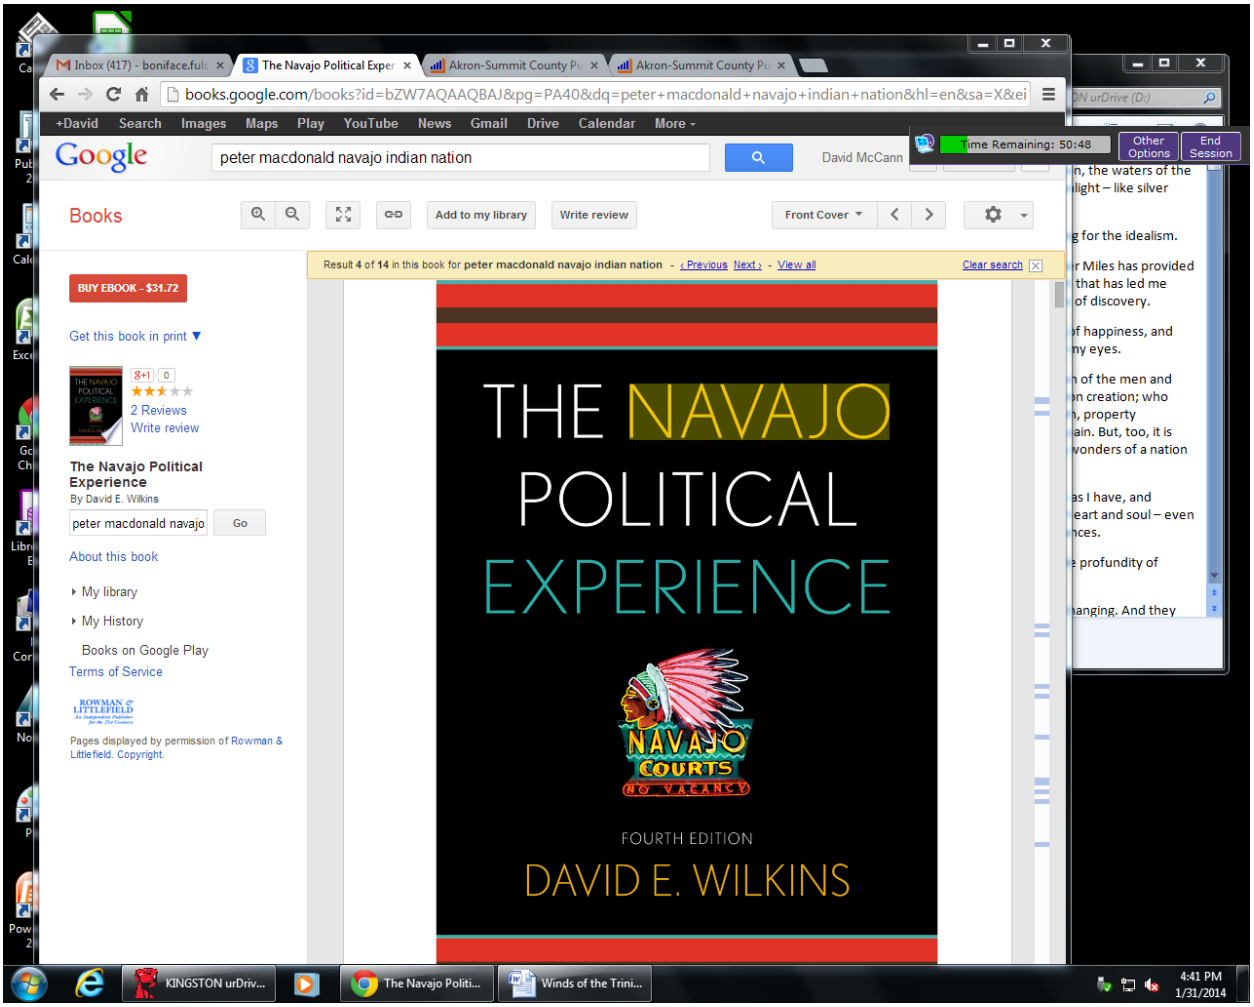
DESCRIPTORS American Indian Reservations; *American Indians; Federal Aid; Federal Government; *Federal Indian Relationship; *Federal Regulation; *New Federalism; *Reservation American Indians; Treaties; *Tribal Sovereignty; Tribes

IDENTIFIERS Congress 101st

ABSTRACT

In 1987, the United States Senate established the Special Committee to investigate American Indian affairs. Fraud, corruption, and mismanagement were found pervading the institutions serving American Indians. Corruption was also discovered in Indian tribal governments. The Committee faulted Congress for failing to adequately oversee and reform Indian affairs. After 2 years, the Committee reported that the pattern of abuse is endemic because Congress has never fully rejected the paternalism of the 19th century. The U.S. government maintains a stifling bureaucratic presence in Indian country, and fails to deal with tribal governments as responsible partners. The Committee recommends the creation of a new federalism for American Indians which negotiates agreements with tribes, abolishes paternalism and, while providing the requisite federal funds, allows tribal governments to stand free, independent, responsible, and accountable. This report provides a brief history of congressional investigations and American Indian affairs from 1789 to 1989. The report lists findings on economic development and Indian preference contracting, child sexual abuse in federal schools, the federal government and American Indian natural resources, the Indian Health Service, Indian housing, and corruption among tribal governmental officials. Legislative recommendations are included. (ALL)

****
* Reproductions supplied by EDRS are the best that can be made *
* from the original document. *
****



I was hopeful about the positive things I could do for the Navajo Indian Nation.

Sweet are the uses of adversity.

Act II. Scene I.

The Forest of Arden.

Enter DUKE Senior, AMIENS, and other Lords, like Foresters.

Duke S. Now, my co-mates and brothers in exile,
Hath not old custom made this life more sweet
Than that of painted pomp? Are not these woods
More free from peril than the envious court?
Here feel we but the penalty of Adam,
The seasons' difference; as, the icy fang
And churlish chiding of the winter's wind,
Which, when it bites and blows upon my body,
Even till I shrink with cold, I smile and say
'This is no flattery: these are counsellors
That feelingly persuade me what I am.'
Sweet are the uses of adversity,
Which like the toad, ugly and venomous,
Wears yet a precious jewel in his head;
And this our life exempt from public haunt,
Finds tongues in trees, books in the running brooks,
Sermons in stones, and good in every thing.

_____

Poor Larry Speakes making up quotes; and the Navajo Indian Nation and the Madison Group do you have the quotes?

_____

Much ado About Nothing

_____

"We'll get him."

_____

May I have the key to Room 214? Best Western Space Age Hotel Anaheim California

_____

We've been here before.

_____

Crying time is over.

_____

The Presidential Oath memorized at age 11 January 20, 1965 … repeated again again again (standing in front of the television broadcasting in black and white – The Huntley Brinkley Report – 1830 hours Monday 20 January 1965

NBC News Archives

_____

I'm dying I'm dying.

_____

Sitting still I could not swallow and I was so afraid

_____

Here comes the judge

_____

"Remember the Children Domestic Relations Court; and the Summit County Prosecutor Child Support Enforcement Agency" "We'll get him." "Are you sure you want to go there?" (Prosecutorial overzealousness

_____

What doing?

Hot!

Boy Dah!

_____

From conception to death.

_____

I could write you up 1976 – 2006

_____

You're fired.

_____

Here come the Yanks! (St. Catharine's Grap and Wine Festival)

_____

You're nothing more than a male chauvinist pig.

_____

He put the cuff links in my hand. J. Robert Wilson Roadway Express

_____

I'll have that – thinking it was a hamburger but it was filet mignon!

_____

…and today we will nominate a candidate a man or a woman whatever the case may be…

"Dear God," he whispered under his breath – Oliver Ocasek – as he was introduced to the convention

First meeting Bettie Riggs 4th grade class 1965 – who will be the first governor from Summit County?

_____

Madden Card Company.

_____

You're fired.

_____

Nanny's nervous breakdown – and no grieving process

_____

I could write you up

_____

"Your club (Rotary) couldn't afford me." Jeb Stuart Magruder

_____

There were ants in the peanut butter. But I was hungry and happy as I sat in the shade of the oak tree in the front yard, to stick my fingers in the discarded peanut butter jar.

_____

Don't touch anything.

_____

Nosebleed or not – you're going to school.

_____

“I ask for your help.”

_____

There was Barry Goldwater – straight shooter Barry – and then I was in the prone position with a tape recorder in my hand on the floor trying to record his remarks.

The beginning of the Jack Abramoff syndrome.

_____

Truthful communication with the media.

_____

Now – who was the client? Peter MacDonald or the Navajo Indian Nation. (Madison Group – Pine media)
Rocky MacDonald “You’re doing great keeping the media away.”

_____

Peter MacDonald and wife Wanda

Hopis and the Navajo Nation and John Sparks

Pound a nail Mr. Chairman!

Something was wrong when I had to hype the story and surround in such mystery – "We'll assemble at the Holbrook (AZ) Best Western Hotel ."

_____

NAVAJO CHAIRMAN DEFIES HOPI TRIBE

LARRY LOPEZ , Associated Press
Aug. 27, 1988 7:27 PM ET

TEESTO, ARIZ. TEESTO, Ariz. (AP) _ A group of Navajo Indians led by Tribal Chairman Peter MacDonald defied the Hopi Tribe and a congressional mandate Saturday and began repairing homes located on Hopi land.

The Navajo-Hopi Relocation Act of 1974 partitioned some 1.8 million acres of land that once was occupied by both tribes. The Hopis have left land assigned to the Navajos, but about 200 Navajo families refuse to leave land now designated as Hopi.

Federal officials and Hopi Chairman Ivan Sidney contended the Navajos should get permission from the Hopi Tribe before making repairs to those homes, but MacDonald said Navajos would not consent to relocation, as the Hopis wanted in return for permission.

MacDonald, wearing a brand new tool belt and blue jeans rather than his customary three-piece suit, watched as tribal employees and volunteers put a new roof and windows in a home owned by Jeannie Paddock, 75.

Other volunteers worked on homes elsewhere on the land, the ownership of which has been disputed by the two tribes for more than a century. Some repair plans went awry as rain turned dirt roads into mud bogs, and two cement mixers sank to their hubs.

MacDonald said crews would continue work Sunday and Monday, beginning with homes in the greatest state of disrepair.

"These families have a right to repair their houses," he said. "These people don't want to leave. They believe they belong here."

He added that he feared Navajo children and elderly tribal members could die if their homes were not repaired before the onset of a cold winter.

Sidney said MacDonald should provide homes on Navajo land if he's so concerned about his tribe's well-being.

"MacDonald talks about relieving hardships and building houses on our land, but if he is really worried about relieving hardships, why can't he build them homes on his side?" Sidney said Friday.

But MacDonald said people like Mrs. Paddock do not want to leave their traditional homes and Mrs. Paddock, speaking through an interpreter, agreed.

"For many years I have been asking for repairs," she said. "This is our land. This is where we were born and we're going to resist. We're not going anywhere."

Sidney has said the Hopis will go to court to seek a restraining order against MacDonald.

HOPI LEADER TO ASK FEDERAL COURTS TO RESOLVE LAND FEUD WITH NAVAJOS

Associated Press
Published: Sunday, Aug. 28 1988 12:00 a.m. MDT

But MacDonald aides told reporters to gather at a hotel near the Hopi lands Saturday to accompany the Navajo chairman on a trip.

The aides declined to say where MacDonald was heading, but Sidney said he assumed MacDonald would go to Hopi land and participate in the construction.

Letter of Paul to the Philippians (Greece) The reading at Sacred Heart Cathedral Gallup New Mexico

September 4 , 1988

"I can do all this through Him who gives me strength – Paul's letter to the Philippians 4:13

_____

Jim Croll from Gallup's KGAK picked me up, Sunday, September 1988

_____

We drove to Phoenix – speeding and the officer kindly asked whether there was a medical emergency in the car.

_____

Donovan, Bill. The Riot of 89. Navajo Times 16 July 1989 (2 dead)

_____

We would put our own spin on it.

_____

Exact. Concise. Maccom and Business Information Systems. Access Democracy 2000 Plus

_____

"He's only human." Reverend Father William Karg's comment about the defrocked priest

_____

And then he is quoted as a Bliss Institute participant September 2013 (defrocked priest Joseph Lieberth)

_____

Why would you want to do that?

_____

"I want you to be a Reagan delegate (1980) – I need someone in their midst from my camp I can trust."

_____

The libraries of my life!

Brooklin, Maine, Philadelphia Public Library, American Philosophical Society, Centre County Public Library (Bellefonte , Pennsylvania), Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania (Dusquense University, Point Park University, Carnegie Mellon University), Google books website, The Church of Latter Day Saints (and its familysearch.org website), the Library of Congress, The College of Wooster (Ohio), Corcoran Museum of Art (Washington DC), Ms. Marianne Henein (Washington DC), Cuyahoga Community College (Cleveland Ohio), Walsh College (Canton, Ohio), Toledo, Ohio Public Library, The University of Akron (Ohio), Roger Durbin, PhD, Nancy Stokes, Kent State University (Ohio), the Kenyon College Library (Gambier, Ohio), The Church of Latter Day Saints (and their familysearch.org website), Samford University (Birmingham, Alabama) the Houston, Texas San Jacinto, Museum, The College of William and Mary – Swem Library, Pennsylvania Historical Society, Joyce Adgate of the Centre County Library, Bellefonte, Pennsylvania, The Winterthur Library (Delaware) – Downs Collection of Manuscripts, Case Western Reserve University Kelvin Smith Library (Cleveland, Ohio), the Free Library of Philadelphia, Midwest Infrared's Rich Mansfield, and the Pittsburgh based Duquesne University, Point Park University, the University of Pittsburgh, and the Carnegie Mellon University libraries, Denison University, Mid Continent, Independence Missouri, Tyrell Historical Library Beaumont, Texas, Kenyon College, Wittenberg University, John Harvard University, Poland Ohio Public Library, Oberlin College School of Art, Orlando Florida Special Collections Division,

_____

1959 Florida following the death of Donald Pfeiffer

1958 Akron Canton and Youngstown Railroad

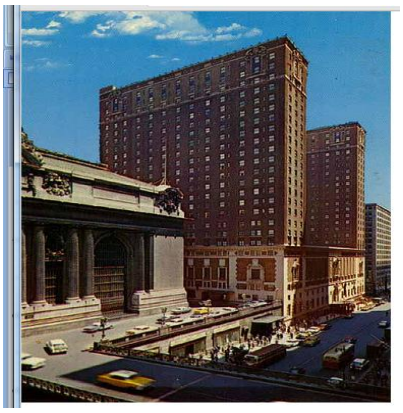
1960 Williamsburg a great storm – Virginia Beach – Marilyn's Inn

Description

Title	Marilyn's Inn, On the Ocean, Virginia Beach, Virginia
Subject	Postcards--Virginia--Virginia Beach; Inns--Virginia--Virginia Beach
Publisher	Virginia Beach Public Library
Type	Image
Format	jpg
Collection	Edgar T. Brown Collection, Virginia Beach Public Library
Rights	Contact Virginia Beach Public Library for conditions of use

1961 Niagara Falls Locks of the St Lawrence Seaway

1962 New York City The Commodore Hotel Ocean City New Jersey



1963 Detroit and Greenfield Village - Stouffer's Top of the Flame

atdetroit.net

(Detroit translated from the French – "strait"

1964 – The death of grace Sarah Duncan – Cedar Point – the speech and Principal Overfield response

1965 – 727 4010 Galt Ocean Mile #604 Fort Lauderdale Florida

1966 California

1967 Expo 67 Montreal "Come one come all to Expo 67 Montreal" – August 1967 - surgery

1968

April - Florida

The last family vacation – Williamsburg and Virginia Beach The Cavalier Hotel

1969 - Washington DC Inauguration

Scout Jamboree Idaho

1970 – Camp Y Noah

1971 – College Tour – Jeff and Mr. Hough Toronto

1972 – Marc Collard Belgium – St. Catherine's Grape and Wine Tour – March 1972 spring break trip Florida

1973 – Presidential Inauguration – Delaware and brother's wedding

1974 – Army service Springfield Ohio Hamilton Ohio Ft. Knox Kentucky / last trip Colorado

1975 – Ft Harrison Indiana Giessen Germany – to Fulda Germany

1976 – London trip – Vienna – Marriage of Kim and Chris Peters – Zurich – Berlin (November) – Parents to Rotenburg ob de tauber – Taygensee –Salzburg – home by train

1977 – Canary Islands – Geneva – Home

Washington DC George Washington University – drive to Florida The oldsmobile

1978 – December Train/bus from Tampa trip to Naples Fliorida; Ft Campbell Kentucky

1979 – Niagara Falls – Indianapolis - East Coast train – Boston – NYC – Delaware – NYC

1980 - CIA –Cincinnati

1981 – CIA Indianapolis/Washington, NYC corner street Macy's' Naples Florida;

1982 – New York City significantly – Goldman Sachs – NAGC conference Baltimre

1983 – Honey moon – NYC and east coast – train – Salt Fork - Niagara Falls – Europe

1984 – East Coast

1985 – Australia

1986 – Cape Hatteras (ferry Swan Quarter) Mary

1987 – NAGC train from Canton – Greenbriar

1988 – Marriage Don and Jennifer University of Virgina campus - Charlottesville

Train to Commerce Department Export business

Navajo Indian Nation – Washington – Phoenix- Gallup New Mexico – Window Rock

1989 California The van – Dallas – John Chamberlain – San Antonio

1990 – They to Cape Hatteras

1991 – Garrett – Washington – Williamsburg – Virginia then the Wyant Woods era

1992 – Washington Virginia Beach

1993 – To Delaware – Columbus/

1994 – Ian

1995 – Delaware

1996, 1997, 1998

1999 – Surgery and the house

2000 – The limousine to Cedar Point

2001, 2002 – July 2001 Mary McCann and Elizabeth Carracher to Washington -

2003 – Washington Presidential Classroom

2004 – Mary to Honduras

2005 – Mary to Spain; Northampton Massachusetts Calvin Coolidge Library

2006 – Kids to Smith College on the train Garrett to New York City – I'm out – Europe

2007 – Florida – the east coast research trip - East to Virginia following summer teaching

2008 – Kent State University teaching; the Court adventure

2009 – Pittsburgh Point Park University; California by train

2010 – December begins LJMC era –

2011 – College of Wooster (Arch) archives

2012 – Washington February recovery – July -Maine – LJMC era ends

2013 – August Virginia train

2014 – Florida